USE TO UTMOST BILLION DOLLAR CHICAGO SHORE

Lake Gives Beauty and Riches to City.

MAKE CHICAGO THE FIRST CITY IN THE WORLD

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Nowhere is Chicago's traditional spirit better reflected than in its use of Lake Michigan, nature's greatest gift to the city. Here is a part inventory of the stewardship:

More than 80 million dollars has been spent by Chicago in recent years on its lake shore program, which has developed a water front unsurpassed in any other inland city. The Chicago Plan commission estimates it will take 70 to 100 millions more to complete it from Howard street to Calumet.

To preserve Lake Michigan from pollution and to keep the waters pure for drinking, bathing, and boating, and to give a water outlet to the Gulf of Mexico, the Chicago sanitary district has spent 230 million dollars. When the sewage treatment program is complete a few years hence the total spent since 1892 will have reached 333 million dollars.

Boasts Great Water System.

A billion gallons or more a day is pumped by Chicago in a water system which has a book value (depreciated) of 130 million dollars and to replace which would cost an estimated 240 million dollars. It gives abundant pure water at low cost.

Thus on these three phases alone the city has spent 440 million dollars and when the plans are carried out the investment will be at least 625 million.

This figure does not include the cost of lake front buildings such as the Field Museum of Natural History, Navy pier, Art institute, Shedd aquarium, Adler planetarium, Buckingham fountain. Nor does it include an estimated 150 millions spent by the federal government on harbors and by private enterprise in wharves, docks, and water carrier facilities in the Chicago and Calumet rivers, nor the 28 millions spent on the Illinois waterway to link the lakes with the gulf, nor millions spent in former years to protect and improve the old shore line with sea walls and esplanades.

A Billion Dollar Water Front.

Figure all this in and some statisticians say when all pending projects are finished the amount spent since the civil war on Lake Michigan, its shore line, and its original tributary waters at Chicago now flowing into the gulf will run almost to 825 million dollars. This includes the money spent by private enterprise.

It's a billion dollar water front now so far as beauty goes.

The original plan for developing a continuous lake front park from the Evanston line to Calumet was the inspiration of the late Daniel H. Burnham. It was drawn in its first form in 1896 and became a basis of the Chicago plan.

When the Commercial club in 1909 published its plan it was widely known as the "City Beautiful" scheme, later officially recognized as the Chicago plan. Many in the early days deemed it a Utopian dream, but under the plan the physical appearance of Chicago has been vastly changed.

And the Waters Receded.

Nowhere has the dream come truer than on the water front. In the last 15 years more than 1,400 acres have risen from the waters. They stretch for 16 miles along the shore.

The outer drive is without counterpart—its present need is the bridge over the mouth of the river. Eventually the shore drive is to reach from the Indiana boundary to Milwaukee and beyond.

The Chicago park commission computes that from 1920 to 1931 the south parks issued bonds for lake shore development amounting to $57,685,000; on the north side, Lincoln park bonds [1925-1931] for similar purposes totaled $23,000,000.

Total acreage in the south shore extension from Roosevelt road to 67th street is set at 1,200, of which 646 acres are now completed in Burnham park and Northerly Island. The remaining acreage will consist of a chain of connected islands.

On the north side 624 acres have been reclaimed into parks. The Chicago Plan commission indicates that the next extension, from Foster to Devon, will see the beginning of a chain of islands along the north shore.

One part of the program calls for the extension of the outer drive between Oak street and North avenue, and formation of a new beach from North to Fullerton avenue.

GOVERNMENT 'GONE MAD' SAYS OHIO EXECUTIVE

Make State Battle Ground for '36.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

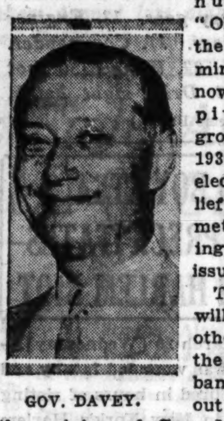
Columbus, O., March 19.—[Special.]—Ohio, "mother of Presidents," and nursery of the "Ohio gang" of the Harding administration, has now become a pivotal battleground of the 1936 presidential election, with relief frauds and methods emerging as a major issue.



GOV. DAVEY.

That this issue will spread to other states, like the spread of the banking troubles out of Detroit, is the opinion of Gov. Martin Luther Davey, who is at present in lurid combat with Harry Hopkins, national relief administrator, over a campaign contribution scandal. The fact that Gov. Davey is a Democrat gives great significance to this situation.

Smoke Screen, Says Davey.

"This," said the governor tonight, "is only a smoke screen. When all the facts are known people will laugh at it. It all went on without my knowledge while I was in Florida, but I have taken pains to inquire into it.

"The facts are that some people voluntarily contributed to the Democratic campaign fund. There was no soliciting. Since when have contributions become a sin? How will the administration run the 1936 campaign? I understand they have already began to get contributions to the Democratic national committee.

"Hopkins has insinuated that I knew something about this or ordered solicitations. For that I have sued him for criminal libel in a county in Ohio. I think I can get a fair trial. I have no information as to whether he will come out and face this trial.

Sees Legislative Quiz.

"I think we will get an investigation of this relief situation from the legislature. I know this state and I know the Democrats all over the state are sore about it. I discovered this in my campaign, when I reached every county and had 10,000 letters. The only partisan angle is that the Democrats could not get jobs. In my home town they have a pay roll of $2,000 a month and they have sent in strangers to administer it. The cost has piled up and the administration has moved farther from the people. They have to have fancy rules and college graduates. I campaigned on this issue, and that is the issue that won.

"We have immature case workers with newly acquired ideas, psychoanalyzing our victims, a theoretical sort of nonsense."

Has Own Affidavits.

Gov. Davey has some affidavits of his own which he intends to spring soon, although he realizes that he is harming the administration to which he must look for support next year in his own campaign for reëlection. Yet he says of the relief administration:

"It is government gone mad. They have increased the relief load because good jobs go with this. It is all contrary to American tradition. It is based on the idea that the government has to keep everybody whether he wants to work or not.

"This cannot go on. I came into office on promises of economy in government and promises to clean up this relief situation. I know that there are many on relief who have no right to be there. People with jobs are on relief. The professionals don't care. I know of a saloon that has taken in 175 sacks of relief flour. Places where they make racing books are beginning to deal in relief grocery orders.

Could Save 25 Per Cent.

"It is impossible to say what waste there is in the 120 million dollars a year that is spent in this work in Ohio. This is made up of eight millions a month federal money and two millions state. It is the biggest thing in the state. I am thoroughly convinced that if this was reduced to a sensible, businesslike basis that they could easily save 25 per cent and not take help from any worthy citizen. We have a deficit of 15 millions in the state in our portion of relief money.

"That is our problem. The only way to get it is more taxes. About 20 per cent of the people are on relief. I am committed to the policy of avoiding taxes and cutting costs. I have

A GOOD PLATFORM FOR THE REPUBLICAN PARTY

Roosevelt Gets Plan to Seize Profits of War

Washington, D. C., March 19.—[Special.]—The senate munitions committee received today a 12 point legislative program for "war profits control," to limit all incomes to $10,000 annually, close all commodity exchanges, confiscate by taxation all corporation profits exceeding 6 per cent and commandeer all essential industries.

That plan was presented by John T. Flynn who heads the committee's research division.

That plan, prepared at the committee's request, was discussed with President Roosevelt today. Members of the committee were called suddenly to the White House after the Flynn report was presented at a public hearing.

General Approval Seen.

Its outlines previously had been discussed with committee members by Flynn. It is expected that most of the report will be adopted by the committee when it finally presents its own recommendations.

Senator Bennett Champ Clark [Dem., Mo.] said tonight that while there might be disagreement on some points, the program represented in a general way the committee's views.

The President was represented by committee members as appearing to be in agreement with its general principles.

The plan, as disclosed at the public hearing, is as follows:

1. To take 50 per cent of the first six per cent profits of corporations and 100 per cent on all over that in excess profits.

2. To limit all individual incomes to $10,000 and to take all over that in income taxes.

3. To impose income taxes on everybody from $1,000 or less up in sufficient amount to cover war expenses.

4. To assess and collect income taxes quarterly out of income as it is made.

5. To check numerous known methods of defeating income tax levies.

Would Bare All Salaries.

6. To make public all salaries immediately upon declaration of war.

7. To effect an industrial management draft. All general officers of corporations to be registered in a draft of management and when deemed necessary inducted into military forces of the United States.

8. To close all commodity exchanges, forbid speculation in commodities, fix commodity prices at proper parities and allocate to essential processors.

9. To regulate all new private financing through a war finance agency.

10. To form a war finance corporation to assist in financing of essential war industries.

11. To commandeer essential industries and services.

12. To license industries, establish priorities in purchasing, and, when essential, fix prices.

Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the senate committee, made clear that the twelve points were not the committee's whole plan. He would hit at peace time profits on war supplies.

"In 1917 and 1918 we had our war and we sent the bill to our children and grandchildren. In the next war we must resolve, as intelligent as well as civilized beings, that while one part of the population—the army—fights in the field, the other part, that stays at home, will pay the bills," Senator Nye said.

This idea came from the chief of staf of the army, it was said. Mr. Flynn in his talk said no one should get more than the pay of a commanding general.

FRANCE HITS GERMAN REARMAMENT; STANDS BY VERSAILLES PACT

European diplomacy continued to seethe yesterday over the action of Reichsfuehrer Hitler in denouncing the military provisions of the Versailles treaty as they apply to Germany. Developments of the day briefly follow:

PARIS—France drafts stiff note to Germany denouncing Hitler's action as a violation of "human rights and international law" and announcing that, so far as France is concerned, the provisions of the Versailles treaty still stand intact.

LONDON—Great Britain, accepting as a fact Germany's rearmament, lays plans to induce Hitler to rejoin the league of nations and enter into a general European security pact on a basis of full equality.

BERLIN—Germany, displaying its new military air force, stages air raid defense drill over Berlin. City is plunged into darkness while fifty military planes roar back and forth in mock attack.

WASHINGTON—White House emphasizes that President Roosevelt will keep hands off European armament tangle at least until full reports have been received through the state department.

BRUSSELS—Belgian cabinet falls in fight to preserve gold standard.

BORROWS BOOK AND KEEPS IT FOR 72 YEARS

Jackson, Miss., March 19.—(AP)—When a fellow keeps a borrowed book seventy-two years and then offers to return it—it must be some sort of record.

The Clarion-Ledger today received a letter from Herbert G. Porter of Malden, Mass., which said:

"Gentlemen: Can you give me the address of some descendant of M. Antonia Richard, who was a resident of Jackson before 1863? I would like to return a book borrowed from her library at that time."

Both Houses in N.Y. Vote Bar on Love Suits

Albany, N. Y., March 19.—[Special.]—Both the state senate and assembly today expressed themselves overwhelmingly in favor of abolishing heart balm actions in this state. By a vote of 36 to 9 the upper legislative house passed Senator John J. McNaboe's bill to outlaw breach of promise and alienation of affections suits.

In the lower house Assemblyman Samuel Wiseman's bill—not so drastic as Senator McNaboe's proposal—was unanimously passed at about the same time. Efforts will be made later in the week, however, to scrap Wiseman's bill, which would permit breach of promise actions where a written promise to marry exists.

Lawyer-Senators Opposed.

An acrimonious debate raged for an hour and a half before the McNaboe bill was voted. The vocal opposition came entirely from senators who are lawyers—one of them, Senator Joseph Esquirol of Brooklyn—going so far as to predict that it soon will be necessary to create a pension system for members of the bar.

McNaboe, also a lawyer and New York Democrat, who defended his bill single handed, mustered more lawyers for the measure than voted against it. Of the 22 members of the legal profession in the senate only eight voted against putting a quietus on heart balm actions. The only woman in the senate, Mrs. Rhoda Fox Graves, Republican housewife of St. Lawrence county, also voted against the proposed measure.

Party Lines Collapse.

Party lines were wiped out in the controversy. Seventeen Republicans voted for the bill and only two against it, while seven Democrats cast their ballots against it and nineteen favored the legislation.

The McNaboe act would abolish rights to recover damages for alienation of affections, criminal conversation [suits brought against corespondents in divorce actions], seduction and breach of contract to marry. In addition it would set a 60 day limit on bringing actions which have heretofore accrued in such cases. Finally McNaboe's proposal would make it a felony to start heart balm actions, punishable by a fine of $1,000 to $5,000 or imprisonment for one to five years, or both.

Joseph Sullivan, Irish Football Captain, Dead

New York, March 20 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Joseph Sullivan, captain elect of the 1935 Notre Dame football team, died in New York hospital early today. He underwent two operations last Friday for mastoiditis and serious head ailments. Numerous blood transfusions failed to aid him. Sullivan was 22 years old, the son of Police Lieutenant Timothy Sullivan of Queens. He was brought from South Bend on Friday, March 8. He played tackle on the Notre Dame eleven for two years and was one of the university's outstanding linemen.

Federal Agents Tell Thrills of Nelson Battle

The story of events preceding the gun battle at Barrington last Nov. 27, which resulted in the deaths of two department of justice agents and "Baby Face" Nelson, was told for the first time yesterday before a jury in the court of Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

It was told by government witnesses in the trial of John Paul Chase, former California bootlegger, who is charged with the murder of Samuel P. Cowley, one of the slain federal agents. The witnesses identified Chase as the companion at Barrington of Nelson, whose real name was Lester Gillis, and his wife, Mrs. Helen Gillis.

Cloak of Secrecy Dropped.

As the cloak of secrecy around the department of justice's activities was dropped in court, it was revealed that in addition to Cowley and Herman Hollis, the second government man slain, two other pairs of federal agents had encountered Nelson, his wife and Chase that day.

Agents William C. Ryan and Thomas N. McDade, it was disclosed, had engaged in a running gun battle with the outlaws a few minutes before the fatal fight and had fled to hide in ambush.

An hour and a half previously two other agents, James J. Metcalfe and C. B. Winsted, had first spied Nelson and his party at Lake Como, Wis., and had warned the department of justice office in Chicago of the coming of the two gangsters and Mrs. Gillis.

Tried Under New U. S. Law.

The prosecution of Chase is the government's first murder trial in Chicago since 1893. The case is the first one here under the law passed by congress last year which provides that any one charged with killing a government agent in the performance of his duty shall be tried in the federal courts.

The first witness yesterday was Agent Metcalfe. Questioned by United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green, Metcalfe said that on Nov. 27 he and Winsted were waiting in a resort at Lake Como, five miles northwest of Lake Geneva, on information that Nelson would be driving by. Nelson and his wife and Chase did appear at 2:30 in the afternoon and after they left in a southerly direction, Metcalfe communicated with Cowley at the Chicago office of the department of justice, he said.

W. W. O'Brien Cross-Examines.

As Attorney W. W. O'Brien, chief counsel for Chase, rose from his client's side to cross-examine Metcalfe, the courtroom crowd gasped at the lawyer's sartorial display. A short man with graying hair, O'Brien wore no vest and exposed a shirt with a flowered pattern and diamond studs. In an approving manner, he patted the hard faced Chase on the back, smiled at the jury, bowed to the court, glowered at the witness.

O'Brien shouted at Metcalfe a demand for an explanation of why he and Winsted had made no effort to arrest Nelson and his companions at Lake Como. The agent replied that he and Winsted had weapons in their rooms at the resort but did not have them at hand when the outlaws arrived.

This line of questioning indicated that the defense will contend the government agents did not try to capture Nelson alive but wanted to ambush and kill him.

Agent Ryan Carries On.

SENATE BLOCKS EFFORTS TO CUT HUGE WORK BILL

Votes Down Riders to Slash Cost.

Open Bonus Battle

Long awaited fight over payment of veterans' bonus opens in house, with Representatives Patman and Vinson leading drives for their respective bills. Details on page 2.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 19.—[Special.]—In the face of solemn warnings that the credit of the United States is imperiled, the senate this evening overwhelmingly defeated all efforts to reduce President Roosevelt's four billion 880 million dollar work relief bill.

An amendment submitted by Senator Harry Flood Byrd [Dem., Va.] to lop three billion dollars off the appropriation was defeated by a vote of 66 to 21.

The senate then rejected, 57 to 30, an amendment of Senator Alva B. Adams [Dem., Colo.] to reduce the appropriation to 2 billion 880 million dollars. Another proposition in Senator Adams' amendment, changing the time limit for expenditure of the money to June 30, 1936, instead of June 30, 1937, was rejected, 57 to 30.

How Senate Voted.

Twelve Democrats joined with 18 Republicans in supporting the Adams amendment, taking off 2 billion dollars, while 49 Democrats, 6 Republicans, 1 Progressive, and 1 Farmer-Laborite voted against it. On the Byrd amendment to reduce the appropriation to 1 billion 880 million dollars only 10 Democrats and 11 Republicans voted "aye," with 51 Democrats, 13 Republicans, 1 Progressive and 1 Farmer-Laborite voting "nay."

Passage of the works measure in its present form and within two or three days was believed assured after the rejection of the propositions to cut it down. Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.] served notice that he wished to discuss his silver remonetization amendment and this probably will be taken up tomorrow.

Other Amendments Proposed.

In addition to this scheme, Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] has an amendment to pay for the appropriation with greenbacks; Senator Robert La Follette [Radical, Wis.] has an amendment to increase the appropriation to 10 billion dollars, and the Republicans are expected to inject the soldiers' bonus question into the legislation.

Today's voting was preceded by warnings from the conservative Democrats that a continuation of what they termed reckless squandering would lead inevitably to national disaster. Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], who, as chairman of the appropriations committee led the fight against adoption of the McCarran prevailing wage amendment, told the senate that in his opinion the bill would imperil the national credit.

"I have stated before," said Senator Glass, "that a decline of 10 per cent in government securities would render insolvent 90 per cent of the banks in this country. Obviously the process could not stop there. It would create such terror that it would go on and on and a national catastrophe would inevitably result.

"I don't say this with a view of influencing any votes, but I stand on my prediction that if this tremendous appropriation is made it will imperil the credit of the United States."

Objects to Diversion.

Senator Byrd prefaced the discussion of his amendment with an attack on the manner in which funds have been diverted from the 3 billion 300 million dollar appropriation for public works in 1933.

"The report I have received from the secretary of the treasury shows that a total of 486 million dollars of this money has been diverted to pay the ordinary expenses of the regular departments and independent offices," the senator asserted.

"I don't charge that it was fraudulently diverted, but it was certainly unwaranted, for congress did not know that such diversions were to be made. We are completely destroying the budget system of the United States. It is little short of absurdity to talk about having two budgets, one for ordinary and one for emergency expenditures, when the report shows that there is no such distinction. There is only one treasury."

Amendment Carried.

At the suggestion of Senator Glass, the senate later adopted without a record vote an amendment submitted by Senator Byrd to prohibit any diversion from the new works fund for use by the regular departments of government.

Senator Byrd then cited various diversions from the so-called public works funds, including 500 thousand dollars for the alcohol control board, which he said congress had never authorized, and 1 million for the electric home and farm authority, "to put the government in the retail business of selling electrical appliances."

Senator Byrd said the report showed that a total of 1 billion 500 million dollars of the 1933 appropriation was still on hand and urged that the present appropriation be cut to 1 billion, plus the 880 million transfer from unexpended balances, to create a new public works total of some 3 billion 300 million.

Tydings Joins Attack.

Senator Millard Tydings [Dem., Md.] referred to the works measure as "a bill to put the Democratic party out of power."

"When it goes through its natural evolution there will be so much resentment at the waste, the failure to relieve unemployment and the drastic taxes that will have to be levied that it will be the end of the Democratic party," he said.

"Let us suppose this depression will last 10 years, and it certainly will unless we have a stabilization of international currencies and a revival of world trade. Gentlemen, if you propose to spend 5 billion dollars a year, you are playing with fire."

PROFIT CONTROL THREAT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 19.—[Special.]—The government will take control of salaries and profits in America unless the NRA drops price fixing from its codes and allows a return to free competition, Senator Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.] warned S. Clay Williams, retiring head of the NRA, at today's session of the senate finance committee.

Tomorrow Clarence Darrow, noted Chicago criminal lawyer and critic of the NRA, will follow up Senator Black's warning by telling the committee, which is weighing the future of NRA, that the Blue Eagle, especially through its price fixing provisions, has hatched monopolies and curbed competition in industry.

Williams Under Barrage.

Senators set the stage for Mr. Darrow's appearance by subjecting Mr. Williams to a blistering barrage of questions today on NRA price policies. The rain of questions, which had the suave cigaret magnate who heads NRA on the defensive, climaxed when Senator Black warned that NRA price fixing would result in government control of profits and of salaries.

"If we are going to do away with competition, in whole or in part, don't we have to find some other way of protecting consumers, and can you think of any other way than an excess profits tax or a limitation of profits by the government?" Senator Black shot at Williams.

"I believe in absolutely free competition all the way through," Chairman Williams replied, but he disagreed with Senator Black over whether the mere posting of prices, as provided by codes, is conducive to monopolistic rather than competitive price control.

Suggests Salary Control.

Salary control as a necessary part of price determination was also suggested by Senator Black. He pointed out that if the NRA prohibits sales below cost of production it must deal with salaries because salaries are a necessary item, perhaps an inflated item, in costs.

Senator Black repeatedly referred to "a salary and bonus of a million dollars a year" as an example. Such a million dollar salary was paid in 1931 to George Washington Hill, who as head of the American Tobacco company is a rival of Mr. Williams as head of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company.

"Would you recommend that, if the law is going to allow fixing of costs, that the law also provide that you have power to look into the question of whether salaries and bonuses are fair?" Senator Black asked.

"I do not recommend that we go into that territory at all except as selling below cost may be an unfair trade practice," Chairman Williams replied.

"PUBLICITY MAD," HIS EXPLANATION OF NEW DEALERS

New York, March 19.—[Special.]—Federal officials in control of administrative functions of the government are "microscopically minded burocrats" who have developed inferiority complexes because they are "not accepted socially" and who are "wild for publicity," Isaac W. Digges, lawyer and son-in-law of Carter Glass of Virginia, said today in an address before the committee on commerce of the American Bar association.

Mr. Digges, who is general counsel to the Association of National Advertisers, addressed the committee on the Copeland and Mead bills dealing with food, drugs and cosmetics. Both bills are now pending in congress.

"They are wild for publicity down there," Mr. Digges said.

FIGHT FOR BONUS OPENS IN HOUSE; GALLERY PACKED

Washington, D. C., March 19.—[Special.]—The long awaited fight over payment of the soldiers' bonus started off with a bang in the house arena today. Before packed galleries, various schemes to pay 2 billion dollars to the veterans were proposed, defended, and attacked.

The principal adversaries in the verbal tournament were Representatives Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.], author of the printing press method of paying the bonus that has passed the house twice only to die in the senate, and Representative Fred Vinson [Dem., Ky.], who proposed that the funds be extracted from the treasury.

Insists It's Not Inflation.

Patman, whose bonus money would be backed by the veterans' adjusted service certificates, declared that adoption of his plan would be "a benefit and a godsend to the country." He asserted the scheme was not inflation and that it provided for the withdrawal of currency when prices rise above the 1926 level.

The rival Vinson measure, Patman declared, was a "bankers' bonus bill," proposed by leaders of the American Legion headed by National Commander Frank Belgrano, a California banker. Belgrano, sitting in the gallery, leaned forward with a scowl on his face.

Vinson arose and stepped to the well of the house to accuse Patman of "shooting a double curve."

"Patman has had five different bills and the soldiers haven't been paid yet," shouted Vinson. "This administration doesn't choose to pay the bonus by the inflation route."

Andrews' Baby Bond Bill.

Representative Walter G. Andrews [Rep., N. Y.] urged passage of his bill to give the veterans baby bonds, bearing 3 per cent interest and maturing in 1945. He said the veterans were being led up a blind alley through other legislation, pointing out that yesterday the President indicated a veto on either the Patman or Vinson bill.

RICHBERG RULE HELD BETRAYAL OF ROOSEVELT

Washington, D. C., March 19.—[Special.]—Donald R. Richberg, New Deal coördinator, "betrayed the President" in his interpretation of Section 7-A of the National Industrial Recovery act, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, charged today before the senate labor committee.

Besides deceiving Mr. Roosevelt, Richberg drove "a knife into the very heart of labor," Lewis shouted to the committee during his testimony in favor of the Wagner labor disputes bill.

"Mr. Richberg sold labor down the river," Lewis stormed. "I say Mr. Richberg betrayed the President."

Lewis explained that he referred to a White House order issued Feb. 1, 1934, upholding majority rule in labor relations between employers and their workers, a doctrin desired by organized unions. Despite the fact that Richberg wrote this order for the President, three days later he wrote an interpretation of the order which nullified majority rule, according to Lewis.

Finds Criticism Changing Course of New Dealers

Now that the country is pausing to reappraise New Deal theories and experiments, the direction of the New Deal is being changed, according to Nicholas Roosevelt, former vice governor of the Philippines and minister to Hungary, who spoke yesterday in the Hotel Sherman before the Rotary club. "Recently the National Recovery and the Tennessee Valley authority have been checked," Mr. Roosevelt said

FEARS ADVANCE OF FOOD PRICES; FIGHTS WALLACE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 19.—[Special.]—American housewives today protested against the czaristic powers over food and clothing which are being demanded by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

MRS. WILBUR FRIBLEY.

Mrs. Wilbur E. Fribley, Chicago, president of the Housewives' league, filed a statement with the senate agriculture committee. She objected to the proposed amendments to the agricultural adjustment act, saying they would grant to Wallace powers "so far reaching as to be entirely unknown in America."

Competition would be eliminated and consumers would be at the mercy of government price fixing, Mrs. Fribley's statement pointed out:

"The amazing proposal to control not only production but also the very items and amounts that might be sold to the public would of necessity cause a price level for commodities far out of balance with the average income of the majority of American families."

U. S. Must Cut Spending, Warns Ex-Senator Smoot

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 19.—(AP)—Former United States Senator Reed Smoot warned today that the government must cease its spending or its "financial fabric" will fail. Speaking before a meeting of credit men, the former Republican stalwart declared, "Things can't go on as they are. If we continue to spend as we have been doing I see nothing but a failure of our financial fabric."

PRESIDENT BOOSTS ALLOWANCES TO VETS' WIDOWS, CHILDREN

Washington, D. C., March 19.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, in four executive orders, today modified the 2 year old veterans' economy regulations, providing principally for increases in the rates of allowance to widows and children.

The liberalized payments will cost the government a total of $1,800,000 annually.

Mr. Roosevelt transmitted the orders on the final day upon which he could act to make any change in the economy regulations.

Under the new regulations, widows of deceased members of war time service connected cases between the ages of 50 and 65 will receive an increase from $30 a month to $35 and widows over 65 an increase to $40.

The new regulations also allow increases for children where there is no widow. Where there are two children, $33 a month would be equally divided instead of the present $30.

Where there are three children, $46 is to be allowed instead of $40, with $8 for each additional child.

For widows of deceased veterans of peace time service connected cases slight increases are provided for those over 50 years of age.

EXCURSION SHIP IS WRECKED; 116 ABOARD RESCUED

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, March 19 — (AP) — The excursion schooner Laura, aground off Utila with 116 persons aboard, was wrecked today, but all lives were saved.

Dispatches said the 104 passengers and 12 members of the crew were safe aboard relief boats, which hurried to the vessel after it reported itself in a precarious position. The cargo and luggage of the passengers was a total loss.

The relief boats went to the Laura's aid from La Ceiba, Utila, and Hoatan. Most of the passengers are residents

FIND MEAD BILL WILL NOT AFFECT AIR TRAFIC HERE

No routes or schedules operated by commercial airlines into or out of Chicago will be affected by pending federal air mail legislation the city council aviation committee was told yesterday when the full provisions of the Mead bill were disclosed here for the first time. With this understanding the aldermen agreed to drop plans for opposing the passage of the bill in congress.

A special meeting of the committee was called after representatives of Transcontinental Western Air informed Chicago business men and city officials that a paragraph of the Mead bill would eliminate nine regularly scheduled trips over four airway routes out of Chicago.

Yesterday, however, city officials learned that the objectionable paragraph in the proposed law had been amended on March 16.

HOWE SPENDS RESTFUL DAY; STRENGTH EBBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 19.—[Special.]—Slowly losing strength, Col. Louis McHenry Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt, today was fighting valiantly against death.

After a sudden relapse later yesterday, Col. Howe spent a restful night and a quiet day. His condition was described as no worse, except that his strength slowly was ebbing.

Col. Howe is suffering from bronchial trouble. He was reported to be gaining in his fight until the relapse yesterday. He is confined to the suite in the White House which he has occupied since the arrival of the Roosevelts.

COLORED BOY STEALS CANDY, PRECIPITATES FIERCE HARLEM RIOT

New York, March 20 [Wednesday].—(AP)—One man was wounded fatally and scores were injured in hours of rioting by thousands in New York's Harlem district last night.

Lyman Quarterman, 34, colored, died in Harlem hospital early today from a gunshot wound in the abdomen, received during rioting at 121st street and 7th avenue. Two others were shot and are in the hospital.

The crowd was excited by false rumors that a colored boy had been beaten to death in a chain store. The boy had been reprimanded for stealing candy. He was released by the store manager after he had bitten two clerks.

An unidentified woman hurried from the store and her reports of the incident soon were magnified into a story the boy had been killed.

More than a dozen men and women were under arrest; scores of suspects were being questioned; two policemen had been taken to the hospital, one in a serious condition, and more than 200 plate glass windows had been smashed, police said.

A dozen victims of rocks, bludgeons, knives, and revolvers were treated by ambulance surgeons. Glass covered the sidewalks.

BERLIN IN DARK AS NAZIS STAGE AIR RAID DRILL

Name Premier Squadron for Ace Richthofen.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 19.—From 10 p. m. to midnight Berlin was turned into a city of shadows and crowds in the main centers saw the presentation of an air raid defense drill by Germany's now admitted military air force. Officials called the maneuvers a success.

An airplane designated "JU5" broadcast descriptions of the "preparedness" to millions of Berliners huddled around radios. The announcers stressed that even big industrial plants were shrouded in darkness.

The night display had been preceded by one in the afternoon. Thirty pursuit planes and twenty heavy tri-motored planes maneuvering as bombers thundered over the capital.

The planes belonged to the new "Richthofen Wing." Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler christened this premier squadron after the late Baron Manfred von Richthofen, the Red Knight of Germany, at the recommendation of Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, premier of Prussia and reichsminister of air.

Praises Richthofen.

In a letter to Richthofen's mother, Gen. Goering informed her:

"The first line squadron which has spread its protective wings over liberated Germany bears Richthofen's name. As a comrade of your son, it is a heartfelt joy for me to be able to inform you of this. I fulfill a holy pledge by transferring the proud traditions of the glorious Richthofen squadron, whose last commander I was, to the new unit. The example of your unforgettable heroic son will inspire officers and soldiers of the resurrected air force with the greatest courage and spirit of sacrifice."

For tonight's maneuvers the curbs of all street corners were painted white, but a total of 1,500 corner lights were shrouded in black. Householders had covered their windows with black paper to escape the fine of $60 or arrest threatened for every crack of light showing.

To make clear to foreign nations that the drills are being carried out in a friendly spirit, all military attachés accredited to Berlin were invited for an observation tour over the capital. Police aviators scoured the skies to enforce the order to keep nonmilitary planes grounded.

Bombing Drill Today.

Little girls, mothers and aunts were fully aware of what was expected of them. All evening they practiced Red Cross and first aid training, inspecting the cellars to which Berliners are ordered to retreat in case of an "air attack."

Tomorrow the district of Kreinzberg will go through regular drill from 9 to 3 o'clock, with imitation bombs plunging down from alleged enemy planes. The entire district will be isolated and the residents warned to hide in the raid dugouts. No outsiders will be allowed in the district. To increase the realism, tons of débris were dumped in streets of Kreinzberg this afternoon. Similar raids will be staged in the different districts of Berlin in the course of the next few months.

Office for Air Ministry.

Gen. Goering will have an assistant, Gen. Erhard Milch as secretary of state for air. The air ministry will have a building of its own near other government offices in Wilhelmstrasse.

Also revealed is the fact that the states redistricting, launched some time ago, was framed with a military view. By it Germany will be divided into six military districts with headquarters at Koenigsberg, Berlin, Muenster, Dresden, Munich, and Kiel. In addition "civil air headquarters" will be established in ten other cities. Air force training schools are situated at Brunswick and Hanover.

Minister of War General Werner von Blomberg, in his Sunday speech, paid tribute to Gen. Erich Ludendorff. Germany is getting ready to celebrate Ludendorff's 70th birthday in impressive ceremonies April 9. The prominence suddenly given Gen. Ludendorff in public speeches in Germany started the report that the reichswehr is planning to ask him to coöperate with the general staf of the new big army.

Britain Drops Fight Against Rearmament of Germany

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 19.—Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, and Capt. Anthony Eden, lord privy seal, settled down today to a week of intensive preparation for their visit to Berlin next Sunday and Eden's trip to Moscow and Warsaw after the Berlin visit is over.

One definite fact emerges today. Great Britain has accepted as a fact Germany's rearmament. The French are wildly excited and indignant over this attitude of their former ally, but they have no alternative but to accept it.

The British have become tired of shutting their eyes to obvious facts and when Simon and Eden go to Berlin they will go not to protest against rearmament nor to try to prevent it, but to find out what Germany's future policy is going to be.

Urge Berlin to Rejoin League.

The British hope to make Germany see the advantage of rejoining the league of nations and taking its part—a large one—in a future collective security system for Europe, and perhaps to agree to all around reduction in armaments, in which Germany will start from a position as full equal and not as an inferior.

The British think this can be achieved, and they are going to try their hardest to achieve it despite France's attempts to induce them to stick to the thesis of permanent German inferiority.

Whether this means a break between the British and French is in the hands of the latter. The British hope it does not, for they want to be friends with all and assure real peace in Europe. But they at last have cut loose from French leading strings and are determined to go their own way in European politics.

Simon today received Andre Charles Corbin, French ambassador to London, and Sir George R. Clerk, British ambassador to Paris. He also was in communication with Rome, which is reported much upset by the new German situation. The Italians fear a rearmed Germany will revive the "drang nach Osten" [pressure toward the east] policy and will proceed to make trouble in the Balkans, which Italy regards as its special preserve. Britain is trying to calm down Italy and bring it into line for the policy of all around friendship.

Russia Also Perturbed.

The fear of a new German policy in the Balkans also is obsessing Russia, and here again Britain, as mutual friend, will have work cut out to allay fears and suspicion.

Prime Minister MacDonald announced in the house of commons today that an opportunity will be given Thursday for a full dress debate on British foreign policy. Desperate efforts are being made by government whips to head off any rash speeches which might offend any continental nations involved.

Sir Philip Sassoon, undersecretary for air, tonight introduced the air estimates for 1935 in the house of commons. They show an increase of $18,425,000 over last year. Sassoon refuted charges concerning the strength and efficiency of the air force, presenting figures intended to show that Britain's air force is fifth among the world powers and is rapidly expanding.

Of the four powers at present ahead of Britain, he said, the United States and Italy are only slightly advanced. France, he said, has a first line strength of about 1,650 machines and Russia exceeds 2,000. Britain's first line strength is about 1,020 planes.

Winston Churchill, refuting Sassoon's statement, said "the position today is far worse than in 1914."

Sergeant Kills Corporal and Self in Card Game Row

JUNEAU, Alaska, March 19.—(AP)—Military authorities reported Staf Sergt. Joseph Koziol shot Corporal John C. Potts to death and then committed suicide in a quarrel over a card game at the Seventh infantry Chilkoot barracks today. Potts' home was in Devon, Mont. Koziol, born in Poland, entered the army in 1912 and served as an officer in the air corps during the war.

VERSAILLES PACT STANDS! FRENCH EDICT TO HITLER

Refuse to Recognize Nazi Rearmament.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 19.—Terming Germany's denunciation of the military clauses of the treaty of Versailles as a violation of "human rights and international law," France tomorrow will solemnly warn the government of the reich that its decision to establish an army of 540,000 men by conscription cannot be taken into account in any future possible negotiations.

In other words, as far as Paris is concerned Germany is still bound by the treaty of Versailles and France will not recognize any agreement negotiated with England or other powers that legalizes repudiation of the treaty.

Franco-British Front Split.

This stinging reply to the German challenge, which THE TRIBUNE understands will be the spearhead of a diplomatic note to be sent to Berlin tomorrow, is the result of a split which opened yesterday in the Franco-British front.

Feeling that it has been cruelly let down by its allies across the channel and menaced by a nationalist explosion in the chamber of deputies, the French government considers itself forced to take an intransigent stand. Unless the drastically worded note which technical services in the Quai d'Orsay have prepared for Foreign Minister Laval is modified by tomorrow's council of ministers the French stand would seem to bring Europe to a deadlock.

(Associated Press dispatches from Berlin said Germany was contemplating the abandonment of the clause in the Versailles treaty requiring demilitarisation of the Rhineland. The Nazi régime was said to take the view that unless France agrees to demilitarize similar areas on its side of the Rhine Germany wil erect defensive establishments in the Rhineland.)

Laval to Visit Moscow.

As a logical followup to the French protest note, the date of Laval's visit to Moscow will probably be announced officially tomorrow.

The next step will be the signing of eastern European and Danubian security pacts, without Germany, and the opening of negotiations with Italy for a military alliance, although nothing is likely to be done along these lines until the results of the visit of Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, to Berlin are known.

At the same time, it is understood Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin is considering further measures to strengthen the French army, possibly including immediate application of two year compulsory service, which was originally scheduled to start next fall.

France Rebuffed by Britain.

This dramatic hardening of the French position was the consequence of another day of feverish diplomatic activity and a new series of rebuffs to France.

As soon as he was informed yesterday of the British note to Germany, Laval, through the French embassies in London and Rome, suggested an immediate consultation between the three powers.

The British failed to reply, so this morning the French presented a written note asking that Simon confer with Laval and Premier Mussolini in a town in northern Italy. The British reply seemed not to be in agreement with the principle of the French proposal or the selection of the place chosen for the meeting.

In a last attempt to patch up a compromise, the French then proposed simply that Simon come to Paris before going to Berlin, while Baron Pompeo Aloisi, Italian delegate to the league of nations, would represent Premier Mussolini.

Even this was turned down. Simon said he could not come to Paris because he had to appear in the house of commons on Thursday.

NAZIS THREATEN TO FORTIFY RHINE

[Copyright: 1935: By the Associated Press.]

BERLIN, March 19.—German officials said today that the demilitarized Rhineland provisions of the Versailles treaty will be the next to be eliminated. They indicated that Germany would proceed to fortify the Rhineland unless France accepted the demilitarization of similar areas on its own soil.

Germany was forbidden, under section 3, article 42, of the Versailles treaty, "to maintain or construct any fortifications either on the left bank of the Rhine or on the right bank to the west of a line drawn 50 kilometers to the east of the Rhine.

"In the area defined above the maintenance and the assembly of armed forces, either permanently or temporarily, and military maneuvers of any kind, as well as the upkeep of all permanent works for mobilization, are in the same way forbidden.

"In case Germany violates in any manner whatsoever the provisions of articles 42 and 43, it shall be regarded as committing a hostile act against the powers signatory of the present treaty and as calculated to disturb the peace of the world."

Before the Saar Basin territory was returned to Germany, Reichsfuehrer Hitler agreed that the whole of the Saar was to be considered the left bank of the Rhine and as such was to be demilitarized.

GERMANY BARS JEWS FROM NEW CONSCRIPT ARMY

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, March 19.—An authoritative statement today revealed that Jews will not be conscripted for the new German army. Nor will they be called for special contributions in lieu of conscription. The army will be kept purely Aryan. It is assumed Germans abroad are liable to military service as they were before the last war. This matter will be covered by a special clause in the conscription law now being drafted.

It is quite likely, before the conscription of 21 year olds is formally instituted Sept. 1, men from 30 to 35, who just missed getting military training during the war, may be called up for an intensive six weeks' training. Next the younger men, between 25 and 30, who have had some training in the Storm Troops or Black Guards may be called for a longer period—probably three to six months.

The first draft of young men for one year training probably will come from the labor camps in which some 250,000 are now serving ostensibly a voluntary six months term. It is calculated conscription will take 500,000 men out of unemployment, while the acceleration given to industry is expected to provide work for another 500,000. Thus unemployment will be reduced something like a million. It will entail a saving to the government equal to the number of doles at a rate of 50 cents daily for each man taken off the unemployment list.

JAPANESE DENY MILITARY PACT WITH GERMANY

TOKIO, March 19.—(AP)—A government spokesman today denied published rumors that Japan and Germany were planning to conclude a military pact. Informed that the reports originated in Moscow, the spokesman laughed and said:

"The soviet probably is fearful of such a combination, but it can be assured it will never eventuate and has never been proposed nor considered. Germany's revival of conscription is purely a European affair and Japan is merely a bystander."

A foreign office spokesman said none of the Versailles signatories has yet suggested to Japan consultation concerning Germany's move and that Japan has no intention of taking the initiative in that respect.

LEAGUE URGES ITALY, ETHIOPIA TO AVOID WAR

Step Usual Preliminary to Intervention.

GENEVA, March 19.—(AP)—The league of nations urged Italy and Ethiopia tonight to do everything possible to refrain from going to war.

This usual step is taken when any country, such as Ethiopia did today, makes an appeal to Geneva on the ground that existing differences are getting out of hand and intervention of the league's council is needed.

The belief was growing in Geneva that friendly pressure both from the league and the great powers would induce the two countries to settle their dispute by direct negotiations.

Mussolini Agreeable.

Unofficial news late tonight from Rome said Premier Mussolini seemed disposed to accept the league's handling of the dispute, and, if necessary, an investigation.

Ethiopia's note charged Italy's mobilization of troops in East Africa imperils the independence of Ethiopia and demanded a "full investigation" of its border dispute with Italy.

Informed quarters said the league must proceed immediately into an investigation of the dispute but that it might ask third persons to make an inquiry and submit recommendations to the council.

Pains Britain and France.

There is "imminent danger of a rupture," the Ethiopian note said, "for nothing is more to be apprehended than that some local incident may serve the pretext for military action."

Ethiopia's appeal, it was believed, is embarrassing countries like France and Great Britain—France because of the Franco-Italian accords touching Africa and Britain because she controls the Suez canal. If the league should find Italy unjustly resorted to warlike acts, Great Britain, despite the canal treaty of 1878, might be obliged to close the Suez canal to Italian warships.

Small powers, it was anticipated, will rally behind the Ethiopian appeal. Although Japan is no longer a member of the council, diplomats believe Tokio will exert influence to protect Ethiopia from encroachments because of Japanese economic interests there.

AUSTRIA URGES OTHER DISARMED NATIONS TO ARM

VIENNA, March 19.—(AP)—Austria opened a campaign for conscription of troops today as the countries of southeastern Europe followed intently Berlin's scrapping of the Versailles treaty.

Maj. Emil Fey, minister of the interior, in a signed statement in the newspaper Oesterreich Abendszeitung, said conscription should "be taken up by other states which have been restricted in military establishments by the peace treaties. It would be to the advantage of all signatories to the treaties to settle this question by agreement. Conscription is the desire of the overwhelming majority of the population."

Rumania and Jugo-Slavia were worried as to whether Austria, Hungary, and Bulgaria would follow Hitler's lead. In Hungary popular opinion seems to expect restoration of conscription, but official quarters were extremely reticent.

The situation in Austria is decidedly different from that in Hungary or Bulgaria. Austria's rearmament during the past year has been quite open —there being no need of secrecy in view of the powers' approval of any measures necessary to defend Austrian independence.

RUSSIA ASSAILS BRITISH POLICY ON NAZI ARMING

MOSCOW, March 20 [Wednesday]. —(AP)—Subsequent events will show whether England "wants to turn the storm towards east Europe" or is so weak that in the face of danger it has "lost control of itself," the government newspaper Izvestia said today.

Declaring the English note protesting Germany's rearmament "caused a miserable impression in the whole world," the newspaper asserted there are only three possible explanations of London's "acceptance of the dish prepared by Hitler."

These are whether it wants "to turn the storm towards east Europe," is weak in the face of danger, and the hypothesis that Great Britain is making "one more attempt to clear up the European situation." This last, Izvestia said, "seems to be ridiculous" in the face of the evidence of German policy.

"At any rate, Britain will have to pay for this lost first bout in the great historical game over the question of peace or war," the newspaper continued. It said there was no sense to conversations between Hitler and Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, since "Germany has armed itself. Now it is necessary to think about a system of safety."

SOVIETS SEIZE 1,000 LEADERS OF CZARIST REGIME

Ex-Nobles, Officials Face Death.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, March 19.—More than 1,000 former Russian noblemen, officers and czarist government officials were arrested in a roundup staged yesterday by the Leningrad department of the Russian commissariat of interior, the fromer G. P. U. [secret police], according to an official Leningrad radio message tonight.

Many of those arrested are charged with working for foreign governments and with conducting other anti-soviet activities. They are threatened with death sentences.

Others Exiled.

The rest, it was stated, have been exiled to distant points in Siberia on charges of violating the soviet government's passport regulations which forbid declassed persons, unemployed and other undesirables to live within a radius of 80 miles of Leningrad.

Similar arrests are being made in Moscow, which also has an 80 mile zone, and energetic control is being exercised over inhabitants of a similar zone along the soviets' western frontier.

Those Arrested.

Those arrested, according to the message, include 41 former princes, 33 former counts, 76 former barons, 35 former large industrialists, 68 former large land owners, 19 former large merchants, 142 former high czarist officials, 547 former czarist generals and officers, some of whom are reported to have served in the white Russian armies, and 113 former high officials of the czarist okhrana [secret police].

PLANE OF FRENCH GOVERNOR FOUND IN JUNGLE; 7 DEAD

BRUSSELS, March 19.—(AP)—A message from the governor general of the Belgian Congo said today all seven occupants of the plane of Edouard Renard, governor general of French equatorial Africa, missing since Friday, had been found dead in the Lake Chad region by a Belgian pilot.

All seven persons, including Renard and his wife, apparently were killed in the crash caused when the plane ran into a terrific storm shortly after leaving Brazzaville, middle Congo. The other victims were Maj. Bonnique, Capt. Gaulard, Adjutant Bitte, Wireless Operator Guitard and Mechanic Bonnet.

Mme. Renard was the widow of Michael Winburn, American soap manufacturer and philantropist. She was prominent in Paris society. She married Renard in October, 1933.

FREEDOM IS DENIED BROKER SERVING A TERM FOR CONTEMPT

Judge Cummings of Kewanee, sitting in the Circuit court here, dismissed yesterday a petition to set aside the contempt order under which Raymond E. Prochnow, a former investment broker, has been in the county jail since last May 14. The order, issued May 24, 1932, by Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor, who has since retired from the bench, directed that the broker be held in jail until he restored $30,282 in cash and $5,000 in bonds to Mrs. Marion G. Wilson, executrix of the estate of William Garnett, her father.

At that time Prochnow was also ordered held to the grand jury on a charge of perjury after testimony had been given that he forged documents in an effort to retain $50,000 of the assets of the estate of Garnett. Attorney William Struckmann for Prochnow filed notice of appeal from Judge Cummings' order, and bond was set at $1,500. The petition set forth that the broker is penniless.

LAWYER LOCKED IN KANE COUNTY JAIL IN FRAUD

George M. Lindsay, 60 years old, Kansas City attorney who was arrested in St. Louis Monday on a charge of swindling Miss Laura Penney, Elgin school teacher, out of $33,000 in securities, was locked up in the Kane county jail in Geneva yesterday.

Lindsay is under federal indictment in St. Louis as the alleged head of a fake diploma mill. His arrest on this charge a year ago brought to light activities of the "diploma ring" in several states. His arrest Monday was on information furnished from the state's attorney's office here.

Miss Penney charged that Lindsay and the others induced her to turn over $33,000 in government bonds and other securities on promises that they would double her money. Ralph Becker, 36 years old, 1232 Jarvis avenue, and Kendall Cowger, 26, of 5559 Magnolia avenue, were arrested in the Penney fraud last January.

PRESIDENT WAITS FULL REPORT ON GERMAN ARMING

Expected to Keep Hands Off Even Then.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 19.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt will keep hands off the European armament tangle at least until full reports have been received through the state department, according to assurances emanating from the White House today.

The White House denied especially reports that pressure was being placed on the President by congress to steer clear of the situation created by Germany's scrapping of the Versailles treaty. No such pressure is necessary because the President has no disposition to embroil America in Europe's troubles, it was emphasized.

Has Asked No Help.

Mr. Roosevelt has not yet asked congress or any individual senators or representatives for advice on America's course of action, and no advice has been proffered by legislators, the White House insisted.

Until full reports have been received from American ambassadors in European capitals and until these reports have been carefully studied by President Roosevelt and the state department, there is no possibility of American action. Even after this study the administration may decide to continue a hands off policy, it was pointed out.

The President has enjoined his personal policy of silence on all of his aids, including Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Norman Davis, American ambassador at large, with whom the President conferred at the White House yesterday, ostensibly on the European crisis.

Takes Every Precaution.

So anxious is the President that nothing shall drag America prematurely into the European situation that the White House took special care to explain that Mr. Roosevelt's luncheon today with William Bullitt, American ambassador to Russia, had nothing to do with German rearmament. The luncheon was arranged last week, days before Hitler tore up the Versailles treaty, it was explained.

American action, if any is decided upon, would be based on the military clauses of the American-German peace treaty. Most of these clauses coincide with those of the Versailles pact.

U. S. ALREADY FASCIST, SAYS JAMES BECK IN PLEA AT BOSTON

Boston, Mass., March 19.—(AP)—James M. Beck, former representative in congress and authority on the constitution, said today the United States had become a "totalitarian socialistic state" and that the fate of the constitution depended on the political capacity and intelligent patriotism of the average man.

"The great reality is that we differ in degree, although not in kind, from the governments of Germany and Italy," the Pennsylvanian told a Boston university audience.

Americans have a false sense of security that the United States Supreme court will automatically and effectively preserve the constitution through judicial decision, Beck said.

The Supreme court could enforce its decrees upon an individual, he explained, but not upon either congress or the President, should either choose to ignore.

Although the Supreme court has protected federal power from encroachments of the states, Beck added, it has been less effective in protecting the states from the encroachment of the federal government.

YOUTH IN AUTO SHOT BY POLICE IN WILD CHASE

Joseph Rudy, 18 years old, 747 North Keith avenue, was shot and possibly fatally wounded last night by members of a detective bureau squad from whom he attempted to escape in a stolen automobile. Rudy, according to police records, once served a term as an auto thief in the St. Charles school.

The squad, headed by Sergt. John Gapinski, took up the chase at Lincoln street and Grand avenue. Rudy, following a roundabout course, collided with an automobile driven by Louis Onesto, 1101 Vernon Park place, at Halsted street and Austin avenue. He continued south, without stopping, to Lake street and then west to Ashland avenue, with the police close behind and firing at him.

At Ashland avenue the car crashed into a post and Rudy tried to flee on foot. He fell under the fire of the police guns and was captured. After being treated in a physician's office he was taken to the Bridewell hospital.

"I'm a singer," writes Russell Johns, Chillicothe, O. "2 days before an audition I had a bad cough. Pertussin made it stop quickly!"

WHEN you catch cold, your throat feels dry because thousands of its tiny moisture glands clog. Infected mucus irritates—then you cough. REVEAL THREAT TO WITNESS IN GOLD THEFT CASE Second Briton Balks at Identifying Suspects.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 19.—An attempt to bully a woman witness and prevent her from testifying was revealed today at a hearing for three men accused of stealing $97,000 in gold from Croydon airport on March 6.

Mrs. Lauri Scholz, still frightened despite assurances from the magistrates that she would be protected, said that last Sunday night a man whom she did not know sidled up to her in the street and said:

"If you take my advice you will keep your mouth shut."

Second Witness Balks.

The behavior of another witness, George Manson, a taxi driver, who drove four men to the airport and took them back to London with the gold, caused the magistrates to ask whether he, too, had been advised to keep quiet.

Manson had identified two suspects in a police lineup, according to police, but today at Croydon police court he refused to identify anybody, saying he could not. The prosecution then got permission to treat him as a hostile witness.

The attempt to bully the woman witness and the careful way in which the theft was planned indicated it was the work of an organized gang. The fourth man who rode in Manson's car, whom the driver had known for two years as "Little Harry," still is at large, and what became of the gold, including 5,000 American $10 gold pieces, is as much a mystery as ever.

Reveal Gold Was Unguarded.

It was revealed that the gold lay unguarded in the strong room of the airport. The only person near by was the night attendant, who was asleep part of the time and was absent between 4:15 and 5 o'clock in the morning, to supervise the landing of a German airplane.

At that time four men drove up in Manson's cab. "Little Harry" had awakened Manson at 1 o'clock in the morning and told him to meet them at 4 o'clock near a London station. The men left the cab and went to the airdrome on foot. They returned in a small battered car bearing three boxes. One man drove off in the car and the others climbed into Manson's cab. One of them said: "It is gold."

Manson told them he would not drive them with the gold, but he was outnumbered. He drove them to an address in London, where police learned Cecil Swanland, 47 year old artist, lived with his wife. He was arrested. Silvio Mazzarda, 38, whom Manson is supposed to have known for twenty years, and John O'Brien, 74, were also taken into custody.

Mrs. Scholz said she heard a noise of breaking wood in Swanland's room, and saw smoke pouring from his chimney, which caught fire. She testified that there was another man with him, and that in the evening she saw Swanland go out with a heavy suitcase.

Police said they found nails, iron hoops, seals, and a bit of string, which witnesses are prepared to say had been used to prepare the gold for shipment to Paris and Brussels when the pound sterling was falling.

The suspects were remanded in custody until Tuesday. A special guard was placed over Mrs. Scholz for protection.

COURT STUDIES RYAN'S PLEA IN ANNULMENT SUIT

New York, March 19.—[Special.]—The action brought by Clendenin J. Ryan Jr., grandson of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, for an annulment of his marriage to the former Countess Marie-Ann Wurmsbrand-Stuppach of Vienna reached another stage in the courts today.

Supreme Court Justice Albert Cohn reserved decision on Mr. Ryan's application for an order to permit him to take written depositions from more than a score of persons who live in Europe and who knew the defendant there prior to her marriage.

Nathan Burkan, counsel for Mrs. Ryan, who now is with her mother in Vienna, described some of the European witnesses in question as "from the sewers of Europe."

Mrs. Ryan is the daughter of the late Count Ferdinand Wurmsbrand-Stuppach, who was the imperial chamberlain under former Emperor Franz Josef of Austria. The Ryans were married in St. Patrick's cathedral here Feb. 20, 1934.

SEIZE DEERFIELD MAN WITH PISTOL AT WALKATHON

John T. Gilfillan, 37 years old, a resident of the village of Deerfield, was arrested at a walkathon exhibition in Waukegan by Lake county deputy sherifs last night. He was carrying a pistol at the time.

Gilfillan was followed to the walking show after the Cook county highway police had been informed by Ralph Jacobsen, 3906 North Sawyer avenue, that Gilfillan offered him $1,000 to kill Mrs. Gilfillan. This was denied by the man under arrest.

Both Gilfillan and Jacobsen were formerly employed by the H. J. Heinz company, whose plant is at Western avenue and Kinzie street. Jacobsen is now an insurance salesman.

Mrs. Gilfillan, who was with her husband, accompanied him to the office of Sherif Lawrence A. Doolittle. She said Gilfillan had made no threats against her, but had talked of committing suicide.

CLARENCE MACKAY SELLS 7 PAINTINGS TO BRITAIN AT BIG LOSS

LONDON, March 19.—(AP)—An official of the National gallery disclosed today that Clarence Mackay, New York capitalist, had sold seven paintings by Sassetta to the National gallery at a heavy loss.

The paintings were displayed at the gallery earlier this month and officials said they had been purchased from Mackay for £43,000 [about $205,000], described as a price "greatly inferior" to that he paid for the pictures in 1927.

The pictures were eight panels painted by Sassetta, otherwise known as Stefano di Giovanni, between 1437 and 1444. They were scenes in the life of St. Francis. They were originally panels forming the back of the altar for the Church of St. Francis at Borgo San Sepolcro. All the panels remained in the original church site until 1830.

BRITISH FIRE ON MOSLEM RIOTERS; KILL 27, WOUND 97

Troops Rout 100,000 Out to Slay Hindus.

KARACHI, India, March 19.—(AP)—British troops today fired into a mob of 100,000 Moslems who were chanting songs of hate and marching into the city to wreak vengeance on Hindus, killing 27 and wounding 97.

The marching Moslems were frenzied over the execution of Abdul Quayam, a co-religionist who was convicted of murdering a Hindu. They exhumed his body and carried it in the procession as they headed for the city.

Fear More Casualties.

It was feared the casualties may have been higher and not revealed because of the Indian custom of secreting the dead and wounded.

The British troops were of the Royal Sussex regiment stationed at Karachi.

The mob included at least 3,000 women, who, according to eyewitnesses, urged their men folk on to greater fury in paying honor to one who had paid the penalty for accomplishing what Moslems consider their sacred duty—the killing of a Hindu, because he had written an offensive work about the Prophet Mohammed.

Women Retire.

After lashing the men to a fanatical pitch, the witnesses said, the women retired before the actual rock throwing and rioting began, which led to the shooting.

In the panic which ensued after the volley was fired into the rioters' rank, the police obtained the body of the murderer, took it back to the cemetery and reburied it.

Troops patroled the disturbed area tonight with anti-Hindu feeling still running high.

STRACHEY TO LEAVE TODAY FOR CHICAGO DEPORTATION HEARING

New York, March 19.—[Special.]—Evelyn John St. Loe Strachey, British radical writer and lecturer, held for deportation on a charge of being an alien communist, will leave for Chicago tomorrow afternoon to appear at a hearing before District Immigration Commissioner Fred J. Schlotfeldt.

The British author, who is out on $500 bail furnished by his friend, Dr. Robert Morss Lovett of the University of Chicago, will be accompanied by Mrs. Strachey and Arthur Garfield Hays, noted New York attorney. Hays has been retained by the American Civil Liberties union to defend Strachey.

Hays said he regarded the issue as clearly one of freedom of speech. He challenged the contention of the immigration officials that Strachey, by being a believer in communism, had made a false statement on entering the country, when he answered that he did not believe in advocating the overthrow of the United States government by force and violence.

JURY COMPLETED FOR $50,000 SUIT OF PORTER MAID

A jury was completed yesterday to hear the $50,000 suit brought against Washington Porter III., wealthy art collector, by Mrs. Maria Sauer, 48 years old, 4456 Greenwood avenue, for twenty years a maid in the home of Porter's mother, Mrs. Frances Porter, at 4043 Lake Park avenue. Mrs. Sauer charges false arrest. Judge Roman E. Posanski of Calumet City, sitting in the Circuit court here, is presiding at the trial. David Larson, attorney for Mrs. Sauer, declared in his opening statement that he would show that Porter caused the plaintif's arrest on Jan. 4, 1932, for questioning in connection with the disappearance of a $10,000 set of silverware in the Porter home. He told the jurors he would show that Porter "planted" evidence against the maid and that the missing silverware was found where some member of the family had mislaid it.

PLANS REFUNDING OF $463,000,000 DEBTS IN COUNTY

Mayor Seeks 40 Million Cut in City Taxes.

Mayor Kelly announced yesterday a plan for a vast refunding operation covering the bonded debts of the city of Chicago and various other local governments in Cook county, which total $462,974,833. State Senator Harold G. Ward [Thirty-first district] is to introduce in the general assembly this week an emergency bill authorizing such refinancing.

If approved immediately on the emergency basis, the measure is expected to reduce the 1934 Cook county tax levies by a total of $40,971,362. Of this amount the reduction for Chicago alone, including the sanitary district and other municipal corporations within its boundaries, would be $39,362,994.

The plan calls for the issuance of 20 year callable refunding bonds bearing interest at a rate not greater than 6 per cent. These bonds would be exchanged for the outstanding and defaulted bonds or would be sold to pay such bonds in cash.

Would Level Off Retirement.

The plan would spread the present various municipal funded debts over a 20 year period, depressing, to reasonable limits, the high crest of obligations falling due within the next five years and carrying the portions of the burden thus shaved off over the 20 year period.

"Distributing the burden will mean that the construction accomplished in boom times will not be paid entirely in a time of depression," Mayor Kelly said, "but the debt will be extended to periods when taxes can be collected and when the public can afford to pay.

"I think that it is only fair that the taxpayers receiving the benefits of these constructions should pay for them. The 20 year plan makes this possible, yet the entire debt is not settled immediately on taxpayers at a time when money is scarce."

The Items of Indebtedness.

The total bonded debt of the county and of its governments, which would be affected by the refunding operation, was listed by the Citizens' committee on public expenditures, which drafted the refinancing plan, as follows:

City of Chicago	$125,240,000
Board of education	41,939,500
Cook county	34,186,160
Forest preserve	13,126,000
Sanitary district	143,420,055
South park district	48,267,000
Lincoln park district	18,534,000
Small park districts	12,988,667
Total	$462,974,833

Of this total debt 98.81 per cent applies to tax values within the city of Chicago, according to committee estimates. Included in the foregoing list of bonded debt is $28,515,132 in defaulted bonds, listed against the various governments as follows: Cook county, $6,396,910; forest preserve, $2,325,000; sanitary district, $16,512,555; south parks, $949,667, and west parks, $2,331,000.

How Plan Would Cut Levies.

If the refunding operation is put into effect before the 1934 taxes are extended, an abatement of $40,971,362 within Cook county will be possible, said Robert B. Upham, city controler. A summary showing the existing 1934 levy, the proposed levy if refunding bonds are issued, and the total estimated reductions follows:

	Existing levy.	Proposed levy.	Total reduction.
Cook county	$ 6,267,394	$ 3,836,154	$ 2,431,240
Forest pres've	2,947,440	1,179,400	1,768,040
Sanitary district	19,269,035	12,579,862	6,689,173
City ...	24,229,000	8,429,000	15,800,000
Board of ed'tion	10,878,071	3,878,071	7,000,000
South park .	9,366,437	3,932,865	5,433,572
West park .	2,219,858	1,442,908	776,950
Lincoln park .	2,306,460	1,716,100	590,360
Small parks.	1,377,221	895,194	482,027
Totals .	$78,860,916	$37,889,554	$40,971,362

For a successful refunding operation at least 80 per cent of the bondholders must coöperate by agreeing to accept the refunding bonds for the issues now held, Mr. Upham pointed out. The operation is expected to wipe out existing defaults, and will prevent further defaults by enabling municipalities to meet bonded obligations on the date due.

The interest rates on the bonds cannot be predetermined, but will depend on prevailing money markets, Mr. Upham said. If the proposed bill passes quickly he believes a low interest rate will be possible.

The title of the bill includes within its scope all county, city, village, incorporated towns, school districts, sanitary districts, forest preserve districts, or park districts in Illinois. The measure would provide for issuance of refunding bonds prior to maturities, issuance to refund maturing bonds, to refund maturing interest coupons, and to refund callable bonds.

A total city debt of $125,240,000 would be affected by the operation. Of this amount $83,890,000 falls due within the next five years, but the refunding plan would spread this huge burden over a number of years, thus virtually quartering the amount to be paid by 1941.

COUNTY URGED TO KEEP UP TAX RECEIVER SUITS

Circuit Judge Denis J. Normoyle, who is hearing suits brought by the county against delinquent taxpayers under the Kerner-Skarda tax receivership law, yesterday instructed the state's attorney's office and the county treasurer to continue the filing of such suits, which are now being docketed at the rate of about 35 daily.

Thus far this month, Judge Normoyle said, the court's handling of the tax receivership actions has brought in $300,000 which had previously been uncollected. February ollections through tax suit settlements totaled $538,000, he said.

Horace G. Lindheimer, assistant to the county treasurer, announced that in response to letters he has written the judges who handle general receiverships will hurry tax payments.

DISTRIBUTE NEW PHONE BOOK; HAS 48 MORE PAGES

The two weeks' task of delivering Chicago's new alphabetical telephone directory began yesterday. The increase in telephone installations is reflected in the book, which is the largest since 1929, according to officials of the Illinois Bell Telephone company. The new book has 48 more pages than the last one issued. The Smiths remain numerically in the lead in the new directory with 6½ pages. The Browns have 3½ pages and there are 2⅛ pages each devoted to the Jones, Thompson, and Williams families. The first name in the directory is that of A. Aaba, junk dealer at 1156 Cermak road. The last name is Joel L. Zzess, 20 Cedar street.

SCHALL RENEWS CHARGE FARLEY CENSORS MAIL

Washington, D. C., March 19.—(AP)—An assertion today by Senator Thomas D. Schall [Rep., Minn.] that Postmaster General Farley was "censoring" his mail brought a countercharge by Senator Robinson that Schall had violated his franking privilege.

Schall made his statement in the senate after offering an amendment to the relief bill to liquidate government corporations organized in Delaware, creation of which, he said, was "sovietizing" the United States.

"Why, I can't even make a speech in the senate and send it through the mails without Farley opening it and throwing it in the wastebasket," he asserted.

Robinson charged Schall with sending matter not frankable both during the Hoover and Roosevelt administrations. He read a letter from Farley saying Schall had sent mail to Minnesota containing criticisms of the government and carrying no stamps. The mail was returned after Schall refused to pay postage, the letter said.

Schall denied sending anything under his frank "that I didn't have a right to send."

Cupid Beaten Twice, but Youngsters to Try Again

Peggy Rapley, 6145 Woodlawn avenue, and William Bryant, 6552 Dorchester avenue, insisted yesterday that they were going to get married despite the fact that both are only 17 years old. The girl's mother balked an attempted elopement Monday with the help of the detective bureau when the automobile in which the couple were starting to Crown Point broke down. Yesterday the couple posed for pictures and then begged the photographers to give them a ride to Crown Point, but the mother again balked Cupid and took her daughter home.

NOAH BEERY BROKE; LOSES $2,000 SUIT BY WIFE'S DOCTOR

Los Angeles, Cal., March 19.—[Special.]—Broke, without money to pay his rent in New York or retain an attorney to fight the suit brought by Dr. Ross Moore here, Noah Beery, an outstanding movie star five years ago, today was ruled loser. The physician was seeking a $2,000 judgment for medical services rendered Beery's estranged wife in 1930.

Beery stated he had already paid the physician $1,000 cash in a letter which he wrote Judge Ben Scheinman, but the latter ruled that the actor's physical absence was reason for a default judgment against him in the full amount the doctor claimed.

In Beery's letter he wrote: "I throw myself on the mercy of the court. I have no money for living expenses. I cannot pay my family's subsistence bills. I owe my old law firm $2,000. My life insurance is gone. I no longer am the movie actor with the pot of gold. I haven't taken bankruptcy and I'll pay every one I owe if let alone and if I continue to live. It is unjust lawsuits like this one that make it impossible."

There's something about a Chesterfield——

There's one thing I especially like about Chesterfields—entirely aside from the fact that it's a milder cigarette—and I've heard a number of people say the same thing ...While I'm smoking Chesterfield I never get little crumbs of tobacco in my mouth—the tobacco doesn't spill out and that adds a lot to my pleasure of smoking them ...I notice more and more of my friends smoke Chesterfields.

15 TRAFIC LIGHTS WITH DEAD BULBS FOUND IN SURVEY

Lack Men for Patrol Work, Says Official.

BY HAL FOUST.

Dead bulbs in Chicago's stop and go lights are becoming so numerous that they constitute a serious trafic hazard. Surveys have shown that even when the red and green signals are in good condition they often fail to prevent accidents. When one of the lights is not functioning, the situation is worse.

Theoretically, every trafic signal in Chicago is inspected by an employé of the bureau of electricity every twenty-four hours. However, in a two hour drive about the city yesterday a reporter found fifteen intersections with dead lights.

"We have too big a territory to cover for our available man power to do a thorough job of inspection," said F. H. Snyder, operating engineer for the bureau of electricity.

487 Intersection Signals.

"There are 487 signal controled intersections in the city outside the loop. The city is divided into forty districts with a patrol assigned to each district that must replace street lights as well as trafic lights.

"We could use coöperation from the police and from the motoring public if they would report trafic lights that are not burning. We seldom get a report from the police except when all of the signals fail to function at an intersection.

"The bulbs in these signals need frequent replacement. Their guarantee is for a thousand hours. They burn day and night."

The reporter found dead bulbs at intersections where trafic policemen were on duty.

Where Lights Are Out.

The fifteen corners where there was an unlighted signal—at some places a green and at other places a red—are as follows:

Touhy avenue and Ridge boulevard, Lunt and Western avenues, Devon and Western avenues, Ashland avenue and Division street, North avenue and La Salle street, Adams and State streets, Lake and State streets, Clark street and Fullerton avenue, Adams and Dearborn streets, Clark street and North avenue, Fullerton and Lincoln avenues and Halsted street, Lincoln and Racine avenues and Diversey boulevard, Clybourn and North avenues, Ohio street and La Salle avenue, Clark street and Webster avenue.

A telephone call to the bureau of electricity might save some motorist from driving through an intersection on a dead light to be hit by a car in cross trafic proceeding with the green. The telephone numbers for the office that dispatches the repair crews, in case policemen do not know it, are Superior 0555 and Superior 0656.

HUNT CAR STOLEN FROM PRIEST AT STATE HOSPITAL

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.
Automobiles stolen, 23; recovered, 23; stripped, 2 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Monday].

State's Attorney Courtney's special automobile theft department was asked yesterday to make extra efforts to recover the uninsured automobile of the Rev. Malachy Farrell of Immaculate Conception monastery, which was stolen Monday night from in front of Paul Revere park fieldhouse at Irving Park boulevard and North Campbell avenue. The Rev. Mr. Farrell, who is the chaplain at the Chicago State Hospital for the Insane, is handicapped in carrying out his duties because the thieves took his only means of transportation between the monastery and the hospital.

"TOUGHEST GUY" TO GO TO CHAIR THIS MIDNIGHT

Chester Novak, who boasted that he would be "the toughest guy that ever took the hot seat," will be executed in the electric chair at the county jail one minute after midnight tonight. Yesterday the Illinois Supreme court refused a writ of supersedeas, which would have halted the execution. Novak and George Gross, 35 years old, were found guilty by a jury of the murder of Henry Mendelbaum, 48 years old, 2031 Pierce avenue, during a robbery last July 1. Gross was sentenced to serve ninety-nine years in prison on a recommendation of mercy from the jury.

City Nonfatal Auto Injury Total Passes 3,000 Mark

With no additional fatal accidents reported during the day, the 1935 Cook county's motor toll remained yesterday at 195. At 4 p. m. yesterday the trafic fatalities within the Chicago city limits since Jan. 1 totaled 159.

The year's total of persons injured within the city passed the 3,000 mark yesterday and at 4 p. m. stood at 3,023. Most of the casualties could not have occurred on an elevated highway system.

VERDICT BLAMES TWO JOYRIDERS IN DEATH OF YOUTH

At an inquest yesterday into the death of Frank Ribelis, 19 years old, 3244 South Morgan street, a coroner's jury recommended that Tony Lusaitis, 18 years old, 933 West 33d street, be held to the grand jury for manslaughter, and John Valzonis, 17 years old, 3347 South Morgan street, be held as an accessory. Ribelis was burned to death on March 3 when a delivery truck stolen from the loading platform of THE TRIBUNE crashed into a street car and overturned at 51st street and Artesian avenue. Lusaitis and Valzonis also face charges for the theft of the truck on which Ribelis was riding.

ADMIRAL DOWNS EXPECTED TO BE NAVY CHIEF HERE

Rear Admiral John Downs will succeed Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius as commandant here of the Ninth naval district, according to unofficial reports yesterday. Rear Admiral Downs has been chief of staf of the battle fleet. He is now in a hospital in San Diego, Cal., and will not assume his new duties until April 1, according to reports. Rear Admiral Cluverius will leave next Tuesday to assume command of the base force of the Pacific fleet in San Pedro, Cal.

CRIMINAL COURT JUDGES SENTENCE 26 IN RECORD DAY

23 Are Ordered to Prison and 3 to Bridewell.

Criminal court judges yesterday sentenced twenty-three defendants to prison and three to the Bridewell, thereby establishing a record for one day's activity. The sentences also set a new mark for speedy justice, since all of the defendants had been arrested within the last thirty days.

Twelve of the prisoners were found guilty of automobile theft charges and seven were convicted of robbery. Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan led the list with ten penitentiary and two Bridewell sentences.

Sullivan Sends 10 to Prison.

Those sent to prison by the chief justice and their terms are: Jack Martin, 24 years old, 1 to 20 years for robbery; Robert Conner, 26 years old, 1 to 20 years for auto theft; Robert Roberts, 18 years old, 1 year to life for robbery with a gun; Matt Graff, 23 years old, 1 to 20 years for auto theft; John Jenkins, 30 years old, 1 to 20 years for auto theft; James Patton, 17 years old, 1 to 20 years for auto theft; Joseph Sass, 35 years old, and his brother, Edward Sass, 25 years old, 1 to 20 years for auto theft; Lloyd Brenner, 18 years old, 1 year to life for burglary; George Morgan, 17 years old, 1 to 20 years for auto theft.

Morgan was a leader of a high school "joy ride" gang. A plea for leniency by his mother, Mrs. Margaret Morgan, 6321 South Maplewood avenue, former president of the Harper High School Parent-Teacher association, was denied when it was brought out that the young man was on probation from the Juvenile court in a similar case.

Two Others of Gang Jailed.

Two others of Morgan's gang were the ones sent to the Bridewell by Chief Justice Sullivan. They are Frank Lyons, 17 years old, who got five months, and Marvin Conley, 20 years old, who was sentenced to 30 days. Eight others of the gang are still facing trial.

Judge Harry B. Miller sentenced six defendants, five to prison and one to the Bridewell. Those sent to prison are: William Sivak, 1 to 20 years for auto theft; Walter Sarnecki, 1 year to life for burglary; his brother, Frank Sarnecki, 1 to 20 years for auto theft; John Cichon, 1 to 20 years for auto theft; Charles Brown, 2 years for rape. Fred Stinson was sentenced to one year in the Bridewell for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Judge Grover C. Niemeyer sentenced five defendants to prison. They are: Anthony Wilson and Lawrence Lemons, 1 year to life for burglary; William Glowacz, 5 years for rape; Archie Smith and Theodore Olson, 1 year to life for robbery.

Three men were sentenced to 1 year to life in prison by Judge William V. Brothers for robbery with a gun. They are Norman Omen, George Kennedy, and Bernard Kutak.

OAK PARK AUTO FEE REDUCTION IN DOUBT; ORDER INVESTIGATION

Whether or not Oak Park motorists are to get the announced reduction of $2 on their vehicle license was in doubt yesterday. Harry Leademan, village clerk, has posted a notice that the reduction from $5 to $3, voted Monday night by the board of trustees, is in effect. The board found $180,000 in the fund set aside for street repair, for which only $90,000 is needed.

However, President Willis McFeeley yesterday ordered an investigation. He wants to know, he said, just where the extra $90,000 came from. If it is in the form of tax warants, he said, he would oppose the reduction. The ordinance is not legal without the president's signature and he has five days in which to veto it. Both sides were charging politics yesterday. A majority of the trustees are up for reëlection, and McFeeley is also running for reëlection, heading a rival ticket.

Two Dairies File Suit to End Union Picketing

Two independent dairies filed suit for injunction in the Superior court yesterday against several chauffeurs' unions, seeking to restrain the unions from picketing, boycotting, or molesting the plaintifs. The plaintifs are the Wagner dairy, 5507 West 24th street, Cicero, and the Lakeview Dairy company, 542 Grant place. Attorney Joseph Kanak, who filed the suit, said the action was intended chiefly to iron out confusion caused by union rivalry.

OHIO AFFIDAVITS BARE U. S. RELIEF FRAUD CHARGES

Allege Levies Made on Favored Firms.

business experts in every government department now. We have to meet 6 millions for old age pensions and 15 millions for schools.

"I could not do anything with this relief situation. We had to ask federal people in Columbus before we could fire anybody or change a rule. I asked Hopkins to take it over. The setup is not changed at all by his latest move. But he has raised a smoke screen to cover his retreat. I want them to have the blame, because there is plenty of it. The people have got to take it on the chin with the new taxes. I am a tree doctor and I know money does not grow on bushes. Our borrowing power is gone.

Worse than Two Years Ago.

"I am a good Democrat. I am and have been a supporter of the President, but I must say that the national recovery program is two years old and we have more on relief than at the beginning. There has been a rising tide of business and employment. What it wrong? Either the recovery program is a failure or there is something rotten with relief, and I think it is the latter.

"We have got to move along slow, persistent lines of change. The rarest quality in government is common sense. If we apply common sense to our problems I think we can solve most of them. I propose to go steadily forward with a program of common sense, in spite of brutal, unsportsmanlike opposition and misrepresentation. Whether I am elected or defeated in 1936, I am going out with my own self-respect."

AIR 3 AFFIDAVITS

Columbus, O., March 19.—[Special.]—Three affidavits charging that Gov. Martin L. Davey's campaign committee solicited thousands of dollars from firms selling to the Ohio relief commission to pay off a deficit of the campaign and the expenses of the governor's inaugural were made public today as a grand jury investigation of the charges was ordered.

The three affidavits were received by Frazier Reams, Toledo, prosecutor for Lucas county and recent investigator for the governor's prison probe.

The Franklin county [Columbus] prosecutor, Donald J. Hoskins, who also received several affidavits, ordered a grand jury investigation of the charges and the grand jury, now in session, will take up the case Thursday.

Tells of Three Affidavits.

Prosecutor Reams said that three affidavits submitted to his office by Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins were signed by Kenneth P. Aller of Columbus, Thomas E. Jones of Columbus, and William R. McNamara of Camp Chase.

Jones, in his affidavit, Prosecutor Reams said, told of seeking funds in Toledo, where he received $500 from Sam Davis of Toledo, and on Dec. 16 he procured $500 from H. W. Jameson, general manager of the David Davies company.

Jones also was quoted as saying he also collected $500 from a representative of the Great Lakes Terminal Warehouse company.

Witnesses Subpenaed.

Subpenaed to appear before the grand jury at 9 a. m. Thursday are the following:

FRANCIS POULSON, Cleveland, Democratic state chairman.

JOHN M'COMBE and JACK NORTH, members of the Democratic campaign committee.

GEORGE D. NYE, Waverly, judge of the Pike county Common Pleas court.

WILLIAM R. M'NAMARA, Columbus, superintendent of the surplus commodities division, state relief commission.

THOMAS E. JONES, Columbus, assistant to McNamara.

KENNETH P. ALLER, Columbus, trucking company operator.

H. W. JAMESON, Columbus, superintendent of the David Davies Packing company.

JOHN A. LEE, Columbus, of the purchasing division of the state relief commission.

Prosecutor Reams said that in McNamara's affidavit sent to him the following statements were made:

That in December, 1934, Jack North, campaign manager for Martin L. Davey in Cuyahoga county, and personally associated with Mr. Davey, took him to see Jack McCombe of the Democratic committee. McNamara says that McCombe told him of the work of raising the fund of $10,000. Later, McNamara says, he talked to Tom E. Jones and John A. Lee, who were his assistants. He says that McCombe told him it was a matter of their jobs and for them to go out and get the money.

McNamara says in the affidavit that he got in touch with Judge George Nye of Pike county, a friend, and went with him to a room in the Deshler Wallick hotel where they met Jack McCombe.

McNamara said in the affidavit that in the presence of Judge Nye he handed the envelope containing the currency to McCombe. No one else was present at the time, he said.

"Mr. McCombe thanked me for the money and again stated that my position would be secure under the Davey administration; Judge Nye knew what the money was for," the affidavit says.

Aller's firm, Aller said, had done $150,000 to $160,000 business with the Ohio relief commission up to Jan. 1.

Aller said that about Dec. 15 Tom E. Jones talked with him about a fund he was raising.

"He told me that he had been instructed," the affidavit avers, "by the men in charge of the Davey campaign to raise a fund of $10,000 and as a result of the conversation I agreed that our company would make a contribution in line with everybody else."

Aller said Jones told him that if the fund was not raised, Jones' job would be insecure.

ILLINOIS RELIEF EXPENSE SHOWS FEBRUARY DROP

Cost of Administration Is Also Reduced.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, announced yesterday that expenditures last month were $353,385 less than in January, although aid was given to virtually the same number of families in both months — 317,700. A reduction of $108,937 was effected in the cost of administering relief during February.

Although the original estimate for February requirements was $13,458,706, an expected seasonal increase in the number of relief families failed to materialize, and actual expenditures were $12,174,858. In January the IERC spent $12,528,243. Part of the difference was due, of course, to February being a shorter month.

Decrease for February.

Direct [unearned] relief cost $7,212,463 last month, a decrease of $521,973 from the January figure. However, expenditures for families on work projects rose from $3,910,468, an increase of $275,524 from the preceding month. The more expensive work relief was given to 32 per cent of relief families instead of to 29 per cent.

In February, expenditures for administrative salaries and expenses were $1,051,926, or 8.64 per cent of the total cost of relief.

No More Overhead Cuts.

January administrative costs were $1,160,863, or 9.26 per cent of the entire outlay that month. The average overhead cost during the life of the IERC is 9.75 per cent of total expenditures. In this connection Mr. Reynolds said he plans no further reduction in overhead under present relief conditions.

"The staf cannot be cut any more without losing control," he said. "I believe we are pretty close to bed rock, considering how much work is required to keep the relief rolls clean."

28 ACCUSE WOMAN RELIEF HEAD AS QUIZ OPENS IN MICHIGAN

Niles, Mich., March 19.—[Special.]—Charges of favoritism, discrimination, and misuse of political patronage were brought against Mrs. Anne C. Parsal, Berrien county relief administrator, today by twenty-eight witnesses before Miss Esther Tuttle, assistant state's attorney general, as an investigation of relief conditions in Niles and Berrien county got under way here.

The hearing brings to a head more than a year of friction between the Niles city council, persons on relief rolls, and Mrs. Parsal and her staf.

Mrs. E. B. Goetz, Benton Harbor, testified that Mrs. Esther Hetherington, Benton Harbor, had taken Red Cross relief materials from Mrs. Parsal's office and sold them for personal gain when on relief rolls, although her husband was employed at the time.

Many witnesses protested prices charged for relief produce, which during the winter have been higher than local market prices. Others told of being stricken from work relief rolls for no apparent cause.

Echoes of the last general election were heard when several witnesses testified they were laid off because they admitted intentions to vote for Republicans and would not agree to vote straight Democratic tickets.

They said they were told they must vote the "straight Democratic ticket, or else."

Mrs. Parsal did not attend the hearing. She is ill at her home. The hearing will be resumed tomorrow morning.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS IN AUTO.

Linus Wyberg, 31 years old, a janitor living at 123 Kedzie street, Evanston, was found unconscious from fumes yesterday, in his automobile in a garage behind 745 Judson avenue. At St. Francis hospital physicians said he was in a serious condition.

34,500 ON RELIEF BASK IN SUN AS REST OF U. S. PAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 19.—[Special.]—Approximately 34,500 persons who were on relief rolls were enjoying California sunshine and sea breezes at the expense of the taxpayers this winter, Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, admitted today.

These persons were listed as "transient" relief cases. From all the ends of the nation, from Maine and even from Florida, they had drifted to the balmy shores of California and were wintering there at the expense of taxpayers who stayed at home and worked.

Almost 2,000 of them came from Illinois; another 1,728 came all the way from New York; 2,500 came from Texas and a similar number from Oklahoma.

California, birthplace of economic panaceas such as Upton Sinclair's EPIC and the Townsend old age pensions, was the favorite spa of the unemployed. No other state could approach California's total of 34,502, which was reported by an actual census taken on Dec. 31.

Illinois, on the other hand, was playing host to 14,500 transient unemployed, of whom 11,200 came from outside the state and 3,200 were drifting about within the state. Most of Illinois "guests" came from Michigan, Indiana, New York, Missouri, Ohio, and Wisconsin.

Brothers Drown Here; Find Bodies at Benton Harbor

Two bodies washed ashore from Lake Michigan near Benton Harbor, Mich., on Sunday, were identified yesterday as those of Ludwig Stifter, 32 years old, and his brother, Frederick, 16, of 1709 Dayton street. The brothers disappeared on Nov. 24 while testing a homemade boat in the lake off North avenue. A two day search was made for them after their battered boat was washed ashore at 6253 Sheridan road. The men's mother and three brothers made the identifications.

FLAG UPSIDE DOWN, SIGNAL OF DISTRESS, ON CAPITOL OF OHIO

Columbus, Ohio, March 19.—[Special.]—A distress signal—the American flag flew upside down atop the Ohio capitol today. It was unfurled a few hours after Governor Davey delivered an address in the building appealing to Ohioans to stand behind him in his fight with Harry L. Hopkins. A negligent state employé probably will hear about the matter.

Income Tax Returns Here 42% Ahead of Last Year

With several thousand more registered returns yet to be tabulated, the 1934 income taxes paid in the Chicago district yesterday were announced to total $29,948,842 by Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue. This figure exceeded by 42 per cent the $21,032,235 collected for 1933 at this time last year. The number of returns for 1934 now stands at 123,500, as compared to 119,500 for 1933. Since the 1933 taxes were collected the government has shifted four down-state counties from the Chicago area.

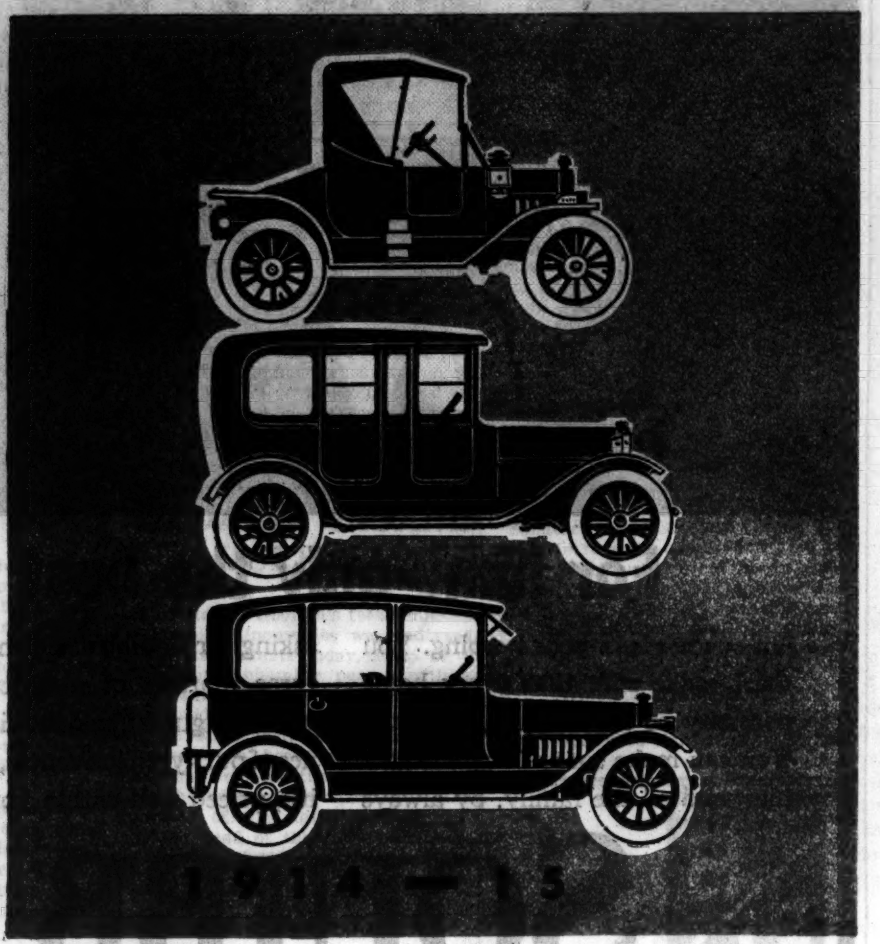
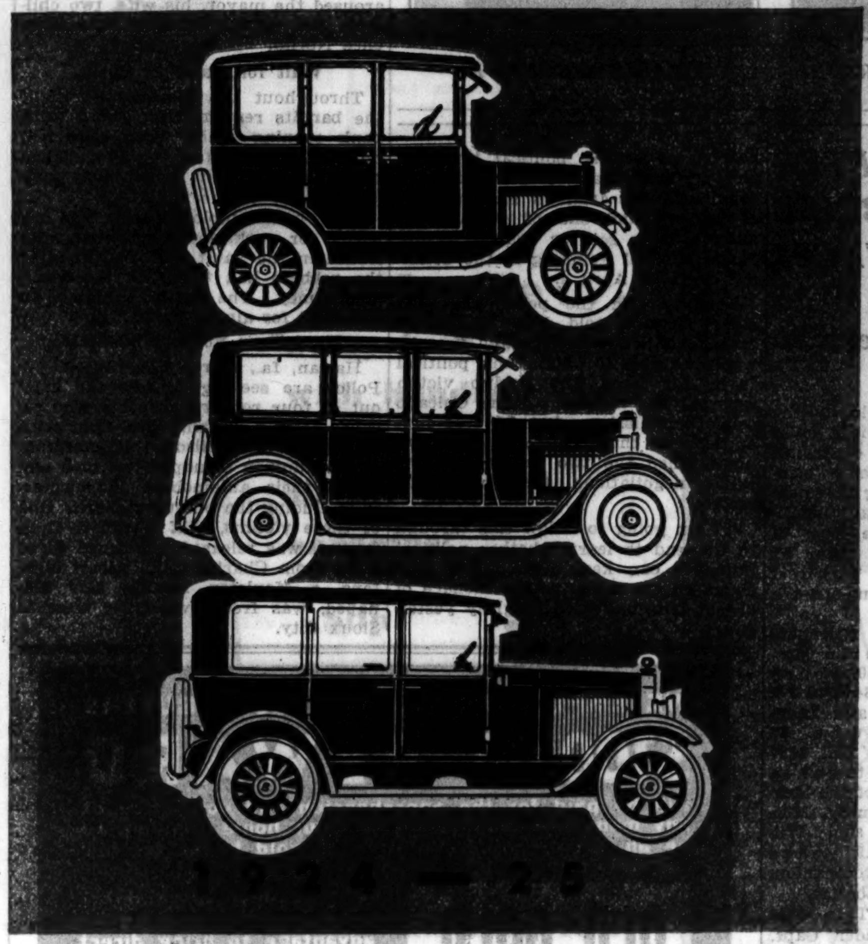
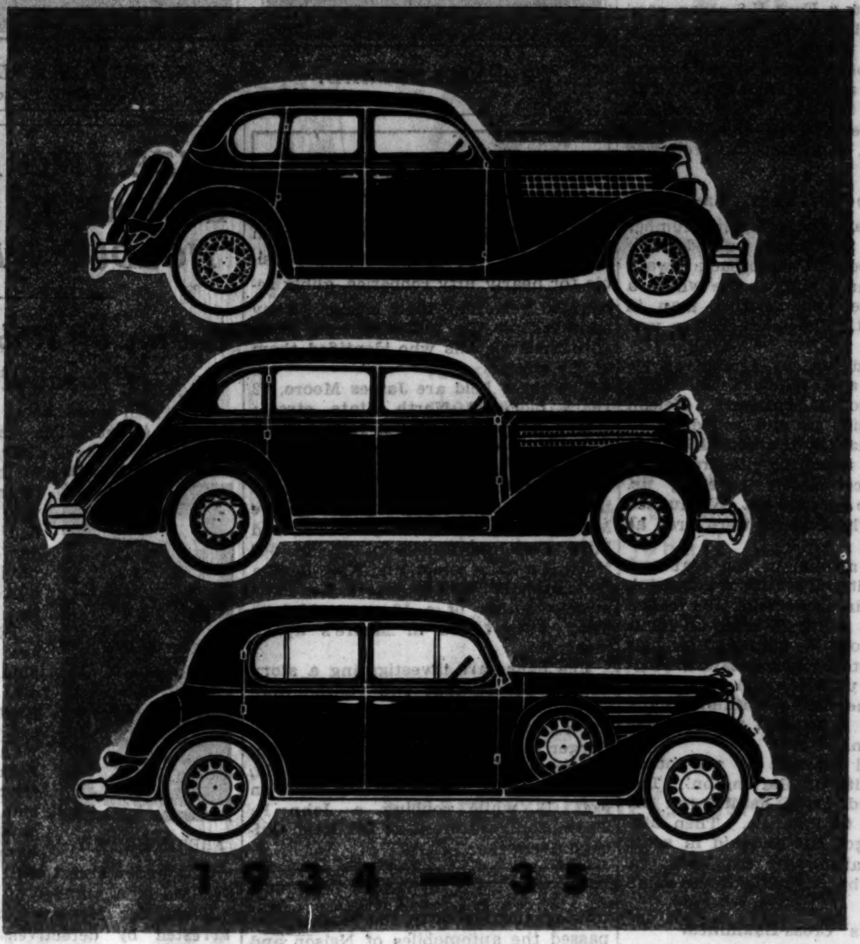
We are in a new Automobile Era!

Cars built since 1931 have twice the power and speed of ten years ago!







Continental offers you better lubrication for modern cars —an *Alloyed Oil with twice the film strength of other oils!

IT'S hard to realize how improved cars of the '30s are over those we drove ten years ago. We are in a new automobile era! Power and speed have almost doubled in a decade, with little increase in motor size.

Increased power has brought enormous increases in bearing pressures and crankcase temperatures. In making motor parts that will stand up under these severe conditions, car manufacturers have turned to new alloy metals of extra strength and durability. For the same reason, you must have oil with enough extra oiliness and film strength to protect your motor under extreme pressures!

Yet motor oils generally have no more oiliness and film strength now than they had ten years ago. New refining methods have recently come into use to make oils free from carbon and sludge. But these new refining processes have actually lowered instead of increased oiliness and film strength!

There is one exception—Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. It, too, is free from carbon and sludge troubles, as its users know after millions of trouble-free miles of driving. But more important, Timken machine tests prove that the new Germ Process* puts into this oil 2 to 4 times the film strength of any straight mineral oil! That extra film strength protects your motor under the most extreme pressures and heat.

Germ Processing gives other valuable advantages. Because Germ Processed Oil penetrates and combines with metal surfaces, a "Hidden Quart" stays up in your motor and cuts down starting wear. Germ Processed Oil gives longer mileage with greater motor protection, as proved by the famous Indianapolis Destruction Test.

Plain mineral oils were all right ten years ago—today they are becoming obsolete. Say "O. K.—Drain"—fill with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and drive with the comfortable assurance that your oil meets your motor's needs!

★ Alloyed by the Patented Germ Process

Just as the metallurgist adds small amounts of other metals to make special alloy steels, so we add small quantities of concentrated oily essence to highly-refined, paraffin-base motor oil. This Germ Processing, discovered and patented by Continental scientists, gives Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil lubricating qualities no other oil has.

FEDERAL AGENTS TELL THRILLS OF OUTLAW BATTLE

Chase Identified in Court as Pal of "Baby Face."

Metcalfe had left it. He said that he called Cowley at the department headquarters from an apartment at Broadway and Hawthorne place shortly after 2:30 p. m. and was informed that Nelson, his wife, and another man, later identified as Chase, were driving southeast in the Northwest highway from Lake Como towards Chicago. Ryan and McDade were instructed to head them off.

With McDade driving, the two agents sped to the highway. At a point between Fox River Grove and Cary they saw a Ford V-8 sedan coming toward them. It was then about 4 p. m.

"We had been told that the car we wanted was a Ford sedan with Illinois license 639-578," Ryan testified. "This car, we saw, had the last three numbers, 578. We turned and followed the Ford.

It's the Car They Want.

"Then I saw the complete number and that was the car we wanted. Then the car turned and came back toward us. There was a man at the wheel, a woman beside him, another man in the back seat. The man driving was Nelson.

"He turned his car around as we passed him and followed us. Both cars were going southeast. Nelson drove up beside us and yelled, 'Pull over.' The man in the back seat had a Winchester repeating rifle trained at our heads, completely covering us. Then McDade speeded up. We ducked our heads. Three shots were fired at us.

"I turned around in the seat and fired back with my automatic pistol, aiming at their windshield. We traded shot for shot, going 75 miles an hour. We were about a mile and a half from Barrington when I saw a Hudson car pass us going the other way. [This was the car containing Hollis and Cowley.] I couldn't see who was in the Hudson.

"I reloaded my clip as we got to the west limits of Barrington. The Ford appeared to be gaining on us. We went on to Palatine. Then McDade and I got out and hid in some tall grass, waiting for the Ford. A Ford passed, but it was not the same one."

Ryan Is Cross-Examined.

O'Brien cross-examined Ryan.

Q.—Did you tell Nelson and the others you were policemen or agents when they were beside you? A.—No.

Q.—So you were hurrying away from those you were sent to arrest. A.—Correct.

Q.—Did you know Cowley and Hollis were coming out to get Nelson? A.—No. When the Hudson passed us I thought it might contain some of our agents, as our department has several of these cars, but I wasn't sure.

Q.—You and McDade never did stop running? A.—Not till we reached Palatine.

Q.—Were you firing at Nelson's car to make an arrest? A.—No. In self-defense. If they had stopped we would have made an arrest.

Q.—Did you go back to help the men who had passed you in the Hudson. A.—No.

Q.—Weren't you under instructions to shoot to kill Nelson and any one in his company? A.—We never got orders to shoot to kill any one.

McDade Takes the Stand.

Agent McDade, a slim young man with a mustache, who looked as if he would be more at home in a stag line than in a gun battle, was the next prosecution witness.

He said that on the day after the gun battle he saw a picture of the man who had been in the back seat of Nelson's car and who had fired on him and Ryan.

"Do you see that man in court?" District Attorney Green asked.

"Yes," McDade replied. "There he is." He pointed to Chase. The defendant arose, looked quickly at the jury, sat down.

O'Brien cross-examined McDade.

Q.—Did you and Ryan tell Nelson and the others in his car that you were government agents when they drove up beside you? A.—I wouldn't be here today if I had done that.

Chase Is a "Boy" to O'Brien.

Q.—Now this boy here. [O'Brien gestured toward Chase, who looked up startled. He is 32 years old.] He had a rifle trained on you and Ryan. There was nothing to stop him from killing you. But he didn't fire a shot then, did he? A.—No.

Q.—You and Ryan drove away from Nelson's party as quickly as you could, didn't you? A.—So would you! [There was a burst of laughter in the court and Judge Sullivan cautioned the crowd that if it was repeated he would clear the room.]

The gap in the story from the flight of Ryan and McDade to the fatal battle between Cowley and Hollis and the gangsters was not filled in by eyewitness testimony yesterday, but it was related in the government's opening statement to the jury by Brien McMahon, special assistant to the United States attorney general.

McMahon told what took place after Cowley and Hollis in the Hudson car passed the automobiles of Nelson and of Agents Ryan and McDade.

"Cowley and Hollis heard the shooting and saw what was happening," McMahon said. "They turned their car and began following Nelson's sedan, which appeared to have been disabled by a shot from Ryan's pistol.

"Chase opened fire through the back glass of the sedan at Cowley and Hollis. Nelson swung his car off the Northwest highway into the entrance to Barrington park and stopped. Nelson and his wife and Chase leaped to the ground and opened a steady stream of fire on Cowley and Hollis, who had stopped about 150 feet beyond and to the east of the park entrance.

"In a violent gun battle, during which both Chase and Hollis were shooting automatic rifles, Cowley and Hollis were mortally wounded.

Nelson and Pals Get Away.

"After Cowley and Hollis had dropped, Nelson got into their car, backed it up to where his car was standing, and Chase gathered up the guns in his arms and tossed them into the rear of the agents' car.

"Nelson, who had been mortally wounded, moved into the passenger side of the front seat. Chase took the wheel and started to flee. Mrs. Nelson ran toward the car and jumped into the rear seat.

"With Chase driving in a car belonging to the United States government, the three sped away in a northwesterly direction on the Northwest highway."

The body of Nelson was found the next day in Niles Center. Chase fled to California, where he was subsequently apprehended.

Mrs. Gillis is now serving a federal prison sentence of a year and a day for violating probation granted to her in Wisconsin last year after she had been found guilty of harboring the late John Dillinger, once her husband's leader. She is on the list of prosecution witnesses against Chase.

Gayly Admit Forays

Three youths held by the Woodlawn police as the "pants robbers," responsible for nearly fifty robberies, glibly recounted yesterday their crimes. They admitted all the robberies and joked with their victims who identified them at the station.

The three held are James Moore, 22 years old, 503 North State street; Harry Berger, 19, of 747 North Clark street, and Casper Stevens, 20, of 159 West Oak street. Three women, said to be their sweethearts, were held by the police for questioning. They are Miss Marie O'Connor, 21 years old, and Miss Florence Anderson, 22, of 902 North La Salle street, and Mrs. Bertha De Land, 29, of 833 North La Salle street, mother of a 12 year old boy. They were found in Moore's apartment.

The police are investigating a story told by Moore that two youths were arrested by the police three weeks ago for a robbery committed by his band. Berger said that he was a former companion of Howard Dille, 19 years old, of Chesterton, Ind., who was slain on Feb. 13 while robbing a John R. Thompson restaurant at 111 East Chicago avenue.

SEIZE TWO AFTER EFFORT TO BRIBE HOLDUP WITNESS

Victim of Robbery to Prosecute.

Two men were being held by the Maxwell street police last night on a charge of trying to bribe a complaining witness who had identified the son of one of them as having robbed him a month ago.

FRED BRIGHTLY.

The prisoners are Chris Messina, 50 years old, 1064 Polk street, and Leonard Tufo, 28 years old, 2827 Polk street, a friend of the Messina family. Messina's son, William, 19 years old, is under arrest with a companion, accused of a number of robberies.

The elder Messina and Tufo were arrested by detectives under Capt. John Norton after Frederick C. Brightly Jr., an official of the Standard Galvanizing company, 2619 West Van Buren street, the robbery victim, told of the alleged bribery. Brightley said the two men offered to repay him the $81 he lost in the robbery if he would promise not to identify the prisoners when he takes the witness stand in their robbery trial.

One Suspect Unidentified.

Brightly was held up on the street near his place of business on Feb. 23 by three men. He later identified young Messina and James Ippolito, 21 years odl, 727 Forquer street, as two of the three.

Young Messina, when arrested, boasted of having political influence and declared that he would not be convicted. His trial on four charges of robbery and one of stealing an automobile is set for hearing before Judge Michael Feinberg in the Criminal court on April 4.

Brightly told the police that the elder Messina told him he had a strong political influence and that he would be able to obtain any political favor for him. The holdup victim reported the incident to the Chicago crime commission when he was first approached three days ago. Monday night when the two returned to resume negotiations they were arrested.

"I am going to follow this through to the end to learn whether political influence can keep holdup men and thugs on the street to the menace of decent citizens," said Brightly yesterday.

BANDITS SEIZE SEDALIA MAYOR, THEN ROB BANK

Home Is Family's Prison Until Vaults Open.

Sedalia, Mo., March 19.—[Special.]—Three bandits were hunted tonight in this and nearby states after they had held Mayor O. B. Poundstone and five members of his family prisoners for several hours before robbing the Sedalia Bank and Trust company of about $16,000.

The robbers seized James Norlin, assistant cashier of the bank and a National Guard officer, as he was returning early today in uniform to the home of Mayor Poundstone, his brother-in-law, with whom he resides.

The gunmen went with Norlin to the Poundstone home. There they aroused the mayor, his wife, two children, and a sister-in-law, Miss Florence Norlin.

Wait for Bank to Open.

Throughout the rest of the night the bandits remained on guard until bank opening time. Then they tied up all the persons in the Poundstone home except Norlin, whom they took in their car to the bank.

Four bank employés, who had reported for work, and a customer were locked in the vault with Norlin after the robbers had taken all the available money. The victims remained in the vault for almost half an hour.

Hunt Four Robbery Suspects.

Harlan, Ia., March 19.—[Special.]—Police are seeking tonight the hideout of four robbery suspects who escaped after a running gun fight with Sherif Grover Philson this morning.

The gunmen kidnaped two men and seized their automobiles in successfully eluding the pursuing sherif. One of these victims, Cliff Gardner, 41, a farmer, was released unharmed three miles from Charter Oak. Albert Martens, a Mapleton farmer, also kidnaped, was freed two miles west of Sioux City.

FINDS A BUYER FOR HIS HOUSE AND LOSES $1,200

Two weeks ago John Reva, 55 years old, 755 South Kolmar avenue, met a man named Rossi, who produced a buyer after learning of Reva's desire to sell the two flat building he lives in and owns.

The buyer told Reva he couldn't lay his hands on the necessary money immediately. Also he needed $1,200 to visit a sick brother in California. If Reva would lend him this, the "buyer" said, it would be returned with large interest plus $5,000 for the house.

Reva was skeptical at first, but finally supplied the $1,200 after his new friend, Rossi, to show his good faith, gave Reva $3,000 of his own money to hold as security. Last night Reva opened the bundle of "security" and found two $10 bills and a bunch of cigar coupons. He told his story to the Fillmore street police.

Y., who ran away a week ago from Houghton college, Houghton, N. Y. She had only 25 cents after hitch-hiking for a week. The only explanation she gave for leaving school was that she "was tired of classes.

LYONS ATTACKS STAND BY U. S. ON ILLINOIS RELIEF

Asks if State Is Puppet or Sovereign.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 19.—[Special.]—A member of the Illinois house today made caustic comment on the Federal Emergency Relief administration's refusal to approve either of two pending bills changing the form of relief administration in Illinois from the present state board to county control.

Representative Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Libertyville], author of a measure providing for cash relief disbursed by county boards, was said to be preparing a retort to "blister" Harry L. Hopkins and his assistant administrator, Aubrey Williams.

Illinois State or Puppet?

"Now is the time," Lyons shouted, "to determine whether Illinois is a sovereign state or a puppet creature of the Washington burocracy. Does this social service worker head of the FERA think Illinois is merely a financial suburb of the nation's capital? Are we to have no voice in saying how the money we are told to raise shall be spent?

"I think it would be traitorous to the people of this state for this legislature to vote the 36 millions annually demanded by Washington if we are not to be allowed to change the relief system. In my present mood I'm ready and willing to tell Washington to go to hell."

Chicago taxpayers who are prompt in paying their bills would benefit from the provisions of a bill passed by the house and sent to the senate for concurrence.

The measure, introduced by Edward Skarda [Dem., Chicago], provides that where a common error has been made in assessing real estate, and 25 per cent of the properties have had relief by court order, others whose lands were similarly erroneously assessed shall have like relief. If the taxes have not been paid the assessment would be corrected. If the taxes have been paid credit would be given on subsequent tax bills.

Financial aid for public schools, in line with recommendation of a committee of the state educational commission, was moved forward with a report from the appropriations committee recommending the passage of H. B. 80.

This bill would provide for the transfer of one million a month from May to September, inclusive, from the sales tax fund to the common school fund.

Protests Pink Slip Law.

The house added its protest to the disclosure of income tax returns through the pink slips at the request of Charles H. Weber [Dem., Chicago]. The house unanimously adopted a resolution of regret for the death of Richard Berry Harrison, who depicted De Lawd in the play "Green Pastures."

Among the new bills introduced in the house were:

Joseph H. Davis [Dem. Murphysboro]—A series of nine bills permitting guardians of private funds and custodians of public funds to invest in mortgage notes or bonds of the Federal Housing administration.

Frank Holton [Dem. East St. Louis]—Would permit paying $10 a month additional salary to employés of state institutions who furnish or provide amusement for inmates.

Hearings were announced on a permanent registration bill on March 26 before the elections committee and on drivers' license and financial responsibility bills on April 3.

Kindness Pays

JOSEPHINE MELONE.

Josephine Melone, 18 years old, was planning yesterday what she would do when she receives a kindness dividend, amounting to $23,361, plus half of an old $2 bill. The money was left her by Tina Donner, 75 years old, 2144 Ogden avenue, next door neighbor of Miss Melone. For years Mrs. Donner was ill, and every day the girl would come over, fix breakfast and help her to dress. One day the invalid gave her half of an old $2 bill, promising that some day she would get the other half, with something else as well. When she died her entire estate was left to Josephine. The girl said yesterday that she had made no definite plans.

STERILIZATION OF GEORGIA INSANE PASSES SENATE

Atlanta, Ga., March 19.—(AP)—Sterilization of Georgia's feeble-minded and criminal incurables was indorsed by the state senate today, 30 to 10.

The upper chamber passed with a minor amendment a house-originated bill providing for sterilization of persons in state institutions and establishment of a board of eugenics to select subjects for the operation.

The board would be made up of the chairman of the state board of control, the head of the state health department, and the superintendent of the state hospital.

Hijackers Seize a Truck with $3,000 Liquor Load

Joseph Novak, 939 North Lincoln street, reported to the police last evening that he had been robbed at Canal street and Roosevelt road of a truck loaded with 100 cases of whisky. Three armed men, he said, climbed on the truck when he halted for a trafic light. He was released by his captors at Dearborn street and Cermak road. The truck belonged to the Pennoyer Merchants' Transfer company and the cargo was valued at $3,000.

GRANDMOTHER OF 30 DIES.

Coldwater, Mich., March 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Rettie M. Houck, 71, died at her home here today. Survivors include 10 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren.

SENATORS AGAIN DELAY VOTE ON WOMEN JURORS

Bill's Proponents Fail to Gain Strength.

Springfield, Ill., March 19.—[Special.]—Proponents of the women's jury bill were put to rout in the senate today for the second time when they failed to muster 26 votes. Two weeks ago Senator J. S. Mundy [Dem., Marshall], the bill's sponsor, ran into the same difficulty, the bill then as today only getting 23 votes.

Consideration of the measure again was postponed, but Mundy declared that he has enough votes to pass it and would call it up again when his votes were present. Only 39 senators voted today, but some who were present did not answer to the roll call.

"Perhaps, with the exception of Cook county, other courthouses in the state are not prepared for women serving on juries, and haven't funds to provide the facilities," said R. Wallace Karraker [Dem., Jonesboro].

"Also, I doubt whether this bill would improve the administration of justice."

Says Women Dislike Idea.

Senator Martin B. Lohmann [Dem., Pekin] declared that none of the women in the six counties that he represents appear to want to serve on juries. To this Senator Noah M. Mason [Rep., Oglesby] answered that women are allowed to vote and so should assume all the duties and responsibilities of citizenship.

Two bills affecting the Chicago Sanitary district were passed. One would permit the district to turn the North Shore channel road over to the state or county so that it would be adequately policed, and the other relates to the disposal of sludge.

Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago], introduced a bill sponsored by Mayor Kelly authorizing the issuance of refunding bonds by municipalities, park, schools, forest preserve and sanitary districts without a referendum. The bill was sent to second reading without reference to a committee.

Armed to Lighten Load.

The measure was said to be part of a program to lighten the Chicago tax load by spreading over a greater number of years the payment of large amounts of bond principal due now because of excessive expenditures before the depression.

Another new bill, introduced by Senator George M. Maypole [Dem., Chicago], would increase the share that race track owners get from money wagered on the horses. It increases the operators' "take" from 6½ to 7½ per cent. It increases the "break" from one cent to ten cents, which would add to the operators' revenue, according to horse race fans.

"Owners of tracks in Illinois say that they are losing money each racing season," said Maypole, "and that racing cannot continue in Illinois under the present percentage."

A fee of $1 would be charged annually for the renewal of licenses of physicians and dentists under a bill introduced by Senator Francis J. Loughran [Dem., Chicago]. He said the medical and dental societies are behind the bill with the provision that the money be used by the department of registration and education to expose quacks.

INJURY TO HIP FATAL.

Taylorville, Ill., March 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Eliza Yoho, 88, one of Christian county's oldest residents, died here today. She fell and fractured her hip two weeks ago.

G. O. P. MAYORAL CAMPAIGN LIMPS TO A STANDSTILL

Republican mayoral campaign plans came to another standstill yesterday. Emil C. Wetten, the nominee, and Edward F. Moore, acting chairman of the city organization, failed to select a committee to coöperate with Mr. Wetten for the two weeks remaining before the April 2 election. They did not meet.

Mr. Wetten confirmed reports that he would conduct his own campaign without the customary manager. This decision is said to have been caused by the impossibility of naming as manager any leader acceptable to all factions.

In the meantime the Democratic organization was continuing to work with machinelike precision. The third and fourth of a series of six meetings of workers at the Hotel Morrison were held during the day. All told, it was estimated, 9,000 workers will attend these meetings and receive instructions about handling their precincts. Most of them are on Democratic pay rolls.

Dr. Alban Girault, the French Specialist, says: "Almost unbelievable how well it works!"

Dr. Girault (at right) has been chief of clinic of the Paris Faculty of Medicine—is a leading member of distinguished medical societies. He says of this new yeast:

"I was amazed at its results when used on large numbers of patients. Instead of acting harshly and temporarily as cathartics do, it stimulates secretion of digestive juices and restores bowel action naturally... It is a notable discovery."

Patients in clinics are getting remarkable relief from this new food.

Almost unheard of.. these results in a well-known U. S. hospital

IN HOSPITALS in this country, astonishing results are being obtained with the new Fleischmann's Yeast: 93% of constipation cases corrected in one clinic; 83% of indigestion cases relieved in another; 89% of skin cases of digestive origin in another. Typical cases from one hospital's actual records are:—

CASE OF T. E. MAN. AGE 30. Suffered from chronic constipation. Used strong cathartics habitually. Tongue coated. Showed obvious symptoms of autointoxication from bowel wastes.

Eating three cakes of the new Fleischmann's Yeast daily gave improvement by end of first week of the treatment. Easier bowel movements daily without laxatives. Felt better.

CASE OF K. M. MAN. AGE 62. Had used strong cathartics and enemas for chronic constipation for 10 years. Discomfort from gas. Pale, weak. Was on a special diet.

Treatment with Fleischmann's new Yeast improved his digestion. Patient was able to discontinue cathartics and enemas as a result. Feels better. No discomfort from gas. Now has natural daily bowel evacuations.

CASE OF K. Q. WOMAN. AGE 51. Had used strong cathartics for chronic constipation for years. Appetite poor. Frequent headaches. Very nervous. Complained of abdominal heaviness.

After eating Fleischmann's new Yeast, appetite improved. After one week, had daily evacuations without cathartics. No more headaches. Nervousness relieved, no more discomfort from gas.

Completely corrected by this new discovery... chronic

CASES OF CONSTIPATION

A new food supplies "Protective Substances" stomach and bowels need to work properly. No other food*, even fruits and vegetables, supplies enough of them!

IT is a fact that hospitals are now correcting even stubborn cases of constipation—simply by adding one food to the diet!

For some time it has been known that "protective substances" were needed in the diet for the stomach and bowels to work properly. When these "protective substances" are undersupplied—digestion slows up, people become constipated.

*Ordinary foods—even fruits and green vegetables—do not supply enough of these substances.

But one food now supplies them in abundance. This food is the new Fleischmann's Yeast—their richest source!

This new Fleischmann's Yeast builds up a healthier condition of the whole intestinal tract. As soon as it reaches the stomach, it starts an increased flow of digestive juices. It tones and strengthens nerves and muscles all through your intestines. Digestion improves. Bowels work better. The skin clears. Energy increases.

Begin to eat the new Fleischmann's Yeast. Eat it regularly—don't stop when you begin to feel better, but go on eating it! Do this for your own health.

THIS IS THE WAY YOU SHOULD EAT IT:

Eat three cakes of the new Fleischmann's fresh Yeast each day. People vary in the amount they need—some eat 4, 5 or even 6 cakes a day, although 3 cakes daily are usually enough. A little experimenting will show you just the amount you need.

Eat it just plain, or dissolved in ⅓ glassful of water . . . or in milk, fruit juices or fountain drinks. Or spread on a cracker.

Eat it one-half hour before each meal. This gives it a chance to start your digestive juices flowing before other food enters your stomach.

If you're taking cathartics, discontinue them gradually. As the new Fleischmann's Yeast strengthens your digestive system, you can stop using laxatives and cathartics entirely.

You can get the new Fleischmann's Yeast at grocers, soda fountains and restaurants—in the foil-wrapped cake with the yellow label.

THE NEW FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST is a food—not a medicine. Eaten regularly, it can make and keep your bowels completely "regular."

TO THE MEDICAL PROFESSION:

In recent tests, Fleischmann's new Yeast increased peptic activity up to 30%; speeded up stomach's "emptying time" 34%; increased gastric secretion and motility measurably.

Its most important substance resembles a digestive hormone. It also supplies four vitamins: Vitamin A, for health of epithelial tissue, B for proper nerve functioning, G for growth, and D to aid in assimilation of lime.

Constipation may be serious, especially if due to an organic disorder. To be sure, see a doctor.

ROYAL JUBILEE WILL ATTRACT U. S. TRAVELERS

Several Chicago Groups to Visit England.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Every liner moving out of New York harbor to England the next three months will be carrying dozens of passengers whose primary vacation objective is a close-up of King George.

And if they don't see His Britannic Majesty first hand it will be their own fault. Between May 6 and the middle of June King George and Queen Mary will ride in brilliant state at least a half dozen times through the streets of London.

Celebrating Silver Jubilee.

The occasion is the celebration of the silver jubilee of King George's accession to the throne, already heralded by plans for state receptions, balls, and garden parties and the casting of souvenirs of every variety.

On May 6, the anniversary date of King George's accession in 1905, he and Queen Mary will ride in a gilded coach to St. Paul's cathedral for a thanksgiving service. First row seats on Ludgate hill, the vantage point from which to see the arrival, are now on the market for $250. But there will be plenty of places along the four mile drive from which the procession can be viewed for nothing.

On four Saturdays starting May 11 the king and queen will ride through other parts of the city. On one of these days they will go to the north, another to the south, and two final week-ends to the east and west.

Brilliant Entertainments.

Among the other attractions will be the two state balls at Buckingham palace on May 14 and June 13 and the garden party at the palace on July 25. The public ball will be held May 22 in Guildhall, the fifteenth century headquarters of the corporation of the city of London, at which King George has promised to be present.

With the jubilee in mind, Mrs. Helen Walton is going to England to visit her sister, Mrs. Chalmers C. McGuffie. Taking her son, Woodworth, back to his studies at the Hill school after his spring vacation, she will board the United States liner Washington on April 10.

Making plans to go abroad at the same time are Mrs. Ambrose Cramer and her daughter, Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson. Mrs. Ryerson's children are playing an important part in their arrangements, for she will take her son, Anthony, back to the Brooks school before sailing, and then she and Mrs. Cramer will visit her daughter, Joan, who is in school in Paris.

Mrs. Bradley Bound for England.

Mrs. J. Dorr Bradley, who crossed several weeks ago on the Champlain, has included England's jubilee in her itinerary, and so has Dr. Clarence Neymann, a member of the faculty of the Northwestern university medical school, who sailed on the French liner Champlain last Saturday.

Although Miss Harriet Tilden, daughter of the Averill Tildens of Winnetka, is thinking first of a trip to Bermuda with her sister, Miss Ruth Tilden, a student at Sarah Lawrence college, she is looking forward to June when she will go abroad in time for at least a part of the jubilee celebration.

England has not celebrated many silver jubilees in its history . . . only 14 others to be exact. Victoria sat on the throne for 64 years, George III. for 60 years, and Henry III. for 56 years. Elizabeth ruled 55 years and Edward III. 50 years. Nine other kings have held sway for a quarter of a century or more.

Victoria's Jubilees Recalled.

Receptions and balls were given at the time of Queen Victoria's silver and golden jubilees, but she did not attend. This attaches ever greater significance to the fact that King George and Queen Mary will be present at the jubilee functions this spring.

Although the primary objective of a trip to Europe for Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Morse is a visit with their daughter and son-in-law, the Baron and Baroness Wolfgang B. von Peccoz, they always do a number of other interesting things before returning to this country. Mrs. Morse is coming back to Lake Forest this week from Seattle, where she has been visiting her other daughter and son-in-law, the William S. Covingtons, to make preparations to sail with Mr. Morse on the Italian liner Rex a week from Saturday. Baron and Baroness von Peccoz make their home in Munich.

Go to Rome for Easter.

Anxious to get to Rome for Easter, Mrs. George D. McLaughlin and Mrs. Ezra Warner are others sailing the 30th on the Rex. Their trip was previously delayed because of illness in Mrs. McLaughlin's family.

Others in Italy this spring will be the Austin R. McCartans. Mr. and Mrs. McCartan and Miss McCartan, Jeannette, are sailing at noon tomorrow from New York on the North German Lloyd liner Hamburg. Mr. McCartan, a vice president of Wilson & Co., will pass most of his time on business in Paris, Barcelona, Berlin, and Rome, while Mrs. McCartan and Miss McCartan vacation in France and Italy.

S. M. ROBERTSES SAIL

Happy at the prospect of eleven days in the Atlantic and on the Caribbean, Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd M. Roberts of Winnetka left Sunday to sail today on the Cunard-White Star liner Georgic. They are accompanied by their son, Charles, a Lake Forest academy student.

On their way past Jamaica and through the Caribbean now are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Marshall and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart J. Templeton, all of Lake Forest. They are aboard the Grace liner Santa Rosa on their way to Los Angeles. On the same boat are Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Mandel Jr., who are on their wedding trip.

Holland-American Cruise.

La Guayra's mountainside waterfront and Curacao with its hearty Hollanders are both on the itinerary of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lehmann and the H. B. Carpenters, who sailed last Saturday on the Rotterdam of the Holland-American line. They will be cruising 12 days. The last Holland-American West Indies cruise this season will be on the Statendam leaving New York April 19. The line has planned Bermuda cruises, however, to start April 29 and May 29. On June 29 the Rotterdam will leave for the North Cape and Russia.

One of the unusual features about a cruise over the Canadian National Steamship line is the use of Boston as the home port. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander L. Marshall have just returned from the West Indies to Boston on the Lady Rodney. Some time this week Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Ross and their daughter will be returning from a cruise on the Lady Nelson to Bermudan Demerara, and British Guiana.

Chicagoan on Catalina Vacation

LEVIATHAN OUT OF SEA SERVICE; CALLED TOO OLD

Washington, D. C., March 19.—(AP)—The Leviathan has come of age only to lose its proud place on the seas—this time probably forever.

Twenty-one years old this year, the Leviathan, through an agreement between Secretary Roper and the United States lines, has been placed on the retired list as too old and expensive. Its place is to be taken by a new ship, smaller but more up to date, with a better chance of attracting passengers.

In 1914 the Leviathan was the Vaterland, greatest of imperial Germany's liners. After the United States entered the war, as the Leviathan, the big ship transported 94,965 troops to France and returned 80,606.

The Leviathan, allocated to the United States after the war, was reconditioned in 1922 as an oil burner and returned to the seas in 1923, thereafter carrying more than 250,000 passengers, but in 1934 the Leviathan carried only about 200 passengers a voyage, while its capacity is 2,646.

SHIP LINE EXECUTIVES TELL OF SWIFT GAINS IN TRAVEL BUSINESS

The travel business is on the increase throughout the United States, and especially in the Chicago area, according to Marcel Delaporte, trafic manager for the French Line in the United States and Canada, at a luncheon of travel company executives yesterday in the Palmer house. Mr. Delaporte came to Chicago yesterday from New York for a two day visit.

From a cable just received Mr. Delaporte also reported that the giant new Normandie of the French Line, which will make its maiden voyage the beginning of June, was towed on Monday from St. Nazaire to Joubert, where it will be in dry dock the next fifteen days. It will leave St. Nazaire on April 20 to make its trial test. The maiden voyage will be made east from New York.

K. A. Cook, general agent of the Canadian Pacific Steamship Line in Chicago, bore out Mr. Delaporte's statements concerning an upturn in the travel business. Mr. Cook pointed out that "the only increase over the budget estimates for the state department at Washington recommended by a special committee is to be found in an appropriation for the maintenance of passport agencies.

COURT MARTIAL OF 1,000 TO OPEN TODAY IN CUBA

Political Foes of Regime Face Stern Punishment.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, March 19.—Havana's military governor, Lieut. Col. Jose Pedraza, has ordered the release of 235 prisoners picked up during last week's revolutionary strike tension, but he made it known that army tribunals are preparing to deal sternly with about 1,000 others.

It was announced that three summary courtmartial cases will be opened in the headquarters of the Fifth military district tomorrow. There were indications that the trio will face capital punishment. Under the emergency measures of the government those convicted of sabotage, armed attacks on the public forces, and terrorism, may be shot by a firing squad.

Names of Those Seized Secret.

Strict official silence continued to conceal the names of the hundreds arrested during the breaking up of the anti-government movement. The names of the officers making up military tribunals were also withheld from the press.

It was learned that more than 100 persons, including strike leaders and representatives of President Mendieta's political opposition are in hiding here. At least a third that many were known to have fled into exile in the United States.

Indication was given in the interior department that three of Havana's newspapers which were suppressed by the government during the strike would soon be permitted to publish under drastic new legislation being prepared to prevent printing of so-called alarmist or distorted accounts of national happenings.

Plan Graduated Penalties.

Secretary of the Interior Maximiliano Smith in discussing the tentative press gag laws with newspaper men said that the penalties will be placed on a graduated scale through which fines will be levied against violators.

Despite the markedly improved situation in Cuban capital, the midnight curfew, which prohibits all persons from the streets after 12 p. m., will continue to be enforced for at least the remainder of this week, according to an announcement by Military Governor Pedraza.

Refuses to Stay in Bed; Auto Injuries Are Fatal

South Bend, Ind., March 19.—[Special.]—Automobile injuries which he refused to let keep him in bed proved fatal today to Casimir Pietrozewski. He was found dead a short distance from his home by his brother James, South Bend detective. He was struck Monday by an automobile and was taken to the Epworth hospital. After treatment he asked to be taken to his home.

SUN WILL CROSS LINE TOMORROW, STARTING SPRING

Chicago to Have Cold Snap Tonight.

Swinging back into the northern hemisphere for a six months stay, the sun will cross the equator at 7:18 a. m. tomorrow, marking the vernal equinox, or the arrival of spring.

But the temperature will not be very springlike. Forecaster W. P. Day asserted that the balmy weather of the last week will end tonight. The mercury will dip to below freezing and stay there until tomorrow morning.

Forecaster Day looked back yesterday over the winter records and said there was little to distinguish the season from other ordinary winters.

Very Ordinary Winter.

The average from Dec. 1 to Feb. 19 was about 2 degrees warmer than normal. The total precipitation of 7.25 inches was .23 of an inch less than normal. There has been about 6 per cent less sunshine than usual and about 12 per cent more cloudy days. None of these facts are unusual, Mr. Day said.

Seven degrees below zero on Jan. 24 was the lowest temperature reached. In snowfall, this winter did better than usual [and the big March blizzard hasn't come yet]. The total was 43.6 inches, as compared to the normal of 30.5 inches. A total of 27.4 inches set a record for December.

Spikes Old Superstition.

Speaking of the superstition that great storms occur during the spring and autumn equinoxes, Forecaster Day remarked: "That is so much hokum. Because storms occur in various parts of the country at these times, as they do every day, many people blame the equinox. That is ridiculous."

It also is equally ridiculous, Mr. Day declared, to suppose that the direction of the wind at the time of the vernal equinox has anything to do with the kind of spring following. The weather bureau always is beseiged with telephone calls on that day asking the wind direction, Mr. Day said.

"Because the indications are that we will have gentle easterly winds Thursday, I suppose many people will think spring will be mild," he stated. "It is impossible to forecast the weather accurately more than a day or two in advance."

Parents Now Give Consent to Miss Grainger to Wed

Hollywood, Cal., March 19.—[Special.]—Bars of parental objection withdrawn, Dorothy Grainger, film actress, and George Lollier, assistant director, today announced they plan to be married within the next two weeks at the Little Church of the Flowers in Glendale. They previously applied for a marriage license but Miss Grainger's parents objected.

Actor Whiteside May Leave Montana Hospital Soon

Great Falls, Mont., March 19.—(AP)—Walker Whiteside, veteran actor, who has been confined to his hotel room here by illness, was told today he might start for his New York home within a week. Whiteside's ailment, described as a general physical breakdown, necessitated the cancellation of his remaining engagements and his company was disbanded here yesterday.

PWA FUNDS BUILD WORLD'S FINEST SEWERS FOR CITY

BY GUY MURCHIE JR.

The federal Public Works administration has loaned $43,633,000 to help complete Chicago's new sanitary sewerage system. This money, the last installment of which was loaned less than two months ago [Jan. 24], is being expended to cleanse the Chicago river. This is done by intercepting the old sewers which used to empty into the river and diverting their sewage to special treatment plants.

For years Chicago's sewer system, administered by the sanitary district, has been the envy of engineers all over the world. By next fall, when the new 17½ foot intercepting tunnel begins to serve the loop, the near north side, and the west side, the system will have made another great advance. And by 1938 it will be adequate to serve with sanitation the city's entire population as well as the expected increase in population for many decades.

How Money Is Spent.

An idea of just how this PWA loan is being spent—and it is only a fraction of Chicago's present total investment in sanitary sewer construction—can be gained by a look at some of the new treatment plants and the tunnels that feed them. At the junction of Ashland avenue with Blue Island avenue and 22d street there is a shaft house which marks the present entrance to one section of the large new west side sewage tunnel.

This vast tube, some forty feet under Blue Island avenue, is being dug at the rate of sixteen feet a day through solid limestone, gradually eating its way toward the nearly completed West Side treatment plant in the Village of Stickney.

Entering the pump house at 22d street, a visitor notices along one wall a row of emergency gas masks vitally necessary during the rare occasions when the diggers hit a jet of gas or a fire starts in the tunnel.

Elevators Carry Workers.

Two elevators, equipped with small railroad tracks, take the workmen down to the tunnel's floor, where they must enter a large cylindrical tank before continuing.

This is a pressure chamber or air lock. The part of the tunnel where the digging is going on is under seven pounds above normal air pressure. The added pressure is necessary to hold back seepages of water which otherwise would constantly interfere with drilling, blasting, and pouring of cement.

The eight foot high cylinder that the men must enter, pushing their empty cars along the track with them until the air tight doors can be closed, is the only connecting link between the outside world and the sealed interior tunnel. Once the doors are closed, the air valve connecting the chamber with the sealed tunnel is opened, letting the tunnel's air roar into the inclosure, while the men swallow and blow against their ear drums to accustom themselves to the seven extra pounds now pressing against every square inch of their bodies.

Ride Electric Train.

As soon as the air inside the cylinder is equal in pressure to that in the inner tunnel the second door is opened and the train of cars drawn by its tiny electric locomotive rumbles down the track. The air is heavy with fog as the train, very similar to the kind seen on all railroad freight platforms, carries the men for a mile or so to the blind end of the great cement tube.

Here some dozen drillers and shovelers are facing a blank wall of solid rock. While some work with drills, preparatory to the next blasting, others erect steel plates supported by arches against the newly made roof to prevent caveins. Still others work with compressed air shovels and hand shovels to fill the cars with the loose blasted rock.

Improvement Since 1900.

All this is but a glimpse at one section of nearly a hundred miles of intercepting sewers constructed by the sanitary district. Before inspecting the new treatment plants to which they lead, it might help to review briefly the great developments which led up to all this.

Until 1900 all of Chicago's sewage emptied into Lake Michigan, either directly or by way of the Chicago and Calumet rivers. The lake also served as the only drinking water supply. Obviously something had to be done. Every year there were more people in Chicago, and as increasing volumes of sewage flowed into the lake, the death rate from typhoid fever ran high.

The sanitary district was created by legislative act in 1889. Its purpose was to safeguard Chicago's drinking water supply. In 1892 work was begun on what is now the main sanitary canal, 28 miles long, connecting the Chicago river's south branch with the Illinois river, which flows into the Mississippi.

Reverse River's Flow.

The purpose of this canal, completed in 1900, was to keep sewage out of the lake by reversing the flow of the river, thus diverting the river sewage to the Mississippi. The scheme worked well in regard to the river sewage, but much sewage was still piped directly into the lake without coming near the river.

To divert this also, intercepting sewers were built along the lake front emptying into the north branch of the Chicago river, connecting the north branch of the Chicago river with Lake Michigan north of Evanston and helping to dilute sewage in the river as well as intercept more old sewers.

Followng the completion of this north shore channel, a canal was built in Calumet connecting the Calumet river with the main sanitary channel, reversing the Calumet river in the same manner that the Chicago river had previously been reversed. Now only a comparatively few sewers still emptied into the lake, for all sewage that once entered either the Calumet river, the north shore channel, or any part of the Chicago river system flowed away from the lake and into the Illinois river.

River Towns Complain.

But, though the drinking water supply was now quite safe, the various rivers were burdened heavily with sewage, and complaints were made by the Illinois river towns that the waste matter of Chicago was a nuisance to them. Also by 1908 it became apparent that the sewage of the city's future population would be too much for the river water to dilute. Other criticism of the sanitary district's work came from neighboring Great Lakes states based on the allegation that the reversal of rivers is lowering the lake levels. Diligently the district's engineers set about finding ways to remove these objections.

Treatment plants to purify all the city's sewage was their answer. This solution would not only satisfy the Illinois river towns, but by reducing the necessity for diluting the sewage in water it would make possible a substantial decrease in the flow of the water out of the lake.

If treatment plants were to treat the sewage, however, how would the sewage get to the plants? To try to treat the sewage after it entered the rivers would necessitate treating the rivers, which would be practically impossible. Somehow the sewage must be intercepted before it gets to the rivers. And so the intercepting sewers had to be built.

Intercepts River Sewers.

This explains what makes necessary the giant sewage tunnel now being dug forty feet under Blue Island avenue. Like much of the already completed intercepting sewer network to the north, this tunnel runs close and parallel to the river in order to intercept the maximum number of the numerous small sewers which were made to empty into it. Starting in tributaries round the loop and the near north side this intercepting sewer grows in size as it picks up the lesser sewers on its way westward, until when it reaches the west side treating plant it measures 17½ feet in diameter.

The west side treating plant is only one of four planned treating plants, each to take care of one of the four sections into which the sanitary district is divided: the north side, north of Fullerton avenue; the west side, between Fullerton avenue and Roosevelt road, together with all territory west of the south branch of the Chicago river; Calumet, south of 87th street, and the southwest side, between the west side and Calumet.

North Side Plant Working.

The north side treating plant, at Howard avenue and McCormick boulevard, is already complete and working. It is now handling 200,000,000 gallons of sewage daily, more than the total sewage treatment capacity of any other city in the world. The southwest side treating plant, which is to have twice the capacity of the north side plant, is still on paper, but will be completed by 1938. The Calumet and the west side treating plants are nearing completion, while handling all the sewage that the incomplete tunnels convey to them.

The reason for Chicago's large volume of sewage is that sewage consists mostly of water, and Chicago has such an ample water supply in Lake Michigan that it is not necessary to sell it to consumers according to the volume consumed. For this reason Chicagoans can afford to be lavish with water, cooling themselves, their milk bottles, and their sidewalks with water all summer at no cost, instead of having to pay for ice or electric fans.

Much Experimental Work.

Chicago's sewage problem is unique in the world and the sanitary district's treatment plants have no precedent to go by. In consequence a vast amount of experimental work is being done. The west side plant uses Imhoff tanks, while the north side and Calumet plants employ the more efficient "activated sludge" method of sewage treatment.

Sewage treatment at the west side plant (with its Imhoff tanks) briefly is as follows: As the sewage enters the plant in a 17½ foot tunnel 40 feet underground it is pumped up to the necessary level by large electrically driven centrifugal pumps. Then it passes through strainers.

After the strainer, the sewage passes through a series of tanks designed to collect the heavier matter by settling. On entering, the speed of flow is reduced to one foot per second, which is sufficient to allow most of the sediment to reach bottom before the liquid gets to the other end of the tank.

Through Other Processes.

The first of these tanks is called the grit chamber, the last one an Imhoff tank. By the time the sewage leaves the Imhoff tank it is separated into fairly pure water and a soupy substance known as sludge [slime plus fudge].

The sludge is poured upon underdrained sand beds which are so designed that the liquid filters down through the deep sand and drains off, while the solid matter is allowed to dry, becoming oxidized through contact with the air. Once dry it is carted away and dumped, or used as fertilizer by any farmers who desire to come and get it. This dried sludge is practically odorless, and is far less objectionable than the ordinary garbage which is sometimes deposited near it.

At the north side treating plant a more efficient system of sewage disposal is employed. Here, after the heavier sediment is removed, the partially treated liquid passes through an aeration tank 420 feet long. From the bottom of this tank compressed air is allowed to escape through millions of tiny holes, and during its upward course through the 15 feet of sewage it oxidizes the matter suspended in the liquid.

This oxidation acts to burn or purge all organic materials present so that the liquid emerges at the end of the process approximately 92 per cent pure. In this condition it passes into the North Shore channel and thence southward into the north branch of the Chicago river, into the south branch, into the main sanitary canal, and at last, by way of the Mississippi, into the Gulf of Mexico.

Experiments are being conducted with a view to finding the most efficient way to dispose of sludge. So far the tests indicate that a special process of drying and burning is considerably more satisfactory than the sand bed drying method now used at the west side plant. In all probability the new southwest side plant, which is to be built close to the west side plant, will embrace this new drying and burning process.

Will Eliminate Hauling.

Vacuum filters and heat driers will do the drying, while the burning will be done in a furnace, the powdered sludge being mixed with a little coal dust if necessary to make it more inflammable. This method will eliminate the need for carting and dumping some 600 tons of material daily. Also there are other efficiencies involved, the furnace being designed to generate some steam for the pumps and other apparatus throughout the plant.

When the sanitary district's entire program of sewage treatment is completed the total spent since 1892 will have reached 333 million dollars.

The $41,938,000 of PWA money being spent by the sanitary district under the original agreement of December, 1933, has been allotted to the following projects:

	Approximate amounts.
West side treatment plant	$ 1,281,000
West side sewers	8,727,300
Calumet treatment plant and sewers	6,376,390
Southwest side treatment plant and sewers	25,553,310
Total	$41,938,000

The PWA made more than a loan of this money, moreover. It bought bonds at par on a 4 per cent interest basis and placed the money in Chicago banks to the credit of the sanitary district. The form of contract provides in general that the money shall be used for sewage treatment projects which can be completed in thirty-one months, and that if the work is performed to the approval of the PWA a grant amounting to 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials will be allowed.

When the present great construction program is completed the sanitary district's need for money will not be at an end either. The cost of upkeep and the operating expenses for the four large plants, the Lockport power house, and the miles of tunnels make a sizeable annual budget.

Danger in Heavy Rains.

And then there are unpredictable eventualities to be provided for. Such, for instance, is the occasional reversal of the Chicago and Calumet rivers during a heavy rainstorm, endangering the lake water with contamination. For the purpose of stopping such sudden outward surges of the slightly polluted river water into the lake, the dam at Lockport is at all times kept ready for opening. After its opening the escaping water forms an incline which advances backward up the canal and the river toward the lake. In three or four hours it reaches the lake, reversing the river again and sucking the river water back out of the lake.

But the three or four hours of time required for the incline to reach the lake are hardly enough to safeguard the lake water in the heavier of downpours, and so it is necessary to keep a weather expert on constant watch to predict rain before it falls.

When the withdrawal of water from Lake Michiganis reduced from 6,500 cubic feet a second to 1,500 cubic feet a second, as the Supreme court ordered it must do by 1938, the danger of reversal of current during rains will be increased. To overcome this new threat the sanitary district will have to construct some sort of controling works which can be closed in emergencies.

NATIONALIZATION OF MUNITIONS SUPPLY.

The enormous profits of some individuals engaged in war supply were unconscionable and there is not and cannot be objection to appropriate measures to prevent their recurrence in the next war the nation is compelled to wage. The senate committee inquiry which has exposed them is profitable to that extent and should result in appropriate corrective legislation. But the proposal to eliminate private industry from munition supply and to rely on a system of "nationalization" or government controled supply is not only not necessary to the suppression of inordinate private profit but is a guaranty of disaster to our fighting forces and the nation.

Decisive objection to the proposal does not rest upon theorizing. It rests upon experience and very recent experience at that. If the proponents of government monopoly of munition supply have not closed their minds hermetically they will easily find conclusive record of this experience. We invite their attention and that of congress to the "War Memoirs" of David Lloyd George. Mr. Lloyd George was put in charge of munition supply for the British army and for the aid of their allies, after the war department, even with the aid of established private munition makers, had failed to meet the rapidly increasing requirements of the fighting forces. Weeks and months had gone by during which the British army had been hammered by the well supplied German forces, while the British supply was insufficient in quality or amount to make effective reply. The situation was perilous in the extreme and was rapidly becoming worse. The British infantry was fighting without adequate artillery support and therefore with heavy, unnecessary losses. No counter-offensive was possible in such a situation and the British front was being held only by desperate fighting at inordinate cost. Field Marshal French meanwhile was sending a stream of appeals for more ammunition and guns, but the war department methods and facilities were hopelessly inadequate.

In short, not only a ghastly sacrifice of life was piling up but complete defeat was drawing daily nearer. In this crisis the government finally acted, creating a ministry of munitions headed by Lloyd George, who left the higher office of chancellor of the exchequer to devote his extraordinary energies in the organization of the industrial resources of the nation to meet the enormous requirements of modern warfare.

What those requirements were Lloyd George records. If the senate committee will acquaint themselves with these statistics they will promptly abandon the very unwise proposal they seem to be playing with. They will understand that no government agency will or can make adequate preparation for the needs of modern warfare. There is no excuse in experience to expect it will foresee its needs. There is no excuse for assuming that its facilities will be established or supported in peace on the scale which modern warfare demands. The policy, which a misdirected indignation against war profiteers urges, would be tragically inadequate and not only would cost a hideous sacrifice of life but threaten if not insure defeat.

The nationalization of munitions supply can only be considered by persons who are ignorant of or stubbornly ignore the experience of the nations in the world war. Congress should take the trouble to inform itself and save the nation and its defenders from what would be the most expensive and sanguinary folly in our history. Great Britain has learned that lesson and has adopted a system of war supply which "combines a nucleus of government production with production by armament firms and private shipyards." Its experience in the war is or ought to be conclusive in this branch of preparedness for us. Our war department has adopted it and congress should support it. A great war will require supplies which only private industry, efficiently organized for the emergency, can produce in the forms and quantities our expanded army and navy will be called upon to use. The limitation of private profits does not justify or require a policy which will send our men into battle as the British and Russian armies found themselves in 1914. Nationalization would waste the nation's resources and imperil victory. It represents neither economy, nor justice, nor military efficiency.

RECOVERY IN SPITE OF.

Mr. H. L. Hornung, a Wisconsin manufacturer undismayed either by the depression or the New Deal, foresees certainty of economic recovery in fundamental American forces. Writing in a late issue of Automotive Industries, a trade magazine, he says: "The sum of individual effort and courage properly directed against all odds, depending on faith rather than certainty in one desperate try after another, has defeated other depressions.

"These are the sustaining forces on which our hopes are staked and they are prevailing against every discouraging obstacle Washington is throwing in the way of business and industry. Our economic trend is in the hands of every man, and while it can be harassed, hindered, aided, and abetted to some extent by politics, it cannot be stopped or dominated by a political party or by a President. Markets will dip, industries will stagger, and discouragement will hold back orders, but recovery will march on."

Mr. Hornung is president of the Waukesha Motors company, an institution that has marched on under good management and courageous direction throughout the depression.

No manufacturer will doubt that Mr. Hornung himself has faced the obstacles of which he writes, but they have not stopped him.

What real recovery there is today is due to men like him who have refused to be frustrated by external interference, but who have tightened their belts, improved their products and made try after try in the face of harassing uncertainty.

Despite the sneers of the professoriat, they are the leaders who are directing the United States out of the depression. If let alone, as the European satire has it, they may end the depression before the experts find a cure for it.

JUDICIAL HIPPODROME.

Lawyers of the country blushed at the hippodroming of the Hauptmann trial. But in comparison with Magistrate Jonah Goldstein of New York the Hauptmann principals maintained a dignity worthy of the Supreme court.

Magistrate Goldstein's current behavior seems incredible anywhere outside the pages of Krafft-Ebing. In a campaign against prostitution the New York police raided a brothel and arrested as the keeper one Polly Adler, a lovely personality with a beam only slightly less broad than her morals. In the place they seized two French motion pictures with which Polly had entertained her patrons.

When Polly and three of her charming wenches appeared before Magistrate Goldstein the other day the magistrate was prepared to have the seized movies run off in his courtroom. A continuance of the case disappointed the throng which, at considerable trouble and expense, had obtained special passes to this unique exhibition of jurisprudence. Their disappointment was assuaged, however, by the news that the obliging magistrate had obtained more spacious quarters for the next session of his circus.

Society has had to contend with Polly Adlers for several millennia, and will be contending with them when the present New York investigation is forgotten even by the Society for the Prevention of Crime. It may expect to contend with filthy motion pictures so long as there are any motion pictures. But it surely is able to eradicate magistrates who pervert their courtrooms as Magistrate Goldstein is doing.

A RIDICULOUS BILL.

After the telling blasts of such medical leaders as Prof. Carlson and Dr. Crile, further comment on the self-styled anti-vivisectionists falls pretty much in the category of beating a dead horse. However, the Adamowski bill recently introduced in the state legislature so smells of their influence as to require some comment.

The bill would allow municipalities to turn operation of their dog pounds over to private persons operating under the name of humane societies. It would permit the payment of public revenue from dog licenses into the private treasuries of these societies. It would allow such organizations to charge citizens a fee of two dollars to recover their dogs from the pound—a well-nigh perfect incitement to dog stealing.

The provisions of the bill are permissive and not mandatory and Chicagoans probably can rely upon the common sense of the city council to prevent the proposed scheme being foisted upon the city. That, however, is no reason why the ridiculous proposal should not be scotched at the source.

Editorial of the Day

A DISTURBED COTTON INDUSTRY.

[Kansas City Star.]

While no adequate reason has been advanced for the marked drop in cotton prices, the movement was much more than an ordinary fluctuation or market adjustment. The AAA administrator, Chester C. Davis, suggests it might have been due to misinterpretation of a proposed amendment to the Bankhead compulsory control act which would exempt small farmers and presumably bring a substantial increase in production this year. Yet this exemption was proposed months ago and the President then, while on a visit to Warm Springs, Ga., promised his support of it.

As a matter of fact, government loans on cotton at 12 cents a pound had kept the price virtually pegged at that figure for the greater part of a year. So there is more in the explanation from a market source that the break in prices grew out of a belief that these loans might be discontinued. But there is to be no change of any kind in the AAA policy on cotton, it was announced. Therefore if the price should be carried or kept substantially below the 12 cents, the AAA with its loans might find itself in the position of the former farm board when it was left with surpluses on its hands as a result of its farm price stabilizing efforts.

But the incident directs attention once more to the long prevailing and increasing uncertainty over cotton. Exports have declined heavily in the last six months and there is threatened loss of foreign markets. Yet, even under the control program of the AAA, production has been and will continue to be almost double domestic requirements. If the surplus cannot be sold abroad, what then? The growers and everybody else concerned with the crop would like to know. The unanswered question is itself enough to explain a deeply disturbed market.

Certainly the problem of the farm administration the producers, and the entire cotton industry will be to regain foreign markets by any workable methods that are available and at the same time, if possible, maintain domestic prices at remunerative levels.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

MAYBE THE TROUBLE with some of this younger generation is that it isn't put through the course of sprouts that we of the older generation were when springtime came around. It was tough on us, but it seems to have saved our souls. Go around now and do you see any young being made to swallow sassafras tea? You do not. You can't even make 'em eat spinach. And sniff as you pass 'em. Do you notice any smell of asafetida in the air? You do not, yet in an older and wiser age they used to put a spoonful of asafetida in a bag and hang it around our necks. And how it did smell! One teaspoonful of asafetida could outsmell a bushel of garlic. You couldn't be wild and reckless if you wore a bag of asafetida around your neck. Flaming youth didn't have a chance to flame when they nailed it down with asafetida. Ice cream and soft drink parlors wouldn't let us congregate in their places and plan mad parties. If one of us asafetida wearers poked his head in the door the man who owned the place would chase him out and then burn an old rag and Chinese punk sticks to get the smell of asafetida out of his place. There were no gin peddlers in those days who catered to the very young. No gin peddler, no matter how much money there was in it, would ever dare stand around one of us asafetida bag wearers long enough to wait for change. We were good because we had to be good; we had no bad associates because the bad associates lured by our youth and innocence would faint dead away after they got one whiff of that asafetida bag. And sassafras tea helped considerably, too. After we had drunk a cup of sassafras tea we didn't want any cocktails. All we wanted to do was to drag ourselves to some lonely spot behind the barn and die. We dreaded the spring, we youngsters of the older day, but, gosh! it must have done us a lot of good. Anyhow, we still live. If that in this day and age is any satisfaction.

TABOO.

Who would have freedom can never have love.
Love is a millionaire, a master, a cage!
Wings that would soar to the reaches above
Are not content in a heart anchorage.
So you must choose when the choosing is given—
Would you be free? Would you rove where you will?
Or would you bide in a wee bit of heaven—
Safe from the loneliness that lingers still
In the infinite skies where the free souls are winging—
Far from the hearth where two true hearts are singing!

CULTURAL THOUGHT FOR THE DAY—March 20. Sir Isaac Newton, d. March 20, 1727. It isn't down in the encyclopedias, but here is something we all know, even if we forget it now and then, that Sir Isaac discovered gravity and formulated the laws of this great mysterious force. Perhaps it would be best not to go into the manner in which Sir Isaac found out about gravity. It might be best to say he did it by burning the midnight oil and studying for years and years before he made his discovery. But the fact is that Sir Ike was lolling around on his back down in the orchard under the old apple tree. He was lazily looking up at the sky and the clouds and building air castles and doing nothing at all worth while, when—kerplunk, an apple fell off the tree and hit him on the head. "Now why," thought Ike, "did that apple jump off the tree and hit me on the head?" And he pondered for days and weeks on why that apple came down to the ground instead of going up to the sky or north or south or east or west. Finally he decided it was gravity. Of course the only moral to this thing is that we should all go and loll around under the old apple tree if we wanted to make some great discovery that would send our names echoing down to posterity. But, after all, what good would it do us? Sir Isaac is spoken about by college students who wish as they pore over their lessons that he had kept out of that orchard or that apple never had hit him on the head. Then gravity would never have been discovered. And what good did discovering the fool thing do? People know today that if they drive like yahoos they may get off the road and gravity will pull 'em down in the ditch and somebody is liable to get hurt. Does it make them drive more carefully? Maybe we'd better go out into the orchard and make day dreams under the old apple tree and discover gravity all over again. We've forgotten what the darn thing is.

We'd like to believe that, and we would, too, if the dramatic statements of the Emperor Haile Selassie were not always accompanied by his picture. The oldest things;
Within my room I hear the rush

None but these winds that haunt the night
Could ever be Familiar with so many ghosts
Of you and me!

"AUTOINTOXICATION."

AUTOINTOXICATION is a large sounding word but one that is easily understood. The word "automobile" means "self-moving," that is, the power to move is contained within itself. The word "intoxication" means "poisoning," and when "auto" is prefixed we mean that the poison comes from within our bodies. Nevertheless the word has practically disappeared from present day medical literature because accurate laboratory studies have pointed the way to the cause of symptoms formerly thrown into the autointoxication basket. For example, at one time it was thought that all fevers came from a single cause, and but a few years ago there was a strong tendency to attribute to malabsorption from the intestinal tract many symptoms not otherwise explained.

Most of the functions of the body are continuous. That is, though they are sometimes accelerated and at other times slowed down, they proceed regularly. When any one function of the body stagnates or stops, some other function is usually interfered with. If, for example, food fails to move along the digestive tract with fair regularity there may be a retention of waste material, particularly in the colon. When partially digested food reaches the colon it is liquid in form, but becomes less so as water is absorbed. It is obvious that if the body retains within itself waste products and allows this material to increase in concentration, symptoms of malaise, fatigue, nausea, etc., may follow.

If the content of the colon is not of the right consistency, excess putrefaction, due to the activity of bacteria, may take place with the throwing off of poisonous substances that may be absorbed into the circulation. We must look upon the intestinal tract as both an absorbing and a drainage system. When stoppage occurs bacteria may back up into spaces or ducts that would not normally harbor them. They may even infect other organs that do not directly connect with the intestine, for example, the kidneys and the bladder. As William E. Fitch puts it, the putrefactive processes predominate in the colon and are accelerated by the presence of the colon bacillus, the gas bacillus, and certain other organisms.

Again, food products may become toxic because of incomplete digestion. In diabetes, for example, there is a deficient burning of fats that may result in acidosis.

A rise in blood pressure, persistent headache, increased fatigue, chronic worry, and a feeling of depression may all be due to a slowing down of the functions of excretion. The intestinal tract, however, must not always be blamed. In chronic kidney disease, for instance, substances that should be thrown off may gradually accumulate in the blood until they reach such a concentration that serious symptoms or even death may ensue. The skin and the lungs also rid the body of waste materials, and in extensive disease of the skin or the lungs the excretory power may be so lowered as to bring about the retention of deleterious waste products. Furthermore, if the activity of the pancreas is impaired or if the liver is unable to find an outlet for its normal quantity of bile, symptoms of body poisoning or autointoxication will result.

All of this means that while food is essential, yet ridding the body of food waste—of the unused and unusable products of food metabolism—is of importance. The fire may be choked with ashes. It is necessary that we take care of the normal avenues of elimination.

CITIZENSHIP STATUS.

Chicago, March 14.—[Friend of the People.]—My husband, myself and two of our children are English born; the other two children are Canadian born. We lived in Canada twenty years before coming to this country. My husband came here in 1914. He secured his final citizenship papers several years ago, in 1925. Myself and four children came here to make our home. My eldest child at that time was 21 years, the next 20 years, the next 17, and the other 14 years old. We all came through the quota, paying $10 for each of our quota; also $8 head tax. I understand that I and my youngest child will not need any more papers as we automatically became citizens through my husband's papers. My boy is now 24 years. Do my other children need first and second papers?

M. M. A.

According to the facts stated, the writer is not a citizen of the United States, as her husband was naturalized after Sept. 21, 1922. However, she may apply for naturalization without a declaration of intention [first paper], being the wife of a citizen.

The children who were under 21 years of age at the time of the naturalization of the father became citizens through such naturalization, provided they were legally admitted to this country for permanent residence during their minority.

The children who were 21 years of age or over at the time of the father's naturalization did not become citizens thereby, but in order to do so they should file declarations of intention [first paper], and, when the same are at least two and not over seven years old, apply for final papers.

LONDON.—A striking illustration of what the world war cost Great Britain, apart from loss of life, destruction of shipping, damage by air raids, and the enormous rise in the national debt, is provided in the latest figures on disability pensions paid to former soldiers.

Sixteen and a half years after the war more than 1,000,000 persons are drawing pensions for injuries or allowances to soldiers' widows and children. The annual cost of these payments is $225,257,935. Since the war the British government has paid out $5,460,000,000 for pensions and allowances.

The latest figures available are for March 1, 1934. At that time 1,053,500 persons were receiving pensions or allowances—not, however, bonuses or adjusted compensation. That was a decrease of about 53,500 over the pensions paid in 1933, the decline being due to 23,000 deaths and to the fact that about 27,000 children attained the age of 16, when allowances no longer are allowed. Nine hundred war widows remarried and lost their pensions, and the rest of the decrease was due to other causes.

Of the persons drawing pensions or allowances 440,725 were disabled soldiers [nothing under 20 per cent of disability being counted], 124,750 were war widows, 253,950 dependents, 1,600 motherless children, 960 nurses, 8,200 officers' widows, 4,380 were officers' dependents, including motherless children, and 23,050 were officers drawing retired pay.

A soldier 100 per cent disabled, the extent of his injuries having been determined by a medical board, gets on the average $10 a week and $2.50 for a wife, $1.87 for their first child, and $1.50 for every subsequent child. If the wife is dead the first child gets $2.50, the second $1.87, and the others $1.50 each.

Widows over 40 or with children get $6.66 a week, with $2.50 for the first child, $1.87 for the second, and $1.50 each a week for other children. Widows under 40 and without children get $5 a week. Allowances to parents of soldiers totally disabled do not exceed $5 a week. If a totally disabled man needs constant attention an additional sum of $5 a week may be paid to him.

THE SMALL LOAN BILL.

Chicago, March 15.—Almost daily, indications of the need for modernizing the Illinois small loan law come to the attention of the legal aid bureau of the United Charities. This bureau, which provides free legal service to persons who are unable to pay attorney fees, is the place to which the poor man naturally turns when he feels he is being treated unjustly. At present the bureau can give little help on small loan cases because in most of these instances the loan companies are acting within their legal right.

The Ward-Rategan bill which is now before the legislature will, if passed, rectify many of the injustices that the present law permits. For example, under the present law a loan company is not required to accept advance payments from a borrower. The proposed bill would require them to take such payments and in that way reduce interest costs to the borrowing public. It would also reduce the amount which the lender can collect through wage assignments from 50 per cent to 25 per cent of the wage. More stringent regulations would prevent deceptive advertising and would keep undesirable persons from obtaining small loan licenses.

For these as well as other advantages the proposed bill has the support of reputable loan companies and of welfare agencies.

QUESTIONNAIRE FOR OFFICIALS.

Chicago, March 14.—The relatively great wealth of the average professional office holder is a source of wonder. Likewise, the ardent fashion in which the politician seeks office, spending more on his campaign than the office will pay in salary, makes us question his motives. Chicago has plenty of cases in point. Fair-mindedness dictates some method of protecting our public servants from such slanderous, though unspoken, questions and suspicions.

I suggest that each candidate for any public office be required to file a substantiated affidavit showing:

1. Place and date of birth.
2. Citizenship.
3. School record.
4. Complete financial statement.
5. A detailed record of his financial transactions to account completely for the money he has used and the property he has accumulated.

Of course, the proof of any misstatement or willful omission would be a serious felony.

ANOTHER BUDGET.

Chicago, March 15.—I am a clerk in a food store working for a salary of $15 a week. Out of this I support my wife and two youngsters and am expecting the third; also pay $18 rent, gas, light, coal, food, carfare, and a doctor bill. We have no other help but my salary. If I made $22.50 a week I could live as well as a couple making $40 a week. I forgot to mention I do not get one cent discount for buying where I work.

WILLIAM ROSS.

A CHILD IN NEED OF A DOCTOR.

Chicago, March 18.—Having heard for so long of how much the doctors give of themselves—their time and their services—particularly during the past year—isn't there some place in the city of Chicago where a crippled child can get free medical attention?

One of the reasons the doctors give for insisting that the Arvey ordinance remain in effect is that they should be permitted this free material as long as they give freely of their knowledge to the world [and children, especially] by using this generous dole of experimental material.

I have been trying for six months to get medical advice and supervision for a little boy whose one leg is much shorter than the other—and rapidly becoming more so.

Having long since oversubscribed my income for 1935, because of the innumerable appeals which come to me daily—being well up on Chicago's sucker list [I hear]—I haven't got the $158 it would take and have not been lucky enough to find one of those doctors who give so much of their time and energy without reward. I have contributed to the support of the child's family as much as I am able to. I—and many others—have paid out large sums in doctors' fees without protest because of the belief that thus we were helping to pay for the doctors' time spent in caring for those who couldn't manage to scrape such sums together.

Will any one who has some advice as to where this child can get urgently needed and immediate free medical attention [his family are in desperate circumstances and delay means that the limp he now walks with is going to be greatly exaggerated and his health seriously impaired] give advice? He needs the type of doctor who thoroughly understands all hip and joint disease and will undoubtedly need a brace.

[MRS.] IRENE McLAUGHLIN.

DAYLIGHT.

Gary, Ind., March 16.—The time of the year has again arrived when the majority of the people in the Chicago area realize how advantageous it would be to have an extra hour of daylight every evening during the month of April. Daytime employés who have a little garden space could spend the extra time preparing the soil for planting and others would welcome the early spring evenings as a means of various forms of outdoor recreation.

The boundary line between eastern standard time and central standard time is only a few miles east of Chicago. If this boundary line were moved west of Chicago, thus placing this area in the same zone of eastern standard time, thousands of citizens would greatly appreciate the change.

FROM A DAIRY FARMER.

New Lenox, Ill., March 11.—I note that Dr. Bundesen, the baby specialist; Mayor Kelly, etc., have decided to further insure the health of the people of this great city by placing added restrictions on her milk supply.

I don't know of any product that has excited the interest of city politicians like milk. Maybe these aforementioned gentlemen and the readers of your paper would be interested in a dairy farmer's viewpoint.

Between the federal government and our own association [P. M. A.] the health department, the T. B. and Bang's disease tests he doesn't know where he is going, but it's probably the insane asylum or the county farm. Meanwhile, the dealers, the P. M. A., and the government will take all they can until we are broke and the politicians will continue to make a play for the mothers' vote by telling them that Chicago has the "purest milk supply of any city in the country."

It seems to be taken for granted that the dairy farmer should make every effort to produce pure milk, no matter what he is receiving for it. Dr. Bundesen is of the opinion that under these new regulations producers should receive a higher price. A price that was reasonable for the money and effort expended to comply with the new ordinance would make it prohibitive to the majority of the consumers, who, if they won't buy it now, cannot be made to buy it when it is higher.

So we come to the inevitable conclusion that the producer must not expect a higher price. He must go ahead and comply with the new ordinance and dig into an empty pocket for the money to make the alterations and improvements that the health department demands or keep his milk at home.

SPEEDY DIVORCE DECREE SOUGHT BY CANTACUZENE

Prince Makes Property Division with Wife.

Prince Michael Cantacuzene, great-grandson of President Grant, filed suit for divorce in the Lake county Circuit court yesterday against the princess, who was formerly Clarissa Pelham Curtis of Boston.

Prince Cantacuzene lives in Wadsworth, ten miles northwest of Waukegan, and is in the real estate business in Chicago. His action confirms rumors of the divorce which have been current for more than a year.

The bill, filed by Attorney Bernard J. Juron of Waukegan, and drawn by the law firm of Nettland & Nettland, 111 West Washington street, charges that Princess Cantacuzene deserted her husband Dec. 10, 1933.

Wedding Brilliant Affair.

They were married June 27, 1921, in a brilliant ceremony in Nahant, Mass., soon after the young prince graduated from Harvard university. There are two children, Irina, 9 years old, and Rodion, 6, who live with their mother at 447 Beacon street, Boston, the home of Princess Cantacuzene's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pelham Curtis.

By agreement the children will remain in their mother's custody during the school year. From June 1 to Sept. 30 each year, the school vacation, they will live with their father. The bill sets forth that a property settlement has been made, the terms of which were not revealed.

The plaintif is the son of Prince Michael Cantacuzene, Russian exile who was a major general in the Russian imperial army at the close of the war, and who was for ten years aide de camp to the Grand Duke Nicholas.

Wed to "Whitehouse Baby."

The elder prince was formerly married to Julia Dent Grant, granddaughter of President Grant, who divorced him Oct. 27, 1934, after 35 years of marriage.

Mrs. Julia Dent Grant Cantacuzene, who was born in the White House, now lives in Washington. Her former husband has been remarried since the divorce to a former clerk in a bank he founded in Sarasota, Fla. The couple live on a farm in Wadsworth, near the estate of the younger prince, whose suit was filed yesterday.

Attorneys in the case indicated that service in the suit will be made on Princess Cantacuzene as soon as possible, with the hope of bringing the case to a conclusion early next month.

WILLIAM A. WHITE GIVEN DEGREE BY BELOIT COLLEGE

Calls Civilization Today a 'Wrecked Car.'

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Beloit, Wis., March 19.—[Special.]—The degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon William Allen White, author and editor of the Emporia [Kas.] Gazette, by Beloit college at a special convocation here today. The Kansan is celebrating his 50th year as a journalist.

Representatives of many central western newspapers attended the ceremony at the invitation of President Irving Maurer of the college.

Mr. White's convocation address, delivered prior to his investment with the purple hood, was a survey of his time and an appraisal of the central western individualist in the socialized democracy which he said is now being evolved in America.

"Most Gorgeous Development."

Mr. White characterized the civilization which, after two centuries of development, came to a climax during the last half century as "the most gorgeous flower that ever unfolded out of the human spirit, but gorgeous chiefly in the stupendous economic surplus which it laid by."

But the harm of such surpluses, Mr. White said, lies in faulty distribution as a result of greed engendered in educational institutions of America during the closing years of the last century.

"We have all but worshiped greed in its grosser forms," declared the Kansas editor. "Tolerance, courtesy, magnanimity, self-restraint, the love of beauty, the old moralities and the new esthetics . . . have been consigned to long haired men and short haired women."

Turning to the collegians filling the chapel, Mr. White told them that his generation is now "the petrified chauffeur of some wrecked car lying in the ditch. That car is you inheritance. That is what we have left you by which to remember your fathers and mothers."

LAYS DEPRESSION TO SAD FINANCIAL ILLITERACY IN U.S.

Boston Economist Talks to Homemaking Group.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

A thousand members of women's organizations thronged the Hotel Sherman's grand ballroom yesterday to hear expert advice on their full time jobs as mothers, as clubwomen, and as consumers. The occasion was the opening session of the three day Midwest Conference on Home-Making, sponsored jointly by several societies.

At the session last evening A. Lawren Brown of Boston told his audience that only 2 per cent of the United States inhabitants have learned the science of money management and that the remaining 98 per cent are "financially illiterate." The profound ignorance of this 98 per cent, he charged, has caused every financial depression, including that which began in 1929.

Attacks Frills in Schools.

Mr. Brown is a representative of the American Association of the Advancement of Economic Education. Pitilessly candid in his excoriation of the folly that inaugurates lessons in angling and similar fol-de-rol in the curriculum of public schools, and completely ignores the teaching of as essential a subject as the management of the individual income, he contended that only education can avoid in future such catastrophes as depressions. Legislation, he declared, is helpless.

The only city in the United States where a complete, comprehensive course of money management is begun in the kindergarten and is carried through ten years of schooling, he declared, is Brookline, Mass. Already, however, normal schools are giving courses in the Brookline method of instruction, and the rudiments of the course are being disseminated through pamphlets distributed by the organization he represents.

Tells Women of Opportunity.

The chief speaker at the day session was Mrs. Emily Newell Blair of Washington, chairman of the consumers' advisory board of the National Recovery administration. She assured the assemblage that the NRA gave women a golden opportunity to assure themselves of fair quality at a fair price in their purchasing.

The consumers' board, she said, gave women a chance to make themselves effective as a united constituency. Even though 85 per cent of America's buyers are of their sex, she asserted, lack of organization forced women before the depression to accept what manufacturers chose to offer.

Now, however, according to Mrs. Blair, the emphasis has shifted from what can be spent to what can be bought, and the attitude of buyers has come to influence largely what the manufacturer produces. Quality is a factor of increasing importance.

The major aims of the advisory board, according to its chairman, are to enable the consumer to obtain products as cheaply as possible after payment of fair wages and costs of manufacture and to prevent price fixing.

Raymond W. Fairchild, president of the Illinois State Normal university, advocated education on a "consumer basis rather than on a producer basis," because a majority of any community must be consumers rather than producers.

He argued that it would be folly, for instance, to attempt to educate all children as musicians. Those not talented in the art should be schooled to appreciate the work of persons truly qualified to produce music. In other fields, similarly, persons of natural aptitude should be the producers, and all others should be trained to benefit from the producers' ability and work.

Mrs. Ozora S. Davis, president of the Chicago Woman's club, declared the clubwoman a better homemaker than the woman who confined her interests to the four walls of her own dwelling, because of the mental and emotional stimulus of club contacts.

Carroll H. Sudler, district director of the Federal Housing administration, adjured the women to take the lead in a national movement for better homes.

Mrs. Arthur Williams, president of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, presided at the afternoon session, which was opened by Mrs. Frederic L. Holch, chairman of the general committee.

Five sectional meetings running concurrently will be held this morning considering the home in relation to health, vocational guidance, education, leisure, and "living together."

THOUSANDS JAM STREETS DURING 'LAWD'S' FUNERAL

The body of Richard Berry Harrison, "De Lawd" of the stage, was returned to the earth yesterday. On a gently rolling hill in Lincoln cemetery, where the warm wind was laden with the soft scent of earth and coming spring, the flower covered bronze casket was lowered to its final resting place.

Thousands of men, women, and children honored the 70 year old colored actor as few men of his race have been honored. Fresh in the minds of the throngs that turned out to pay their last tribute was Richard Harrison's sympathetic portrayal in "The Green Pastures."

Fifteen thousand persons walked past the bier in the home at 5942 Indiana avenue; 5,000 thronged St. Edmund's Episcopal church and packed the streets during the funeral services.

Funeral Music Triumphant.

The funeral was as he would have had it. There were few tears. In reverent silence the multitude watched the ceremonies. There was the pomp of the requiem mass of the Episcopal church. The music was the happy, triumphant plain song of the holy eucharist. The hymns were his simple favorites.

Through densely lined streets the cortège moved slowly from the Harrison home to the church at 5831 Indiana avenue. Earlier Mayor Kelly and other city and federal officials had paid their respects as the body lay in state. The members of the immediate family viewed for the last time the body of the actor, clad in his costume of De Lawd.

The little church, founded only six years ago, was filled. Men and women of social prominence, government officials, celebrities of the stage, educators, and clergymen thronged the simple frame structure. Outside other hundreds stood in silence as the cortège drove to the church.

"I am the Resurrection and the Life, saith the Lord."

Lilies He Loved on Casket.

Chanting the opening sentences of the service, the Rev. Samuel J. Martin, pastor of the church, marched down the aisle. Before him were two banners, two crucifers, two acolytes clad in long white albs, and the vested choir. Behind him followed the casket, covered with a huge spray of lilies—Mr. Harrison's favorite flowers.

Bishop George Craig Stewart, who had confirmed Mr. Harrison in special services, and his chaplain, the Rev. Garland McWhorter, entered. [The actor all his life had been deeply religious, but only last year did he embrace a specific creed.] The crimson mitre of the bishop gave a touch of color to the somber blacks and grays of the altar service and the white marble of the reredos.

Followed then the solemn celebration of the mass, chanted by the priest with the choir and congregation responding. The music was the "plain song of Cannon Douglas, happy, triumphant music. Here was not tragic death, but the entrance of a soul to a happier land.

Solemn Last Rites Given.

"The King of Life My Shepherd Is" and "Glory Be to Jesus," joyous anthems of the Anglican church, were sung. The sweet words of the Agnus Dei trembled in the hushed church. John Green, the colored baritone, sang the Missa De Angelis. Miss Abbie Mitchell, a soprano, also sang.

Bishop Stewart pronounced the solemn words of the absolution. The litany of the dead was sung and rites of asperges given. The white robed censer bearer swung the smoking incense above the casket. In reverent majesty the bishop intoned the benediction, the choir chanted.

"Now the day is over, night is drawing nigh;
"Shadows of the evening steal across the sky. Amen."

Singing the simple hymn of children, the choir came down the aile, past the casket, into the crowd. Through the closely packed throng the body was borne by the pallbearers. Behind them were the mourning members of the family. The widow, frail and only recently recovered from a nervous ailment, Mrs. Janet Washington Harrison, was supported by her son, Laurence and her daughter, Marion Ysobel.

The cortège moved slowly through streets in the immediate neighborhood lined with men and women and children. These were the simple folk whom Mr. Harrison had known in his early days—as railway porter, police station switchboard operator, lecturer, teacher, and reader. The children of the neighborhood to whom he had been a friend and adviser, stood in reverent silence.

At the grave the services were brief and simple. Slowly the heavy casket was carried up the hill to the awning covered burial plot that Mr. Harrison bought before leaving on his last theatrical trip.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

"How do I die this time?" Sidney Ellstrom inquired yesterday of Willis Cooper, author of the macabre "Lights Out" series heard Wednesday at midnight on WENR-NBC. "A ghost strangles you in 'The Haunted Chair,'" Cooper replied. "Fine," said Ellstrom, returning to his business for the day.

He has been put to death in this show more than 100 times. And his endings have all been grisly and gruesome. He's been skinned alive, boiled in oil, devoured by a man eating jungle plant, strangled by a vampire. He has been drowned, electrocuted, poisoned, buried alive, decapitated, and dismembered.

But sometimes his work is sweet. Now and then Author Cooper turns the tables and allows Ellstrom to get revenge on his persecutors, usually portrayed by Art Jacobson, Don Briggs, Bernardine Flynn, Betty Lou Gerson, or Betty Winkler, other members of the "Lights Out" cast. Once, for example, as a Chinese madman, Ellstrom was given a chance to inflict "death" through a thousand slashes on Jacobson, usually one of his most fervid annihilators.

Another amateur radio show is coming up. Paul Ash will preside over this one, which is to be aired from 3:30 to 4 p. m. Sundays over WIND, beginning next Sunday. Ash has often been called a discoverer of stars—George Givot, Peggy Bernier and Ruth Etting being among them. And more than 20 years ago Paul Whiteman was a fiddle player for Ash in San Francisco.

Lum and Abner, the sages of Pine Ridge, are leaving Thursday to play a week's engagement at the Taft theater, Cincinnati, where they follow Joe Penner. Usually heard over the Mutual network from W-G-N, their nightly episodes will be aired from WLW while they are in Cincinnati.

Dorothy Page, radio beauty, will be "tripling" as an entertainer beginning Friday. She opens an engagement at the Oriental theater that day and continues her radio and supper club appearances at the Drake hotel. During her spare time she will reherse. . . . It's a 7 pound girl at the home of Paul Kapp, radio producer. Born yesterday at Garfield Park hospital. Mrs. Kapp is the former June Roff. . . . Henry Weber, W-G-N's musical director, conductor and pianist, will be one of three guest pianists with the Chicago Symphony orchestra tomorrow evening and Friday afternoon when Bach's Concerto for three pianos in C major is presented. Vitaly Schnee and Glenn Dillard Gunn will play the other pianos in this rarely heard work.

ANTHONY W. COOK DIES AT 75; NOTED AS LUMBERMAN

Cook, whose widow, Lora Haines Cook, was president general of the D. A. R. from 1923 to 1926, transferred the rich Cook forest to the state of Pennsylvania in 1928.

At the height of his career Cook enterprises were turning out 1,500,000 feet of lumber every eight hours.

Cook was the center of a nationwide storm after his Alaska Pacific Railroad and Terminal company sought to build a line from the northwest to tap the rich coal deposits in Alaska. Rival interests jumped into the project and a struggle ensued which saw the construction of forts along the railroad tracks. The project became a leading issue in the Bull Moose presidential campaign.

Annual Series of Chamber Music Ends

Mischakoff Quartet Plays Final Concert.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The third and final concert of the Chicago Chamber Music committee was played in the foyer of Orchestra hall last night by that excellent organization, the Mischakoff String quartet. The series has been short but stimulating, and the two string quartets appearing, the Mischakoff for the first and third and the Philharmonic for the second, both offshoots of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, have done a fine thing for a slightly remote and none too popular branch of music.

Only two quartets were played last night, that in F major, opus 18, by Beethoven, and the one in C minor, opus 51, by Brahms. Both are, however, life sized and full blown specimens of their kind. The Mischakoff organization is both spirited and studious, playing with a full, brilliant tone and yet working together accurately and with a fine interchange of balance. It is a group deserving of permanent existence.

The Opera Comique will change its bill this afternoon, presenting Offenbach's "The Dancing Doll," which used to be known as "The Tales of Hoffman," going back to "La Vie Parisienne" this evening," and taking up "The Dancing Doll" again tomorrow and carrying it to the end of the week. The beautiful Caroline Andrews will play the part of Olympia, Elvira Holal Giulietta, and Grace Angelau Antonia, the latter two being replaced on Saturday night by Natalie Bodanskaya and Mary Hopple. Jacques Gerard will sing Hoffman except Saturday afternoon when Kurt Brownell will take the part. Wells Clary will double as Coppelius and Dr. Miracle.

Teachers of Music Told to Recognize Work of Tinpan Alley

Indianapolis, Ind., March 19.—[Special.]—Hotcha tunes will never do as a part of the musical education of school children, it was decided today at the biennial meeting here of the North Central music educators' conference but it was frankly admitted that school music teaching is about "thirty years behind the times."

"We teach a modern music that is not apace with the times," Theodore M. Finney, of Council Bluffs, Ia., said. "We can hardly call spirituals our own until such music has filtered through the keyboards of tinpan alley. Modernists would laugh if we called that modern music, but, in my opinion, George Gershwin has made the only finished contribution to American music since Stephen Foster."

R. O. Barkley, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., asserted music educators in the schools are ignoring the real American folk music of the period.

"How do you define folk music?" asked Earl V. Moore, of the University of Michigan.

"In this case, as sung and played by the 'folk of America,'" said Barkley. "From 'tinpan alley' and from the pens of such popular composers as Jerome Kern come valuable contributions in the development of that rather vaguely defined phrase, the American idiom."

Noyes-Shaw Wedding Set for April 26

Ceremony to Take Place at St. Chrysostom's.

BY JUDITH CASS.

FRIDAY, April 26, has been chosen by Miss Catharine Noyes as the date for her marriage to Roger Dustin Shaw, so society will have three fashionable weddings of the spring to enjoy during the week after Easter.

Miss Anne Byron Smith will become the bride of Morrison Waud on Wednesday, the 24th, and Miss Patsy Keith's and Robert Macdonald's marriage will take place on Saturday, the 27th. Both of these will be in Lake Forest, but the Noyes-Shaw ceremony will take place in St. Chrysostom's church, where the lovely bride and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Paul Noyes, worship.

There will be no reception, but Mr. and Mrs. Noyes are inviting a few of their most intimate friends and those of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arch W. Shaw of Winnetka, to tea at their home, 19 Scott street, after the ceremony.

Mrs. John I. Shaw [Barbara King], the bridegroom's sister-in-law and one of the bride's best friends, will be the matron-of-honor, and Miss Jane Rowe will be the honor maid. The bridesmaids will be Miss Jean Armstrong, Miss Helen Bell, and the bride's subdeb cousins, Adair and Nancy Orr, daughters of the Robert C. Orrs.

Jack Shaw will be his brother's best man, and ushering will be Talcott Griswold, John L. Fortune Jr., Bruce Thorne, Brayton Slade, Mason Wells, Rogers Follansbee, and Donough Prince of Short Hills, N. J.

Mr. Shaw and his bride will live near his ranch at Thomasville, Mo. "Katie" Noyes will be missed greatly, for she is one of the most popular young women in society, but her friends feel sure that she and "Dick" will visit Chicago often, and no doubt the little house they will occupy in Thomasville will be large enough to contain at least one guestroom. Mr. Shaw is planning to build a house for his bride after they are married, but until the house is built they will live in a rented one. Miss Noyes is just back from a vacation in Miami.

Ranney-Donnelley Ceremony May 4.

Leaving yesterday for New York and a vacation at the Virginia Hot Springs before plunging into last minute preparations for Miss Dorothy Ranney's marriage to Gaylord Donnelley were Miss Ranney and her mother, Mrs. George A. Ranney. They will be joined at Hot Springs by Cornelia Ranney, who is a student at Dobbs Ferry.

The wedding will be a large and fashionable one on Saturday, May 4, in St. Chrysostom's church, with a reception following at the Casino. The list of attendants for this popular bride and bridegroom is not complete yet.

Another young lady who has chosen to be married on May 4 is Miss Betsy Needham, who will become the bride of James R. Getz at 4:30 o'clock that afternoon. The service will be read in the apartment of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice H. Needham, at 219 Lake Shore drive, with a reception following for the relatives and intimate friends who will witness the ceremony.

Mr. Getz will have his brother, George F. Getz Jr., as best man, and the bride will be unattended. Mr. and Mrs. Getz will sail for six weeks in England, and upon their return they will be in the city for the summer with week-ends in Michigan either with his father, George F. Getz, at his farm near Holland, or with the Needhams, who have a summer place near Holland. In the fall the couple will move to the north shore.

The Chicago Dobbs Ferry club will meet for luncheon a week from Friday at the home of its president, Miss Dorothy Dewes, 2314 Lincoln Park West. The Chicago students at Miss Master's school who will be at home for their Easter vacation at that time will have the opportunity of renewing their acquaintance with the "old" girls.

The club contributes to the teachers' pension fund and to a day nursery in New York, which is supported by Dobbs Ferry alumnæ.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

A LECTURER at the Hotel Sherman the other day told a story that had bearing, he intimated, upon the administration policies, and on the New Deal in general. He said he was reminded of a Negro rookie in the army engaged in target practice, whose bullets always went wide of the mark. A tough sergeant observed his inefficiency and addressed him roughly:

Companion—Bar Note—
Consorts—
Competition—
Personal—Acropolis.

"What the hell's the matter with you?" he asked.

"I doan know what becomes of them afterward, boss," the rookie said mournfully, "but they sure leave here with a bang."

* *

THE two women were chatting together at the bar and their conversation was audible to all their neighbors. The first one recited details of an operation, then, according to Alan K. Barlow, who overheard them, the other answered enthusiastically:

"My dear, I know just how you feel. When I was in the hospital last fall for an operation. . . ."

"Calling all scars! Calling all scars!" said the bartender in an aside to a third customer.

* *

THERE were several women at the dinner party who are known to a wide public by their own names rather than by those of their husbands.

"We ought to have a consort party some evening," said one of the husbands.

"And come wearing Prince Alberts," flashed Dr. James Herbert Mitchell, whose wife is Marion Strobel.

* *

THE fact that the Bohemians are sponsoring the Strawinsky-Dushkin concert at Orchestra hall, March 29, leads Rudolph Ganz to talk about his friend, Strawinsky. It seems that, after a dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ganz, Strawinsky heard the records Mrs. Rudyard Bolton brought back from central Africa, and which are being played March 27 at the Renaissance society. The great composer listened to the performance of five drummers with five different rhythms, had it played again and again, and finally admitted that he had met really worthy competition.

Goldwyn Picks Mamoulin as Best Director

Rouben Picks Skipworth as Finest Trouper.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 19.—[Special.]—Nearly everyone is interested in nominations for the "best ever" when the person doing the nominating is known to be competent to nominate. So here goes. Producer Sam Goldwyn, whom many [including the writer] nominate as the shrewdest of all Hollywood producers in sensing public trends and future stars, some months ago insisted to the writer: "Rouben Mamoulian is the best director in the business."

Today Mamoulian walked over on the set of the Jock Whitney all-color film, "Becky Sharp," and told me: "Alison Skipworth is the best trouper in the business." Miss Skipworth plays an aged sponsor of Becky Sharp [Miriam Hopkins] in the story.

There's not going to be any divorce between Edna Best and Herbert Marshall, according to information from England where Miss Best now is residing in separation from her actor-husband, because she expects and hopes Marshall will rejoin her in their home country.

Friends who were interrogated in London state that Miss Best tells them she expects Marshall shortly to accede to her wish and return to her and the child.

Miss Best has bought an estate outside of London and has planted it in Japanese cherry trees because Marshall likes them. In the meantime, the actor is not being seen about Hollywood with Gloria Swanson as much as formerly. Miss Swanson has just moved back into Hollywood after spending a couple winter months vacationing near Palm Springs, Cal.

There was a near panic on the "Caliente" set at Warner studio yesterday when eight of twelve white horses which had been brought in for showgirls to ride bolted through an open door of the sound stage and made for the north side of the Hollywood hills which forms the studio's back lot. It took hours to round up the horses again.

Russell Hardie redecorated his Buffalo home by wire, telegraphing and long distancing his instructions to the workmen there.

"Wheel of Chance" is slightly reminiscent of an old quilt pattern with a religious theme, "Star and Cross." Like so many lovely old patterns, this block enjoyed wide popularity following its creation, but nowadays it is rarely seen. Two shades of yellow, purple, and white are the colors suggested, but it is a pattern adaptable to a variety of colors.

With her second book of quilts, Nancy Cabot now offers 10 patterns of her own choice at a combination price of 10 cents (12 cents by mail). The booklet alone is 5 cents; by mail, 7 cents. Swagger Coats Are the Finds of Fashion Season

Ready for All Occasions of Spring and Summer.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The ensemble idea has crashed the sports clothes collections with some grand and interesting combines. You used to ensemble with dresses and costume accessories, then you assembled an ensemble for daytime and evening with extra coats or jackets that made two or three different outfits, depending upon your imagination or versatility as a good clothes collector. And now the sports clothes are arriving to test your ability with something new.

For instance, some of the newest and perhaps wildest extra coats you've ever lost your mind about are big breezy things with a streamline about 40 inches long, made with all kinds of flare and fullness in the back section. In fact, some of them are so full that only material cut in big swooping circles could attain such swagger. Some are made with deep yokes at the back like peasant smocks; others have raglan shoulder seams, and still others are cut with a seam down the back.

These are the newest swaggers that make the smart third part of the spring street or sports ensemble. These swanky topcoats are worn over slim tailored two-piece suits and accentuate the slimness of the suit better than the topcoats of last year with their long lined and tailored cut like your brother's tweed overcoat.

Buy them in noisy checks and plaids, especially if you are wearing a plain dark suit, and reverse the procedure if your suit is checked or of plaid. These new 1935 swaggers cover the best of the spring suits, and later on they'll top slim cotton frocks; be worn over your pet knitted golf outfits; go out with the brightest of twin sweaters and plaid skirts; appear with dark sheer street dresses, and be combined with dark tailored linen suits. Also they will be grand traveling companions for your summer vacation jaunts, east, west, north, or south. In short, they are the extra coat find of the season.

Fashion photograph. . . . One of the popular daytime dresses that you can slide into any of these first spring mornings. The casual cut of the streamline, the elbow length wide full sleeves, the lone pocket that is patched on the right hip, together with the gay printed silk neck handkerchief and the trick lether belt make it the smart, different model you need to revive your wilted wardrobe. Bright colors are especially attractive. Available in a Chicago shop.

Princess Kropotkin Says General Level of Films Is Rising

Standards of the motion picture industry are rising, Princess Alexandra Kropotkin, writer and lecturer, told members of the Woman's Athletic club yesterday. The princess recently spent two and a half months in Hollywood.

The rise of the general level may be laid in part, she said, to the success in the movies of troupers with stage technique. There has been a definite effort within the industry to improve the films which may or may not be due, she added, to the nationwide criticism of the last few months.

"In inevitable step in making motion pictures of a higher standard will be their production on different scales," the princess said. "We will have movies of universal appeal, and others more sophisticated which will be shown only in certain localities. A reputable legitimate theater in Hollywood where the actors could appear from time to time would be of immense value to their film work.

"And another thing that should be achieved is a children's theater, exclusively for children, where their films only would be shown, thus leaving the sophisticated film for the sophisticated. We need general higher criticism of the films to raise them to the mental and moral standards of this country."

You Can Wear This Now

Through the Looking Glass

A spring accent for the spring costume is the sea-shell compact that recently came to town. Not only is the flat little thing pretty to look at, but it's remarkably easy to hold in your hand without slipping and sliding. Semi-circular in shape, the outside is grooved as a shell often is, which permits a firm grip with the fingers.

The outer case is in pastel shades—a lovely sea green, a soft blue, a delicate pink, a blithesome yellow, and an ivory white. Choose the one that will make the smartest color touch with your wardrobe for spring.

Inside the case is gold plated—very ritzy looking and very well arranged. The mirror is a generous one that will give you more than just a glimpse of one feature at a time. Provision is made for a good supply of your own favorite loose powder, but puff and cream rouge come with the compact.

One nice feature of this compact is that it is definitly inexpensive; it looks as though it had cost a good deal more than you'll have paid for it. It's a sensible one, too, because it holds enough loose powder to eliminate the need for filling it every time you turn around.

The rouge can be used for either lips or cheeks—and that makes for less clutter in your pocketbook. It's light in weight, too, which is always an advantage, since heavy things in the pocketbook contribute much too much to the wear and tear on it and its outlines.

One of these compacts would make an attractive gift for any woman of your acquaintance—but we have an idea you'll want one to take care of your own compact needs first. You can inspect these in a Chicago shop.

Keep Away from Water

SYNOPSIS.

Sarah MacNeil, young American living in London, accepts a post as traveling companion to Miss Christine Venables, prim, kindly and wealthy, who has been receiving letters that cannot be traced threatening her life. Miss Venables spends most of the year at Ste. Brigitte, a small resort in southern France. Her nephew, Harry, is to join her there soon. With Miss Venables in London is her widowed sister-in-law, Mrs. Mark Venables, Harry's stepmother. She is in poor health and Miss Venables has Dr. Gilcrest, her Ste. Brigitte physician, who is visiting in London, prescribe for her. Dr. Gilcrest treats Sarah with cool aloofness, though she and Harry immediately become friends. That night Mrs. Venables dies. Her death is attributed to natural causes. On the way to Ste. Brigitte Miss Venables tells Sarah that the death threats began after her friend, Maj. Frampton, was killed in a fall down an elevator shaft. She believes he was murdered. She and the major were both threatened by two oriental drug sellers they had had prosecuted. Miss Venables' particular friends in Ste. Brigitte, besides Dr. Gilcrest, are the Baron and Baronne Henri de Bellesnaves, Beryl Tomlins, town librarian and harmless gossip, and a few old residents of the resort hotel. Sarah gathers that Dr. Gilcrest is in love with the baroness. Harry arrives. The evil looking gardener of the De Bellesnaves arouses Sarah's suspicion. Beryl Tomlins dies suddenly. She had just had a prescription of Dr. Gilcrest's filled by his dispenser, Marjorie Barrows. Sarah had received capsules for Miss Venables at the same time. Dr. Gilcrest states that her death was caused by an intestinal hemorrhage. Miss Venables receives another threatening letter telling her she has one more day to live. The fatal day comes. Harry is on a visit to Monte Carlo. The baroness has gone to Arles for the day. Mrs. Cripps, Beryl Tomlins' sister, has tea with Miss Venables. The day passes safely. Miss Venables takes her capsule and retires.

INSTALMENT XXXIII.

ANOTHER VICTIM.

The rattling casement in Sarah's room kept her awake. At last she sat up exasperated, turned on her lamp, and searched about for something to wedge the loose-fitting frame. An edge of blue paper caught her eye, protruding from between the pages of "Trois Contes," still unopened. A bookmarker—but it would serve. She drew it forth, lovingly, because it was Gilcrest's, and glanced close to make sure it was of no use.

It was a whole sheet of notepaper, with a familiar crest at the top, and covered all over with an equally familiar scrawl. Had the Baroness been reading this book, and was this a memorandum left in it? No—it was a note, exhaling a faint suggestion of the writer's scent. A note—to Gilcrest.

Too late to argue over rights and wrongs. The first words had registered on her brain, and now, avidly, she was devouring what followed. This is what she read:

"One little word for your eyes alone, most dear friend, since I could not thank you properly for this so magnificent present while Henri was with us—could I? Poor darling, he must never guess what those delirious hours in

"They've done it," she gasped—"It's poison!"

Paris meant to us! Here I am in prison again—but I dream of that too-brief freedom, and count the days till it can be repeated. Ah, but how rash of you to commit this wild extravagance! For once it is you, not me, who must be reproved. Could you not have waited till fortune smiles, as it is sure to do before very long? And then ——!"

Sickened through Sarah looked truth in the face and cursed herself for ever having seen it under a flattering guise. These two were lovers—had been for some time. Here they might be keeping up a show of discretion, but they had been together openly in Paris and were planning to meet again. Miss Tomlins had known, others guessed, only she through willful blindness had refused to believe. Even Harry knew. She had seen it in his eyes yesterday when her astonishment at finding him at the villa betrayed her own expectations. That Miss Venables never suspected proved only the same innocent-minded loyalty which prompted Marjory Barrows' defense . . .

As for the "magnificent present," what could it be but the diamond-studded watch?

Sarah dropped the note as though it were a toad. What hurt most was the knowledge of having parted irrevocably with a secret treasure which had turned the humdrum life of Ste. Brigitte into rapturous romance. Dullness stretched ahead, nothing to look forward to but barren, unexciting routine, no hopes, no thrills, yet she would have to put up with it. Day after day the same . . .

Tears scalded her eyelids. She dashed them furiously away, and, in thick darkness again, lay listening to the banshee wail outside and to the strong, hard pounding of her cheated heart.

"Sarah—come! O, quickly!"

Through a fog of sleep the agonized cry reached her ears. Stumbling up to grope confusedly for the light she hit her head a dizzing bang against the wall. Dazed though she was, she caught the sound of a groan so like other groans fresh in her memory that at the sound of it her blood froze.

"Yes, yes, I'm here. What is it?"

Into the other room she blundered, turning on the light as she went.

Three minutes later Sarah was pounding frantically on the Bulstrodes' door. An age before the colonel, red and swollen with sleep, thrust out his tousled head, another age while Mrs. Bulstrode bundled a Burberry over his vast mauve pajamas and propelled him on his errand. Even then, implored to be quick, he turned to stare queerly.

"Violently ill, you say? What another one? Helen, I don't ——"

"Hush, Ronald! Just telephone. I'll do what I can."

Sarah had already reached the stairs when Mrs. Bulstrode caught up with her to pant in comforting tones that she mustn't be alarmed. Christine had been taken with these bouts before, but painful though they were she had always rallied fairly soon.

"You say it came on quickly?"

"Frightfully so. It woke her up—and O, Mrs. Bulstrode, when I think of Miss Tomlins ——!"

"That's nonsense, dear. Christine's trouble is gastric, Beryl's was lower seated. Not at all the same."

However, the sight which met their eyes upset even the older woman's calm. Miss Venables' highly-flushed skin with sweat pouring from it, the terrifying paroxysms of pain succeeding each other with scarcely any intermission, bore evidence to something far worse than ordinary cramps. To Sarah it was but a nightmare repetition of the scene in the attic room. Paralyzed by the same despairing helplessness she gripped her companion's arm and demanded what was to be done.

"Bismuth," was the brisk murmur. "Has she any?"—and while the distracted girl rushed for the bottle of milky fluid kept for such emergencies she stooped to catch what the sufferer was striving to impart.

"Burning sensation—here. So it is the stomach," she whispered when Sarah returned with bottle and spoon. "Ptomaine, perhaps—or ulceration. This may give some relief till the doctor gets here."

"They've done it!" she gasped. "It's poison!"

"O, no! O, impossible!" Sarah soothed her, choked by sobs of abject terror. "How could it be that when you've eaten nothing? Dear Miss Venables, you'll be better very soon. Dr. Gilcrest is coming. Don't be frightened, it's all ——"

"Delirious," muttered Mrs. Bulstrode significantly, but the stricken woman shook a stubborn head.

"Poison!" she repeated. "I know it. Sarah—listen to me . . . Understand—full possession senses—read my letter. I look to you ——"

A renewed spasm rent her speech. When it had passed thick, dark blood streaked with a brighter red welled from her mouth. At the very moment the colonel knocked and entered to say that Gilcrest was away on another case, she had sunk into a semi-stupor.

"They're getting through to him," explained the colonel. "He'll be here as soon as he can. A trifle easier, is she?"

Sarah pommeled his broad chest with her fists.

"O, don't stand here talking! Get the French doctor, get any one, any one with an ounce of medical knowledge! For God's sake, do something, or she'll be gone!"

"It's a coma. It means the end."

She was right. Miss Venables did not regain consciousness, and in just under the hour her labored breathing made a harsh rattle and ceased.

Sarah remained by the bed. Disheveled figures crept in, crept out again, but still she did not stir. Finally some one took hold of her and led her to her own room.

All Sarah said was, "When the doctor comes, I must see him."

Milan Aroused as Films Take Opera Houses

MILAN, March 19.—Milan, capital of the opera world, is dreading the possible death of this classic form of art.

Headquarters of La Scala, and therefore opera's most heavily fortified stronghold, Milan admits nevertheless that opera is waging a valiant but losing fight against the movies.

Until two years ago opera was holding its own here. American singers and students helped greatly in contributing toward staving off the evil day.

Now the evening newspaper La Sera here has at last been bold enough to come out in print with what every one had known for a long time.

In a scorching editorial entitled "We Must Save Grand Opera," La Sera says: "It has been evident for the past year in Milan that grand opera is threatened with the same fate suffered by the operetta.

"With three of the five opera houses in Milan closed and remodeled into motion picture houses, only La Scala is left to carry on the glorious traditions of Italian grand opera in this city, the last powerful stronghold of an essentially Latin art.

"Supporting the Scala is the Puccini, which now and then puts on a modest season of grand opera at low prices. That is all."

La Sera went on to point out that the principal causes for the decadence of grand opera—in addition to its arch enemy, the movie—were three:

1. The complete lack of real teachers of voice culture in Milan.

2. Aside from the few big names in grand opera, there are no new elements rising up to take the place of the old ones.

The promising singer of today is impatient and wants to arrive without too much delay. He is unwilling to put in seven to ten years of sacrifice and study which are essential for the creation of a great singer.

3. Lack of dramatic acting teachers or schools.

La Sera also condemned the paid claque at Milan.

As to the lack of voices, an interesting theory is being advanced here by various maestros. They say that the music world is now going through the world war's empty years, which affected voices as well as other things.

It is said that during the years of the war youngsters with promising voices naturally had to cease studying and the hardships of the trenches finished them off vocally.

As for women singers, the same thing applies. Poor food, or inadequate supply, combined with all the other hardships the Italian civilian population had to undergo during the war, ruined many a fine voice that today might be heard at the Scala or the Metropolitan.

Only Remedy for Nagging Wife Is a Nagging Back

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"When a man finds himself married to a woman who always is finding fault with him, what is the matter with her?" asks one J. D. "I can't do one blinkety-blank thing but she's on my neck! She bawls me out loud enough for the neighbors to hear, accuses me of things I never even thought of doing, and just keeps on nagging and nagging and nagging!"

What's the matter with her, you ask, J. D.? That's not the question. What's the matter with you? Why do you let her get away with the nagging? Do you take it cowed, meek and humble? If so, that's why!

Naggers are a breed akin. They always pick on some one not quite their size. I don't mean physical size. I mean they pick on a weaker minded individual, a softer hearted ninny. Give them an inch and heaven help you for the rest of your life.

There's only one way to combat the vice. Holler a little louder and nag a little harder. Get the message across to the woman that, as a nagger, she's but a poor imitation of you in your tamest moments, that you can teach her cards and spades when it comes to making life miserable for the other fellow. They're bullies, these naggers are. And all bullies are handled alike. They're not difficult to frighten. And they don't go tackling people of their own strength, or superior.

So, J. D., and other much nagged husbands, your hope of salvation lies in parading yourselves as the Big Shot around the house. What you say goes! And no back chat from the little woman!

Under ordinary circumstances no such authority need be voiced. But when you get one of these termagants in wives, the man has to assert himself or he's sunk into that pitiable figure of a henpecked mate for whom the world has little but contempt.

A thought here for wives guilty of the husband debasing practice: You don't make yourselves out as so hot yourself, choosing a mate you can belittle with that viperish tongue of yours. If you want folks to think you're good, don't do it!

And You'll Feel Like a Billion Dollars!

Sleepless nights, dog-tired days, headaches; pains in all parts of the body—indigestion—gas. Do you suffer from one or all?

And have you tried every medicine under the sun, only to find yourself back where you started?

No wonder; for you, like thousands of others have probably been treating yourself for everything but the right thing. Get at the unsuspected cause—your gall bladder. If sluggish, it won't pour into your small intestines the most important digestive juice necessary for neutralizing gastric acid, quickening digestion and disinfecting the intestinal tract. If this juice doesn't flow freely, then your food sours, putrifies, stomach becomes filled with gas and acidity.

From the world's greatest chemists comes a simple, pleasant means to make this digestive juice flow freely, and put you on the sunny side of life. Magnesia Oxoids, little white tablets that release pure oxygen. This amazing oxygen—purer than the air you breathe—plus magnesia, gently stimulates the gall bladder, neutralizes burning acidity and sweeps that poison-packed bowel clean.

Take two Oxoids after each meal—and before retiring—drink plenty of water—put your gall bladder to work—and you'll jump out of your skin for joy. Such new health! Such robust vigor! Get Magnesia Oxoids today from your druggist.—Advertisement.

Noyes-Shaw Wedding Set for April 26

Ceremony to Take Place at St. Chrysostom's.

Bohemians Sponsor Strawinsky Recital.

The series of dance recitals that the Bohemians sponsored is ended but the organization is undertaking one more benefit this year, it was announced yesterday. The Bohemians will sponsor the Igor Strawinsky-Samuel Dushkin concert at Orchestra hall, March 29.

The sponsorship came about through the close friendship of Rudolph Ganz, president of the Bohemians, and the great Russian composer. The concert will be Strawinsky's first appearance here in recital, although he appeared with the Symphony orchestra several times this season, each time to a completely sold out house. Strawinsky and Dushkin met five years ago and since that time have collaborated on a great many compositions, some of which will be played in their concert a week from Friday.

Invitations will be going out in the next few days for the annual luncheon of the Lighthouse Volunteer Aids at 1 o'clock, April 5, at the Drake hotel. Miss Betty Brawley is president of the Aids.

Rawsons Await Byrd Expedition.

When the Byrd expedition reaches California the end of April there will not be two more excited people on the dock than Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Rawson. Their son, Kennett, is navigator of the expedition. The Rawsons hope that the expedition will remain on the west coast long enough for young Mr. Rawson to have several days' reunion with his family. He will rejoin the expedition to make the trip through the canal around to New York. The senior Rawsons are at the Huntington in Pasadena and have no plans for coming back to Chicago.

From Palm Beach comes word of the many parties that are being given for the Marquise d'Ivanrey, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. I. Sheldon Tilney there. The Marquise, the former Italia Blair, went to Palm Beach from Chicago, where she had spent a little over two months visiting friends and relatives. She will join her mother, Mrs. Chauncey J. Blair, in New York to sail for France around the middle of April.

The Robert J. Dunhams will arrive at home next Sunday from a short trip to California, where they are visiting Mrs. Dunham's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jerd Sullivan, in San Francisco, and Mr. Dunham's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Hooker, in Burlingame.

Wolcott Blairs Will Return Next Month.

The Wolcott Blairs, who have spent very little time in Chicago recently, are expected back at their Lake View avenue residence next month. They are dividing their time this winter between New York and Aiken.

Mrs. William A. Gardner and her daughter, Miss Mary Gardner, arrived in town simultaneously from winter vacations. Mrs. Gardner had been in San Antonio, Tex., visiting her niece, Mrs. Roy O. Sample, while Miss Gardner went on a cruise to the West Indies and South America.

Miss Gardner found Jamaica one of the most attractive ports of call, although she also enjoyed Nassau and Cartagena, Colombia, where a tiny tiger cat, or ocelot, was given her. She brought the animal back to Chicago, where it is a worry to her parrots, a scourge to household furnishings, and a curiosity to her friends. Miss Gardner plans to present it to the zoo in a few weeks.

While in New York Miss Gardner saw the Hugh McKays, who used to live here, and who are moving soon to Paris with their two small sons.

The junior Albert F. Madleners and the Herbert H. Kennedys will arrive at home today from Vero Beach, Fla., where they have had a house for a month.

Augustus Eddys Plan Vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus W. Eddy are making plans for a trip late this month. They will go to Pinehurst, N. C., for a visit with Mrs. Eddy's father, Lansing B. Warner, and Mrs. Warner, who are building a house there. Mrs. Eddy's brother, John Eliot Warner, and his wife are away on a trip now, cruising to South America.

When the Richard Hacketts return from a California holiday in about a month they will move out to the Exmoor club in Highland Park for the spring and summer months. Mrs. Hackett is the new chairman of women's activities at the club. One of the first, if not the first, big party at this country club will be on Decoration day to celebrate the opening of the new swimming pool.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Zeiss of Winnetka joined the Charles W. Lobdells in New Orleans for the Mardi Gras festivities and now the foursome is in Pass Christian for several weeks before returning home.

Mrs. Franklin M. Miller, just back from the west coast, has joined Mr. Miller and gone on with him by motor to Florida. They will spend a week fishing in the Florida keys and then another fortnight in Miami and Palm Beach. They may even make a quick trip across to Cuba before they return north in a month or six weeks.

Alliance Francaise Lecture Today.

Having heard lectures on "L'Amour" and "Le Mariage," the Juniors of the Alliance Française will hear talk on "L'Enfant" today by Mrs. John Storrs. Miss Jean Wilhelm, assisted by Mrs. John Kohler, will be hostess at tea following. Mrs. Kohler will be one of Mrs. Storrs' most interested listeners today, because her first child, Michael, is but a few months old.

Miss Gertrude McCarthy, assisted by Mrs. Charles De Long, Miss Harriet Stuart, and Miss Sarah Hinde, will be hostess at the causerie of the Alliance tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. Carter H. Harrison and Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde will pour at the tea tables. Prof. Marius Jean will tell stories.

"The Novel of Manners" will be discussed by Margaret Ayer Barnes [Mrs. Cecil Barnes] tonight at the second of the series of lectures on "City Life and American Literature" that is being given in the auditorium of the New England church, Dearborn street at Delaware place, on Wednesday evenings during Lent. Single admission tickets will admit to the gallery and to the main floor for seats left free after 7:55, so undoubtedly many of Mrs. Barnes' admirers and friends who have not subscribed to the entire series will attend tonight's lecture.

Evanston Benefit for Infant Welfare.

Mrs. John E. McFadden, who was Josephine Hanchett before her recent marriage, called yesterday to tell of the plans for a benefit party of the Service League of the Evanston Infant Welfare. The league is to have a bridge tea and fashion show the afternoon of April 3 at the Evanston Country club. Miss Virginia Knight has accepted the general chairmanship.

There's another Dixiana Showboat benefit in the offing with the announcement this morning that the Southern Woman's Educational alliance has taken over the showboat for the evening of April 26. Mrs. Americus F. Callahan will entertain at tea at her house next Monday for the board members that they may discuss plans for the entertainment.

The members of the Sunbeam league will meet for luncheon this noon at the Stevens hotel. After luncheon the various committees interested in the annual spring card party to be held April 30 at the Stevens will hold private sessions.

Striking yellow and blue invitations for the party were in yesterday's mail. All of the proceeds are going to the support of the league's kindergartens for sick and crippled children in the Chicago hospitals and schools. Mrs. Otto L. Mast is president of the board of directors and Mrs. Martin de Tamble Jr. general chairman of the party.

Drama Study Club.

The Edgewater Drama Study club will meet at 2 o'clock Friday at the home of Mrs. A. D. Collins, 1232 Maple avenue, Evanston.

Three Neckline Versions Given

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

There are three different necklines possible with this dress, and each is smart. Begin with a lovely, printed silk crêpe with long sleeves for spring wear. Then you'll want a caped dress of a bright plain crêpe or, perhaps, a gayly dotted silk crêpe. For your summer wardrobe what could be smarter than the cool, yoked model made of white or pastel tub silk, checked linen, or striped cotton? All three can be made by one pattern.

The pattern, No. 3015, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

BY MARY MEADE.

To say that oriental cookery has some excellent suggestions for Lenten dishes smacks of rank heresy to the religious beliefs of all concerned. So to put it in what we hope is a more graceful manner, let's say that oriental cookery offers many fine ideas for meatless meals. In fact, the food of the east teems with ideas for all kinds of interesting meals, meatless or otherwise, but today's discussion is limited by space to the possibilities of the oriental vegetables with a sprinkling of eggs and seafood.

These vegetables are available in canned form almost every place. Tender, delicate bean sprouts show amazing versatility in Americanized dishes. Water chestnuts lend delightful crisp varieties of texture, as well as subtle flavor. Bamboo shoots have their own special charm, either in combination with other vegetables or alone. These may be purchased in separate cans or combined in special chop suey vegetable mixtures. Mushrooms, too, often are incorporated into oriental dishes, likewise green peppers and onions. The delicate flavor of soy sauce is practically a necessity for most of them, and the rich dark bead molasses often is used for added body and flavor.

With these, then, let's see what can be done in the way of main dishes. A bean sprout omelet is a particularly fine tempter for a spring luncheon or dinner. Just add a cup of drained, canned bean sprouts to your regular plain omelet, cook it just as you always do, and serve it garnished with green pepper rings or watercress.

Another egg mixture, really nothing more than extra fancy scrambled eggs, goes like this:

Chow Eggs.

¼ cup chopped cooked mushrooms
½ cup sliced water chestnuts
½ cup chopped bamboo shoots
6 eggs
1 tablespoon soy sauce
Pepper

Mix all the ingredients and scramble in a greased skillet over a low flame. Serve topped with chopped parsley and additional soy sauce if desired.

Another egg standby is the souffle. Give it a dash of distinction some time soon with the addition of crisp water chestnuts.

Water Chestnut Souffle.

2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
½ cup scalded milk
½ teaspoon salt
Few grains cayenne
3 eggs
1 cup diced water chestnuts

Melt the butter, add the flour, then stir in the scalded milk. Add the salt and cayenne, then remove from the heat and add the thoroughly beaten egg yolks. Cool the mixture and fold in the diced water chestnuts and stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake twenty minutes in a slow oven. Serve at once.

Shrimps or crabmeat go equally well into this next pleasant suggestion for a meatless dinner:

Shrimp Fried Rice.

1 cup cooked or canned shrimp (or crabmeat)
2 tablespoons cooking fat
2 tablespoons chopped onion
½ cup chopped celery
2 cups boiled or steamed rice
2 eggs
Salt, pepper
½ cup sliced mushrooms if desired
Soy sauce

Fry the shrimps, onion, and celery in the hot fat until the onions are clear and slightly yellow. Then stir in the cooked rice, using a large fork to avoid mashing the grains, and season with soy sauce, salt, and pepper. Add the beaten eggs and cook gently until the mixture is well thickened.

A main dish salad also takes its cue from the seafood idea. This, too, may be prepared from almost any kind of fish or seafood in place of the crabmeat.

CRAB BEAN SPROUT SALAD.

Mix a cupful of shredded crabmeat with a half cup of chopped celery and a cup of bean sprouts, all well chilled. Add a tablespoon of minced pimiento and another of parsley, for color, and two chopped or sliced hard cooked eggs. Season the mayonnaise for the salad with a little soy sauce and garnish the salad either with gay rings of green pepper or small quarters of tomato.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

PERHAPS YOU HAVE FOUND ME WEARISOME.

In preaching so often about the time factor and the need to steer the ultimate contract into the right hand, and so forth. I refuse to concede that these are such advanced points of expert bidding that the average player canont take them into consideration. In many hands I know that it may require the most delicate refinement of partnership bidding to achieve this result, and let me assure you that even the headliners misbid plenty of hands with regard to these special points. Nevertheless, there are a great number of hands where the placing of the declaration with reference to the worst possible opening lead can be very simply and obviously handled even by mediocre players who do not make a profound study of this game.

A Slam Hand from Actual Play.

Some weeks ago I made note of a hand which we played in a local duplicate game:

NORTH	SOUTH [Dealer]
Sp.—10 9 8 x x x	Sp.—A K Q x
Ht.—A Q J	Ht.—K x
Di.—Q x	Di.—A K J x
Cl.—x x	Cl.—K x x

If North plays the hand [in spades, inevitably] only five odd can be made; East has a natural club opening from Q J 10 x, and two club tricks are gathered in immediately. If South is declarer either in spades or no trumps, six odd is a spread with a club opening, and if any other suit is opened a grand slam is made. You may say that this is just a lucky hand for the opponents because the club situation is exactly right for them. My view is that the South hand can from the start see that he should be declarer either in spades, diamonds, or no trumps, just because of his actual holdings in hearts and clubs; the opening lead is almost certain to be in one of these two suits and it is essential that it should come up to and not through the king in either of these suits. He should, therefore, incorporate this playing angle in his bidding and make every effort to be the declarer, especially in no trumps.

Now this hand can, as it happens, be

Correctly and Intelligently Bid in More than One Way

But should nevertheless end up in six no trumps with South as declarer. Should South be the first one to mention spades, it is all right for him to play in six spades. However, I think that South should not bid a spade originally in this case just because it is so very likely that his partner's response, if any, will be one no trump, and it is plain that the no trump declaration should be secured for the South hand, whether game or slam be the outcome. South, however, has not got a very good no trump opening bid since two of his suits are only singly stopped and dubiously at that. I would bid a diamond to facilitate a one-over-one in hearts as a desirable step in getting to no trumps. Over a heart response I would intend to bid two no trumps rather than a spade, as the spade bid is likely to extort a no no trump rebid from North. This would be my reasoning in opening the bidding with a diamond. Actually, of course, the response is a spade, which is the last response one could expect. Now you must bid two no trumps for fear that a jump raise in spades will bring a no trump response from North. North naturally rebids in the form of three spades. Now bid five spades, showing tremendous spade support and urging your partner to make a constructive rebid if he can in something other than spades. You are saying in the language of cards: "I had to secure the no trump declaration for my side of the table before I jumped you in spades. If you can show anything else we can hardly miss a slam. Otherwise we will not fail to make five spades or five no trumps." At this point North should bid six hearts. They have agreed on spades as trumps if there is to be a trump suit; this heart bid is a sort of a cue bid saying: "No losers in hearts in view of your two no trump rebid." Now South, asked to choose between six spades and six no trumps, naturally selects the latter contract, which North passes without any palpitations.

Ample Diet Accomplishes Reduction Without Starving

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The spring revival of silhouette woes confronts me again. Always there's an avalanche of queries on reducing about the time the spring zephyrs are due. New clothes are responsible for the revived interest, of course.

Well, I've just had an interview with one whose twenty-five pound loss certainly proves the efficacy of the diet followed. One of the best bits of reducing accomplishment I've ever seen. Not a sagged line of face nor an underchin wrinkle. Not a tired sign, which so often characterizes an over twenty pound loss.

Incidentally, girls, you might call your husband's attention to this diet, since it was a man who accomplished the reduction mentioned. Your man may be flirting with a new suit idea, too, and would like to present said new suit with a leaner filling. The pair of you might together solve the daily menu problem by adopting the diet. I might remark that the diet I am about to explain to you, as practiced by the reducer, was suggested by a physician of outstanding reputation. Among its other benefits, the acid condition common to so many weight sufferers and others is corrected by the diet.

Here is the diet:

For breakfast: Oatmeal with cream and sugar, two thin slices of toasted rye bread with unsalted butter. Coffee without cream or sugar.

Luncheon: Vegetable plate; no potatoes; all green vegetables, such as beans, peas, cauliflower, spinach, etc. Slice tosted rye bread. Glass of milk.

Dinner: Scant helping of meat; small slice roast beef or roast lamb, or one lamb chop or small steak helping. No fried meat. Green vegetables. Slice pumpernickle [dark rye bread]. Glass of milk. Stewed fruit, unsweetened, if desired. Cheese once a week.

Use little salt, better none, and no sweets. Certainly no starvation diet, is it? But it clipped off twenty-five pounds of undesirable weight.

Here's Example of How Not to Feed a Child

Don't Squelch Attempts at Independence.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

I was lunching one day in one of our pleasant, informal tearooms. At the next table sat a young father and mother, and wandering in and out of the table was their young child—a sweet, touseled little girl of 3.

We often are told in books and leaflets of the wrong way to handle a child at meal times, and the right way. The little scene I witnessed was exactly as if some one had written a scenario for a movie on "How Not to Feed a Child."

When dessert was brought in the child came back to her table. Her father lifted her into her chair.

"I don't want you to help me up. I'm big. I can climb up." And she proceeded to slip down, so she could climb up alone. But she wasn't successful. Her father had scant patience with this evidence of self-sufficiency. He gave her a little boost which brought her sharply up on the chair, but which brought tears, too. Eventually, when the tears subsided, with spirits and appetite slightly dampened, she was ready for dessert, but not before her father had tucked her napkin in her chin in spite of her efforts to do it herself.

Her mother picked up the spoon and attempted to fed her some ice cream. But she closed her mouth and then cried, "I can feed myself; let me feed myself," and clutched for the spoon. Her father interrupted. "No, baby, let mother feed you." So baby, getting somewhat worn out in her efforts to be independent, subsided and allowed herself to be fed. But after a few mouthfuls, she protested again.

Quiet, peace, no focusing of attentoin on the child's eating in any way, no emotional disturbance, pleasant conversation, are the essentials of the proper environment in which a child should learn to eat what is put before him [presuming it is the proper food] and how to learn to feed himself.

Edward Price Art Collection Will Be Sold

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

An interesting collection of valuable paintings will be dispersed by sale today and tomorrow in the Grant Art galleries, 25 South Wabash avenue. The paintings belonged to the late Edward V. Price, who led a colorful life [in his younger days he was a stagecoach driver in the west, a rôle that appeals to us today as being the most romantic a young man could assume], and who displayed in the purchase of his pictures a catholic taste.

There are paintings of all kinds and sorts in this collection. Probably the two finest are "Halt in the Desert" by Schreyer, a canvas for which he paid $11,000 and which shows a stirring scene of Arabs and horses against the white buildings of Moslem, and the beautiful "Flight of the Holy Family Into Egypt" by Cazin. Another painting of the same subject by Francesco Albano has been a greatly admired picture. It was formerly in the collection of King Charles I of England, and later in the collection of Lord Abercorn, who presented it to Col. Ridley in 1750.

The painting dearest to the heart of the collector was "The Monarch" by Jean Leon Gérôme, a dramatic scene with an enormous striped tiger surveying a landscape that serves only to throw his regal beauty into keener focus. A little painting of St. Bernard dogs, "Dogs at Play," was the favorite picture of Mrs. Price.

Leaving sentiment aside, there is a fine still life by William M. Chase that is of interest and the superb Thomas Moran, "Grand Canyon of Arizona," claims instant attention. The great Dutch painter, Anton Mauve, is represented with a "Pastoral Landscape," a beautiful painting valued at one time at $60,000.

A landscape by Jules Dupré is a charming note. The "Brittany Peasant" attributed to Jules Breton has an accompanying letter from the artist's daughter stating that the girl in the picture is the same model he used for "The Song of the Lark," that famous canvas of his which is owned by the Chicago Art institute.

"Mrs. Boker Belfont" by Angelica Kauffmann, R. A., "Coast Scene" by George Morland, "Cows in Landscape" by Emile Van Marcke, "On the Grand Canal, Venice" by Ziem, "Boy with Pitcher" by Charles Hawthorne and "Portrait of a Lady and Child" by Sir Godfrey Kneller, are among the high lights of the collection.

Second, Kelpamalt is rich in NATURAL IODINE—a mineral needed by the vital organ which regulates metabolism—the process through which the body is constantly building firm, solid flesh, new strength and energy. 6 Kelpamalt tablets contain more NATURAL IODINE than 486 lbs. of spinach or 1660 lbs. of beef. More iron and copper than 2 lbs. of spinach or 15 lbs. of fresh tomatoes. More calcium than 1 doz. eggs. More phosphorus than 3 lbs. of carrots.
Try Kelpamalt for a single week and notice the difference—how much better you sleep, how ordinary stomach distress vanishes, how firm flesh appears in place of scrawny hollows—and the new energy and strength it brings you. Kelpamalt is prescribed and used by physicians. Fine for children, too. Remember the name, Kelpamalt, the original kelp and malt tablets. Start Kelpamalt today. BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 19.—The White Sox made the startling discovery today that the Pittsburgh Pirates can do a fairly neat job when it comes to hitting. In their first meeting with the Chicagoans in a long series of exhibitions, the National leaguers created havoc among some of Manager Jim Dykes' choicest pitching rookies. While doing thus, the Pirates piled up such a quantity of runs that they won.

Manager Dykes was somewhat distressed over the happenings because they involved John Whitehead and Lee Stine, who are labeled as starters for the coming season. Whitehead was separated from seven runs and as many hits in three innings. The production against Stine in the same number of innings was six runs and seven hits. However, there was some consolation for the Sox chief. The third of his de luxe rookies to pitch was Joe Vance and he permitted few liberties after taking charge in the seventh.

Herman Pounds Ball.

It might interest Chicagoans to know that the most important contributor to the grief heaped on the Sox was none other than Floyd [Babe] Herman, who was traded away by the Cubs during the winter. Just to let his Chicago friends know he is still alive and in good spirits, the Babe slammed two homers over the fence and furnished a single that also assisted in the scoring. There also were homers by Arky Vaughan which started Whitehead off to a bad first inning and one by Cookie Lavagetto. Only one homer bounced off a Sox bat. It was made by Rip Radcliff.

Business was brisk for both factions in the opening inning. The Pirates collected three runs off Whitehead because Vaughan slapped a homer over the right field fence after P. Waner had doubled and Herman had beaten out a scratch single. The Sox recalled two of these runs in their first batting effort when Radcliff banged the ball over the right field hedge in the wake of a single off Hayes' bat.

Lavagetto Starts Trouble.

The mess of trouble that forced Whitehead to relinquish four more runs in the second began with Lavagetto's single to right. He was forced by Padden after which Osborne walked. Both advanced on Baby Waner's infield out and scored when brother Paul singled to right. Babe

Report Syndicate Is Formed to Buy White Sox Club

A representative of a Chicago syndicate, headed by Tom Shaughnessy, was reported en route to Pasadena, Cal., by airplane last night to confer with Owner Lou Comiskey concerning the possible purchase of the White Sox.

The rumor of the reported deal, identical in most respects with the hundreds which have been going the rounds for years, differed only in the detail that a representative actually had been chosen to talk to Comiskey. Three Chicago men are said to be interested in buying the club with Shaughnessy, who formerly was connected with the Chicago Shamrocks hocky club. Shaughnessy said last night that the plan still is in the formative stage.

ChicagoansGet Only Five Hits at Sacramento

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sacramento, Cal., March 19.—The Cubs' first string sluggers pounded out five singles against two minor league pitchers this afternoon and in so doing drew themselves a 4 to 2 licking at the hands of the Sacramento Sacs, winners of the seventh prize in the Pacific Coast league last autumn.

Three of the screaming singles were knocked in the first inning and to this fact the Cubs owe the consolation of not being goose egged. One of the two singles after the first inning was an infield liner which should have been caught. Most of the Cubs' prize help was employed, so the showing scarcely can be blamed to blushing third stringers.

Red Herring and Bill Hartwig were the pitchers who made our boys look so silly. In the latter half of the game a ball hit to the outfield was a source of rejoicing.

Back to .500 Percentage.

The setback reduced the Cubs' exhibition percentage to .500 and their showing for the last four days to .250. There hasn't been a pitcher who had anything at all in the six games to date who hasn't been able to paralyze the Chicago batsmen. You may be sure that this, together with certain other relapses to 1934 mannerisms, is causing great consternation hereabouts.

Three hits off Herring netted the Cubs their runs in the first inning. Galan and English singled, and after Klein had fanned, Lindstrom drove them home with a single.

The Sacs made their four runs in their half of the first inning, mostly because Manager Grimm wanted to be nice to Long Jack Andrews, the University of California freshman. It proved a sad opportunity for the tall, personable youth, for it became necessary to remove him when he issued two bases and allowed two hits before a man was retired. Fabian Kowalik then entered the contest and while he allowed two hits he also started a double play which cut down the suffering materially.

Kowalik Is Effective.

After the first inning Herring stood the Cubs on their heads for the remaining four innings of his tenancy. Klein, who singled with two out in the third, was the only Chicagoan to reach first in that span. Kowalik also was effective in the four innings immediately following the opener, holding the Sacs to a double by Rosenberg with two out in the third and a double by Steinbacker with two out in the fifth.

Two lefties, Hartwig for the Sacs and Frank Coleman for the Cubs, took over the pitching in the sixth. The Cubs didn't get a man to first off Hartwig until two were out in the eighth, when Galan walked. English also walked. Then Demaree singled off Ellsworth's glove, filling the bases. Hack ended the chance with a fly to Rosenberg.

Leader—Lands.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Between jams at the six day bicycle race shortly before last midnight a Tribune correspondent caught up with Alfred Letourner, the great French bike star, and asked him "How come you and your partner Georgetti are ten laps behind?"

Letourner was in his bunk on the south side of the track trying to catch a few winks of sleep when the reporter gave his shoulder a shake and put the question to him.

Favorites Fall Behind.

It was an important issue because Letourner and Georgetti had been top heavy favorites when the race started mainly because Letourner has won the last six races in which he has participated.

Wouldn't it be grand if one could talk to Equipoise, Cavalcade, or Shilly Shally or some of those other nags the public makes the favorites at the race track and they could explain why they were so far behind going down the back stretch.

Letourner explained the situation all right.

"Holy cripes its only Tuesday night isn't it?" responded the little Frenchman. "Franco will give me a little help and we'll pick up ten laps in two nights of riding," he continued. "A lot of fellows out in front of us are already beginning to grow dizzy. I can see it every time I whizz around with them and so can Franco see it.

Watch Audy and Peden.

"We've lost a little ground trying to ride Audy and Peden out of the race. We haven't ridden them out of the race yet but you will notice they are down in last place seven laps behind us and 17 laps behind the leaders.

"No personal grudge in this you understand, but to win we mapped out our campaign to eliminate them first then go after the leaders. It won't be long until we will be right after these leaders."

Wouldn't you like to hear Chance Sun speak those words when he steps down the back stretch far behind the

Joe Louis to Help Train Chicago Golden Gloves Team

Joe Louis, a leading contender for Max Baer's heavyweight boxing championship, will help the Golden Gloves team get in condition for the annual intercity bouts against New York at the Stadium March 29. The 1934 Golden Gloves light heavyweight champion established himself at the Grand hotel immediately upon his arrival from Detroit Monday night in order to be near the colored members of the Chicago squad, who are quartered there.

Louis will accompany the boys to Washington park on the south side this morning at 6 o'clock and instruct them on the proper way to do roadwork. His pupils are Lorenzo Pack, heavyweight champion; Clint Bridges, light heavyweight alternate, and Dave Clark, middleweight winner, all of Detroit; Jesse Levels, Cleveland, flyweight finalist; Lorenzo Lovings, Catholic Youth organization lightweight semi-finalist, and Elwood McReynolds, Dayton, O., welterweight.

Fat Boys on Diet.

At 2:30 this afternoon the seven colored fighters will join their teammates at the Illinois Athletic club for the daily boxing drill.

The rigors of training became more pronounced yesterday when Coach Johnny Behr put the overweight boxers on a diet. He had been pleased when most of the fighters weighed within easy reach of their fighting weight after Monday's workout. This was changed yesterday, for the fat boys' brigade was augmented by others.

The reason for this was that the first sparring sessions gave the boys a heartier appetite and the surplus poundage was added at the dinner table. As a result Clark, Andy Scrivani, C. Y. O. No. 1 featherweight; George Dungey, Bloomington, Ill., semi-finalist; Patsy Urso, Detroit, flyweight crown holder; Levels, Jimmy Urso, Grand Rapids, Mich., 112 pound alternate, and Johnny Brown, C. Y. O., who whipped Troy Bellini for the bantamweight title, did not find as much food in their places last night. The curtailment included ice cream, milk, potatoes, and other starchy and weight producing foods.

Team Sees Races.

After dinner the team went to the Chicago Stadium to watch the 9 o'clock sprints in the six day bicycle race.

MONTREAL, Que., March 19.—(AP)—The world champion Chicago Blackhawks concluded their regular National Hocky league season at the Forum tonight with a 4 to 2 victory over the Montreal Canadiens. The triumph gave them a total of 57 points for the season, based on 26 victories, 17 defeats, and 5 ties. They finished in second place in the American section of the league, only a half game back of the first place Boston Bruins.

The Hawks will remain here until Saturday night, when they will begin the defense of the Stanley cup they won last year by meeting the Montreal Maroons, second place finishers in the Canadian section. The Maroons and Hawks will then journey to Chicago, where they will battle in the final game of the second place series on Tuesday.

Chabot Wins Trophy.

Tonight's game was a comparatively dull one, both teams obviously saving themselves for the playoff series. No penalties were called and the goalies had only 33 stops between them. It did, however, assure Lorne Chabot of the Hawks possession of the Georges Vezina trophy, annual goalkeepers' prize. It was the first time Chabot had won the trophy and added his name to such other winners of the trophy as George Hainsworth, Roy Worters, Tiny Thompson, and the late Chuck Gardiner, who brought it to the Hawks last year. Chabot was scored on only 88 times, four less than Alex Connell of the Maroons.

Paul Thompson scored the first goal for the Hawks in the opening period, but that was soon matched by Pit Lepine of the Canadiens. Near the end of the period Doc Romnes gave the Chicagoans a 2 to 1 edge, but Wildor Larochelle tied it up for the Frenchmen in the second session. Louie Trudell and Howie Morenz then clinched it for the champions with third period goals.

Lepine Steals Puck.

Lepine stole the puck away from Kendall at the Chicago blue line and fed Joliat a nice pass, but Chabot made a fine save of Aurel's hard shot. Kendall was heavily checked by Joliat when he tried to sneak down the boards. Chabot came diving out of his net to stave off Lepine and Joliat just missed poking home the rebound. Cude saved easily off Lolo Couture. Goldsworthy missed an open net when George Mantha fed him a pass directly in front, with Chabot off balance. Paul Thompson opened the scoring at the five-minute mark, taking a pass from Couture to draw Cude out of his net and slip the puck home. Doc Romnes drew an assist also.

Howie Morenz whipped a hard shot at Cude that missed the net and on the return rush Jack McGill was in with only Chabot to beat, but quick covering by the Chicago defense saved a goal. Morenz was body-checked by Carson when he tried to break through alone. Play hovered around the center-zone as both sides presented tight defenses. Finally Pit Lepine tied the score on a beautiful passing play with Larochelle and Joliat pulling Chabot out after taking Aurel's pass and whipping the puck into an open net.

Larochelle Evens It.

The Canadiens took the upper hand and Chicago golfed the puck down the ice to relieve the pressure. Chicago went into the lead with three minutes of the period remaining, Romnes racing in to poke home Paul Thompson's rebound right at Cude's feet.

Waldor Larochelle scored the tying goal when he shot the puck from behind the net and it struck Chabot's stick, bounding back into the net.

Louis Trudell sent Chicago ahead on a beautiful play, snapping up a loose puck in front of the net to draw Cude out and whip it home from 20 feet away.

Howie Morenz missed the net after taking Levinsky's pass to blaze a hard shot from a difficult angle. Cude dashed out of his net to outguess Morenz when the veteran center tried to stick-handle him out of position, but Morenz gave Chicago a two goal lead when he picked off a pass from Gottselig and Levinsky and slammed it home to end the scoring.

JOE LOUIS WILL HELP GOLDEN GLOVERS TRAIN

Baer Challenger to Teach Colored Boxers.

They left the Stadium about an hour and a half later and by 11 o'clock all had been tucked in bed for the night.

Coach Behr shortened the floor drill from six rounds the day before to four rounds yesterday on the contention the boys got a harder workout in the ring. All were pitted against representatives in the classes above their own for one, two, and three rounds.

Charles Wozniak's aching stomach responded to treatment and he eagerly jumped into the ring for the first time to exchange punches with Herman West, the Centralia light heavyweight. Mike Gamiere, the Cleveland slugger, who holds the lightweight crown, was out of sorts for a few hours and he was excused from the regular morning trot in Grant park. A light lunch put him back in shape and he went one round with McReynolds in the afternoon.

Nettlow at Weight.

Al Nettlow, Detroit, who was beaten by Pat Kelly in the semi-final round, appeared to better advantage than his mates, Kelly and Scrivani, in his sparring session with Lovings. Nettlow is at his natural weight right now and will be watched carefully so that he doesn't overwork and go stale.

N. Y. BOXERS DISMISSED

New York, March 19.—[Special.]—Officials of the New York Daily News A. A. tonight made drastic revision of the personnel of the squad in training for the intercity Golden Gloves bouts to be held in Chicago Stadium March 29. It is not unlikely that half of the 16 boxers who worked their way to the finals of the New York tournament will fail to face Chicago's champions.

Trouble arose this evening at the St. Moritz hotel, where the squad has been training. Several of the boxers demanded $10 a week expense money during the period of training. Al Copland of the Daily News staf awaited the team in the dining room.

Boxers Are Dismissed.

When the boys sat down for dinner Copland asked who had written the missive demanding expense money. He received no answer, whereupon the chief trainer asked all those who had subscribed to the shakedown to manifest their indorsement by rising. Several stood up.

Copland looked at the boys and fired them on the spot. "You are all off the Golden Gloves team," he said. "Go up and pack your clothes and leave the hotel at once."

Replacements Are Ready.

Within an hour after the rebellion the Daily News A. A. had selected replacements who will move into the training quarters tomorrow.

"The squad will be stronger than ever for the Chicago bouts," said Paul Gallico, director of the New York tournament, tonight. "Most of our real fighters are still amateurs. The spirit of the squad will be improved now that the semi-pros have been discovered and ousted."

The New York team will leave for Chicago Saturday on a special section of the Twentieth Century.

Wesley Brown, Former N.U. Wrestler, Sued for Divorce

A. Wesley Brown, former Northwestern university wrestler who is now a member of the safety squad of the Evanston police force, was sued for divorce yesterday in Circuit court by Mrs. Rebecca L. Brown of St. Louis. The bill charges cruelty. It replaces a separate maintenance action which Mrs. Brown started last fall. The divorce bill revealed that the couple were married secretly under assumed names on Dec. 1, 1932, while both were students at Northwestern. They remarried a year later and separated Aug. 22, 1934. It was indicated that the suit would be uncontested.

1933 Finalists Again Threats in Prep Meet

Champaign, Ill., March 19.—(AP)—It's entirely possible that Springfield and Thornton High of Harvey may meet again here to decide the state basketball championship this week-end.

In 1933 they enacted basketball drama in a 15 to 14 Harvey victory. The 1935 drawings have placed them in opposite brackets. A return meeting would be the greatest natural high school basketball game this state ever had.

Before getting to the finals, however, Springfield will have to batter down such formidable opposition as Mount Carmel and Deerfield-Shields of Chicago and Joliet. Thornton must get past Danville, Galesburg and Pekin.

Quincy, the defending champion which hasn't a regular left from last year, will have a battle in its first game against Rockford, a team that is now at its peak. It's a question of whether the Quincy defense can form fast enough to halt Rockford's fast break.

Joliet, Moline on Even Terms.

There is no favorite between Joliet and Moline, which open the tournament at ten o'clock Thursday morning.

It appears whatever team comes out of the Joliet-Moline-Rockford-Quincy semi-final section will not be strong enough for the winner of either of the next two games between Springfield and Mount Carmel and Champaign and Deerfield.

Most observers are inclined to give Springfield 20 points over Mt. Carmel, but they do not reckon with Mr. Carmel's offense. Shoaff and Taylor, Mt. Carmel forwards, score frequently because of their individual cleverness, although they have never faced the mass height which Springfield puts on the floor.

Thornton Meets Marion.

Deerfield and the Maroons of Champaign are two teams of about the same physical makeup. Six footers replenish both lineups.

In the first game of the lower bracket, Thornton will try out on Marion the attack which rolled up 129 points in three sectional games.

This will be a battle of opposites—Thornton with what is still the most dazzling attack in the state and a weak defense, Marion with a defense that had most teams stopped in Little Egypt.

Peoria Central Battles Danville.

The Peoria Central-Danville game should be a high scoring affair. Centrals five sharpshooters may prove just the combination to spoil the Danville zone defense. Danvilles fast break with Sharp taking the ball down the floor, however, is dangerous, and Central is admittedly weak on defense. If the Central-Danville winner plays Thornton, another offensive battle will result.

Hillsboro and Pinckneyville are the dark horses, since their sectional victories created the greatest surprise. The winner must play either Galesburg or Pekin. Galesburg, which has won 21 straight victories, may find the load too heavy somewhere along the route. Galesburg had no competition in district or sectional tournaments.

Pekin's five man height advantage over Galesburg's three tall players and two small men is offset by Galesburg's speed and its ability to score on long shots.

Joe Miller Rolls 888 Pin Series for Unofficial Mark

St. Louis, Mo., March 19.—(AP)—Joe Miller of Buffalo, N. Y., former American match game champion, today holds an unofficial world record three game total of 888 pins, and all because a bowler complained he had a ball that he couldn't handle properly.

Miller, appearing here on an exhibition tour, was telling a group about the fine points of the game last night when one of the men exhibited his new bowling ball and asked why it wouldn't take to the alleys with proper effect.

Miller told the questioner his form, and not the ball, was wrong, and then began to send the ball down the alleys in an exhibition game. He cracked 288. Then he hit a perfect game of 300 and duplicated the 300 score in a third game for the record 888 total.

Record books show an unofficial three game total of 879 pins by Jack Almer, Massillon, O.

MICHIGAN MAY ENLARGE HOCKY ARENA BY 2,000

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 19.—[Special.]—If the FERA continues to play Santa Claus Michigan hocky fans may see their games in comfort next winter.

It was said today plans for remodeling of the Coliseum to triple its capacity were being drawn in the buildings and grounds department of the university. The seating capacity would be enlarged by 2,000. Coach Eddie Lowrey's plan is to pull down the north wall and build fifteen rows of seats.

The proposal is largely the result of the building's having had insufficient capacity for several games last season, particularly the contests with Minnesota. Michigan won the Big Ten title this year.

Link Gamblers with Indiana Prep Scandal

Jeffersonville, Ind., March 19.—[Special.]—Indiana gamblers were reported to have made a killing in the Indiana State High school basketball tournament last week as investigation by Jeffersonville prep officials today strengthened the belief that Coach Janis [Hunk] Francis was tricked and drugged in Indianapolis Friday night.

Francis was incapacitated after he took a mysterious taxicab ride from his hotel, team officials revealed. Clifton [Doc] Eastman, Francis' hotel roommate in Indianapolis, reported the coach left the hotel Friday night and did not return until early Saturday morning when a taxicab brought him to the hotel in a stupor.

Efforts to revive Francis failed. He was reported groggy all day Saturday and was unable to handle his team in Saturday night's final, when Anderson won the title by defeating Jeffersonville, which had a record of 31 victories and no defeats up until the game.

Jeffersonville gamblers were reported to have offered long odds against Jeffersonville Saturday and similar odds are said to have been offered in Indianapolis. At an Indianapolis hotel it was reported 12 to 7 was being laid on Anderson at game time.

Francis left Jeffersonville without submitting his resignation, demanded last night by the school board, and was reported to be at the home of his sister in Indianapolis.

Meanwhile, Jeffersonville business men, who had intended to go to Indianapolis to ask Arthur Trester, head of the Indiana High School Athletic association, to expel Francis, abandoned the idea, because it might be construed as an attempt to alibi Jeffersonville's defeat.

Girl High Jump Champ Drives to Track Meet

New York, March 19.—[Special.]—Alice Arden, blonde high jumper from the Dragon club of Brooklyn, is journeying by automobile to the women's national indoor track championships at St. Louis on Friday. She will drive there and back unaccompanied. This is her first sizeable trip without her coach or a traveling companion.

Alice, who now holds the National women's high jump title, indoors and outdoors, plans to average 300 miles a day, which will put her in St. Louis tomorrow night. She set forth yesterday. A brief practice Thursday and she'll be ready to defend the title she won last winter in Brooklyn.

Her outdoor record of 5 feet 3¼ inches was set in Chicago in 1933. There was no outdoor meet last year.

120 REPORT FOR HARVARD SPRING FOOTBALL DRILL

Cambridge, Mass., March 19.—[Special.]—One hundred and twenty candidates—the largest and most enthusiastic squad ever to report for spring football practice here—answered Coach Dick Harlow's call for football talent at Harvard today. Harlow, well pleased with the response, did not let it interfere with his plans, the former Colgate and Western Maryland coach putting the squad through the stiffest opening day spring workout ever given a Harvard group. The drill lasted ninety minutes. The squad even had light contact work.

Harlow's plans call for four weeks of practice, two of which will be indoors and two outdoors. The new coach intends to study every candidate during the next few days before reducing his squad.

Hocky Teams Are Cleared of Charges

Buffalo, N. Y., March 19.—(AP)—Hocky teams of Cleveland and Syracuse, cleared of collusion, invaded London and Detroit, respectively, tonight to launch the International league playoffs as Buffalo definitly dropped its membership because of what it termed an obvious deal to keep it from the series.

Charges of a deal were hurled by Frank B. Baird Jr., wealthy owner of the Bisons, after Syracuse defeated Cleveland Sunday night, 13 to 7, in a game that allowed both to enter the playoffs. He demanded that Cleveland and Syracuse be dropped from professional hocky or he would withdraw his team.

King Clears Teams.

The accused sextets were cleared today by Charles S. King of Windsor, Ont., president of the league, as Baird sailed for the West Indies.

King, after talking with Eddie Powers, Syracuse manager, and Harry Holmes, Cleveland manager, said he was "perfectly satisfied" there had been no collusion.

"I am satisfied with the explanation given by Powers and Holmes."

League May Quit.

Baird's withdrawal was accompanied by a statement that he was "determined not to be associated with a sport where such a spectacle is countenanced."

His move was believed to have placed the league on the brink of dissolution.

BARNEY ROSS TO OPEN DRILL FOR WOODS TODAY

Champion Near Stipulated Weight of 140.

Barney Ross, 1929 Golden Gloves featherweight boxing champion, will start boxing drills this afternoon at Trafton's gymnasium in preparation for his 12 round junior welterweight title defense against Henry Woods, Yakima, Wash., at Seattle April 9. The champion appeared near the stipulated weight of 140 pounds so his handlers, Sam Pian and Art Winch, will direct him to go slow. Barney will head for Seattle April 1.

Two matches at five rounds each will feature the amateur show tonight at the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue. Howard McConnell, Heniff's gymnasium representative, and Bob Leiva, Gary, Ind., will clash in one. The other will involve Jackie Reed, Lansing, Ill., and Claude Hinderliter. Frank Talaber, son of the former middleweight wrestling champion, Lou Talaber, will wrestle Stanley Smik in one of the five preliminary bouts.

Joe Louis, former Chicago Golden Gloves titleholder, opened a six day drill at the same gymnasium yesterday for his 10 round bout with Natie Brown, Washington, D. C., at Detroit, Mich., March 29. The colored heavyweight contender sparred three rounds with Willie Davies, Chicago. He will go to Detroit Sunday night, accompanied by his trainer, Jack Blackburn, lightweight star a quarter of a century ago.

Louis will attend the big annual charity amateur show being sponsored by St. Hilary parish at St. Hilary auditorium, Bryn Mawr and California avenues, tomorrow night. He is likely to referee one of the eight battles on the card, a feature of which will bring together Jerry Mulcahy, Heniff's gymnasium, and Herman Wright, Savoy Athletic club, at 126 pounds. Other celebrities who will be ringside guests include Champion Ross and his stablemate, Davey Day, lightweight contender. Joe Lipp, timer, and Livingston Osborne, judge, have been added to the list of officials who will work the bouts.

Leo Rodak, Chicago junior lightweight, may open a California tour at Hollywood March 29. . . . Tommy Paul, who lost the featherweight crown to Freddy Miller at the Stadium two years ago, has split with his manager, Charley Martin. . . . Jimmy Christy, Catholic Youth organization 126 pound star, has returned from the Pacific coast seeking a match with Mike Belloise of New York. . . . Fred Irwin, who promoted the show headed by the late Tiger Flowers and Maxie Rosenbloom shortly before the former middleweight champion died in 1927, has started negotiations in an effort to obtain a lease at Bacon's arena for presentation of cards there this summer.

A show is being arranged at Rockford March 29. . . . Promoters at Joliet must appear before the state boxing commission before receiving sanction of their next card. . . . Tony Hadjich, wrestling referee, was commended by the commission for disqualifying George Dusette when the latter continually disregarded the officials commands in a recent bout. . . . Dusette will be unable to wrestle in this state until he appears before the athletic body.

MOSTLY about DOGS

By Bob Becker

Irish Setters

Ireland has given its name to several breeds of dogs, but it would be difficult to find any one of the group with more sparkle, beauty, and personality than the Irish setter. Here is a combination hunting partner and home dog of great intelligence and striking appearance. In the hunting field they show much dash and go as they romp through the cover, making a picture that thrills the hunter.

Last Sunday I watched a pair of these mahogany red setters playing near the Oak street beach. It was an interesting sight because the dogs were so eager to play, seemed to enjoy games with their handler, and minded their business so nicely. Nearly everybody that came along the drive stopped to watch these setters, just as all of us are attracted when we see a handsome example of the breed coming down the street, or standing like a statue in the show ring.

There is no doubt but what the Irish setter is a showy dog with his rich golden chestnut or deep mahogany coat, his feathering, well formed skull showing plenty of brain room, and his proud carriage. But even more important than these external features is the Irish setter's character. He has the brains and charming qualities to make him a wonderful companion.

Although there is some doubt about the exact origin of this popular breed of sporting dog, the fact that the standard of the Irish setter will permit a few white markings on the dog, gives us a clew to a rather interesting story.

These small splashes of white which can be on the setter's toes, chest, and throat go back to the days when breeders had Irish setters with a considerable amount of white on them. Unfortunately, there was no separate class made for these dogs and, with the demand coming up for solid red Irish setters, the white and red strain gradually faded into the background. Today our good looking Irish setter is the red setter to all of us, with the small white markings an almost forgotten factor in the public's appraisal of the breed, except that the official standard does not penalize an Irish setter with just a few minor white markings.

Any one considering a fairly large dog as a canine companion in the home will find many desirable qualities in the Irish setter. Of course, it should be remembered that this breed is an active one. An Irisher wants exercise. This is true of many of our hunting breeds which are accustomed to strenuous work in the game fields ahead of the guns.

The Irisher is every inch a hunter, a flashy performer with a real nose for game. And he has a merry disposition. In fact, he is the kind of dog whose disposition, expressive eyes, and wagging tail are hard to resist. Prospective dog owners interested in Irish setters will see an impressive group of them at the coming Chicago dog show, because advance entries indicate that the red setters are coming from near and far to compete for honors in the show ring.

George Ades' lawyer when the manager of Orville Drouillard, Windsor junior lightweight, appears for a hearing in Town Hall court this morning on charges of assault with a deadly weapon. Ades and Hugh Cartin, hoisting engineer, engaged in a fist fight, on the merit of the decision which gave Drouillard a draw in the eight round contest with Sharkey at Marigold Gardens Monday. During the melee Cartin was cut in the hand by a knife he says was wielded by Ades. The latter denies the charges. F. M.

Most of our business is referred by friends

Every so often we ask our customers, "How did it happen that you came to us?" "How did you find out about the Personal Loan & Savings Bank?"

Many say, "I saw your ad in the newspapers" or, "Noticed your card in the 'L'"—others, "Happened to see one of your booklets" or, "Was attracted by your inviting banking quarters." But well over the majority make the answer, "Was referred by a friend."

We know that many of these "friends" are present and former customers—savers, borrowers, comakers—satisfied and enthusiastic boosters. We also know that many who have never been on our books nor in our office hold us in high regard and say, "Go to the Personal Loan & Savings Bank."

Thank you!

It must be we are doing our job well when so many of our friends are sending in to us so many of their friends.

Accompanied by his wife, McCarthy left this evening to attend the funeral in Philadelphia on Friday. In his absence, Art Fletcher, coach, will assume charge of the New York team.

Giants Take 5-4 Beating from Browns

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 19.—(AP)—John Burnett found the offerings of two of the New York Giants big four, Hal Schumacher and Leroy Parmelee, no puzzle today as he cracked out four hits and drove in two runs to lead the St. Louis Browns to a 5 to 4 victory over the National league club. The victory gave the Browns the spring series, three games to one. Burnett also helped the Giants' cause. He made the Browns' two errors, one of which gave the Giants a run.

Gomez pitched four innings, yielding four hits and the Braves' one run, made on a pair of doubles by Moore and Berger. Johnny Broaca held the tribe in check with four hits the remainder of the distance. One of the Yankees' runs was a homer by Jesse Hill.

Babe Ruth, playing six innings, made only one hit, a single in the sixth. He also was charged with the Braves' only error when he let Tony Lazzeri's single in the fifth go through him. The Yankee second baseman completed the circuit on the three base error.

Joe Stripp cracked out a single to score Johnny McCarthy with the winning run. A pinch triple by Babe Phelps enabled the Dodgers to tie the score in the eighth.

Cubs Encounter Oakland Today; Then for Frisco

Sacramento, Cal., March 19.—[Special.]—The Cubs will leave here tomorrow morning at 8:20 o'clock and will arrive at Modesto at noon. At 2:45 o'clock they will face the Oakland team of the Pacific Coast league in Modesto's brand new ball park. The squad will take off for San Francisco at 6:26 tomorrow evening and will play five games in four days against teams of the Bay sector.

Manager Charles John Grimm has found it necessary to crack down on some of the lads who, he says, have been sipping the milk of the wild cow. According to the Cub boss, at least three of his principals last night dipped their bills much too deep into the beeker, causing Mr. Grimm, who usually retires early, to personally pace the hotel lobby until far past the curfew hour. He named the three gents he says were stiff, but if he took any disciplinary action, information regarding same was denied the press.

Beginning tomorrow, Manager Grimm says, he will be giving his leading pitching candidates more work. At Modesto tomorrow Lon Warneke and Larry French will work and thereafter, Grimm says, he expects to persuade Bill Lee and Tex Carleton to make their first exhibition starts.

Bill Herman is regaining strength and was able to take a brisk workout before today's game.

SENATORS DISMISS PITCHERS.

Biloxi, Miss., March 19.—(AP)—The Senators sent six pitchers back to the minor leagues today after defeating Albany, 5 to 2.

When they pulled out of Gulfport, where Albany is in training, Pitchers Frank Petticolas and Hugh Mulcahey remained to take up their careers with the International league club.

Owner Clark Griffith also announced the sending of Alec McColl, Orville Armbrust, Reese Diggs and Dick Lanahan to the Chattanooga Lookouts.

TY COBB'S SON GOES ON TRIAL FOR BATTERY

Redwood City, Cal., March 19.—(AP)—Herschel Cobb, 18, son of Tyrus Raymond Cobb of baseball fame, faced the girl he is accused of beating as he went on trial here today in Justice court on a charge of battery.

Julia W. Connor, 19, high school friend of the youth, told the jury of ten men and two women that Cobb attacked her after she repulsed his advances during a party in a cabin the night of Feb. 12.

The former major league star was with his son during the proceedings. The Cobbs live at Atherton, near here.

Ben Stevenson Drives Two Cows Off Road

Ben Stevenson, one of Olympia Fields' and Beverly's outstanding golfers, had a harrowing experience in Florida a few days ago. After visiting Manager Ray Schalk at the Buffalo International league team's training camp he set out in his automobile and crashed into several cows on the road. The car was damaged in the crash and then careened off into a swamp.

Pirates Get Four Homers; Beat Sox, 14-4

Herman then sailed a homer over the left field barrier, Paul Waner scoring ahead of him. Whitehead avoided complications during the remainder of the inning and also concluded his day's performance by setting down the National leaguers in order in the third.

The Sox broke loose to the extent of one run in the fourth. Bonura led off with a single to center, but was forced by Washington. Appling's contribution was a gentle tap to the second baseman who whipped him out. Dykes furnished the necessary punch. He lined low to center and the ball bounced past Baby Waner for a double, Washington scoring. Sewell closed the inning with a roller back to the pitcher.

Stine Yields Pair.

Stine turned out a perfect fourth inning and had two out of the way in the fifth before the Pirates started the production of two runs. Traynor set this affair in motion by singling to left and moved to second when Suhr walked. Lavagetto singled through short, scoring Traynor and putting Suhr on third. Padden's single to left scored Suhr. Osborne walked, filling the bases, but Baby Waner became the victim of an easy out.

The Pirates continued to shower Stine with hits in the sixth, four more scoring. P. Waner started the hilarity with a single to left. The next two fellows were retired, but Brubaker doubled to score P. Waner. Brubaker scored on a single by Suhr. Then Lavagetto added two more by boosting the ball over the fence in center.

Herman Ends Scoring.

The only run the Sox could pick up off Hal Smith, who succeeded Osborne, came in the eighth. Successive singles by Wright, Hafey, and Hopkins turned the trick. Then Babe Herman concluded the day's scoring in the ninth by hitting his second homer for the only run allowed by Vance.

Tomorrow's program for the Sox involves a jaunt over to Wrigley field, Los Angeles, for the purpose of exhibiting themselves in company with the Hollywood Sheiks of the Coast league. Dykes intends to pitch John Rigney, Monty Stratton, and the veteran Ted Lyons. Whitlow Wyatt will be available if any of the boys need help. The Sheiks also will furnish the opposition on Thursday. After that the Sox will have only the Pirates to bother about until April 11.

Green Bay, Wis., March 19.—[Special.]—George Sauer, one of the greatest all around backs in the history of University of Nebraska football, will join the Green Bay Packers in the National Professional league next fall. Curly Lambeau, Packer coach, announced the signing of Sauer today.

Sauer, who was graduated from Nebraska last June, has been assistant backfield coach at his alma mater. Last August he led a national poll of college football players who were selected to play the Chicago Bears' professional eleven in a charity game sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE at Soldiers' field, Chicago. Although Sauer underwent an appendectomy a few weeks before the game, he recovered in time to play a few minutes and help the collegians hold the pro champions to a scoreless tie.

AUSTRALIAN NET TEAM FEARED MOST BY PERRY

Hollywood, Cal., March 19.—(AP)—Frederick Perry, world's amateur singles tennis champion, said tonight he expects England's Davis cup team to encounter more difficulty from Australia than America in the international matches this summer.

The British star made the statement as he paused between rounds of motion picture social activities to deny once more that he was contemplating turning professional in the near future.

"I have no more plans of turning professional now," said Perry, "than I had five years ago."

He declined comment on the international tennis federation's action against allowing amateur players to realize profits from tennis motion pictures. But he talked Davis cup play in a fashion that indicated he intended to help the British defend the international title.

(sig.) C. H. BOOKEDIS, Chicago, Ill.

THE big swing among leading automotive manufacturers in 1935 is toward hydraulic brakes. But of the three lowest-priced trucks, only Dodge gives them to you!

Save Money 3 Ways

Everyone knows that hydraulic brakes work quicker and smoother . . . tend to check skidding and swerving. But they do another important thing . . . they make your truck a lot more economical to run . . . and here's why—hydraulic brakes stay equalized! Braking pressure on all four wheels with Dodge perfected hydraulic brakes is always the same. This tends to distribute the wear evenly over all four tires and all four sets of brake linings, so they last much longer. Thus hydraulic brakes save you money on tires . . . save on brake relining . . . save on brake adjusting expense.

Hydraulic brakes are just one of the 18 outstanding, high-priced features Dodge gives you in trucks now priced with America's lowest. Only Dodge gives you an oil filter to save oil. Only Dodge gives you 4 piston rings to conserve power—the others give you 3 piston rings. Dodge gives you 4 main bearings to prolong engine life—the others give you 3 bearings. Dodge gives you a six-cylinder L-head engine for low-cost operation. Dodge pioneered such outstanding features as valve seat inserts to save gas and valve grinding . . . full-floating rear axle to save repair costs . . . and many more.

Ask for a "Show-Down"

Lots of truck buyers who check up on Dodge features when they go to buy a low-priced truck say, "It just doesn't belong in the lowest-priced field, but it is!" The extra value built into Dodge is surprising . . . literally amazing! See your Dodge dealer and ask for a "show-down" of this extra value . . . today!

NOVAK MAY JOIN COLLEGE FIVE FOR BATTLE FRIDAY

The possible addition of Mike Novak, 6 foot 9 inch center from Illinois Wesleyan, has increased the possibility of victory for the College All-Stars over the Olde Tymers, Central A. A. U. champions, when these teams meet Friday at St. Phillip's gym, Jackson boulevard and Kedzie avenue. Novak's height would assure control of the tipoff for the All-Stars, which include Fisher and Kawal, Northwestern's co-captains; Linsky, De Paul's leader; Colen, Loyola's leading scorer, and Milt Rosenfeld, Northwestern forward.

The Club Store Co-eds, led by Helen Smith, 6 foot 8 inch center, will meet the Frain Usherettes, with the Franklin Park Lights opening the card at 7:30 o'clock against the B. B. R. team.

SUPPORTING CARD FOR O'MAHONEY BOUT SELECTED

Dan O'Mahoney, Irish heavyweight, and Gino Garibaldi, Italian aspirant for the world title, will have a strong supporting card when they meet in the windup of the wrestling show at the Coliseum Monday night.

The card was completed yesterday when Casey Birger, Ohio heavyweight was signed to meet Jim McMillin. Other matches include Gus Sonnenberg and Joe Vargas, Olaf Olson and Darno Ostapavich, and Bobby Bruns and Johnny Hepner.

O'Mahoney will be greeted by delegates from various Irish societies and clubs when he arrives from New York tomorrow morning. It is his first trip to Chicago. Garibaldi arrived yesterday.

Considerable interest has been shown in the meeting between Sonnenberg and Joe Vargas. Sonnenberg has just completed a tour of Australia and New Zealand and is reported in fine condition. Vargas also has just finished a tour of New Zealand, Australia and South America.

a place by winning the Illinois state championship.

Although teams are coming from great distances to compete, old timers among the observers will be keeping sharp eyes on the near home quintets. Throughout the twelve years of tournament history the championship has never been very far from Chicago. The trophy went to St. Xavier of Louisville in 1926, but that is about as long a journey as the cup has taken. In most of the other seasons a Chicago or downstate team finished on top.

Fenwick will play its first tournament game against Marmion tomorrow evening. Neither De Paul nor St. Mel will open until Friday morning, the former being matched with De La Salle of Minneapolis and the latter with Reitz Memorial of Evansville, Ind. If both De Paul and St. Mel win their opening games they will meet Friday evening.

Joliet Seeks Fourth Title.

Catholic High school of Joliet, a member of the Chicago Catholic league, will be seeking its fourth championship. This school took the trophy in 1927, 1928, and 1934. St. Mel won in 1925, De La Salle in 1929 and 1930, and St. Patrick in 1932. One of the greatest threats of an invader from a remote section was made last year when St. Mary's of Stockton, Cal., went to the final round.

Two California teams are entered this season—St. Elizabeth High school of Oakland and Serra High school of Hollister.

leaders in the Kentucky Derby in May.

Letourner made his talk at a very exciting stage of the race for while he was telling his story old Reggie McNamara went on a dizzy spree and ably assisted by his teammate, Dave Lands, this combination known as the Iron Man team gained six laps within an hour and dashed from fifth place into a tie for the lead with Rodman and Ritter.

Reboli and Thomas Gain.

A few minutes later Reboli and Thomas picked up a lap, pushed Rodman and Ritter down the ladder and wheeled into a tie with the desperate riding McNamara and Lands.

Spills galore came during the riding, Carpus, Peden, Walthour and McNamara all went down at different times. Carpus was injured so severely that he wasn't able to resume riding so the team of Carpus and Seres, a German-French combine dropped out of the race. This was the first of the 14 teams to fall by the wayside.

A crowd of 10,000 watched the exciting riding last night in which 75 laps were gained. This put the total attendance up to more than 40,000 for the first three days.

Boxing Team Attends.

Almost as popular as the riders in last night's gathering was Chicago's Golden Gloves team which fights New York in this same arena on the night of March 29. The Chicago Golden Gloves warriors were introduced one after another. The crowd yelled: "Whip New York."

BELGIUM CRISIS POINTS TO END OF GOLD BASIS

Gradual Devaluation of Belga Predicted.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 19.—Resignation of the Belgium cabinet today sounded the death sentence of the belga as a gold currency, but the execution is not expected to be carried out at once.

The resignation was announced in dramatic fashion in Brussels today by Premier Georges Theunis at the opening of the chamber of deputies and was accomplished without parliamentary interference.

Before resigning Theunis assured the deputies that "efficacious and indispensable measures to safeguard the Belgium currency have been taken by the government." He insisted the nation is still on the gold standard; that "Belgium has instituted exchange control, but has not gone off gold."

Gradual Departure Seen.

However, informed international and financial circles see in the event a gradual departure from gold. While it is believed the bankers who manage political destinies of the kingdom have firmly made up their minds to devalue the belga, there is a strong technical reason to proceed gradually.

The Belgiums, unlike the French, are heavily in debt and an important section of the country's banking system is built up on mortgages. If there were brutal devaluation mortgage holders would be ruined and an epidemic of bankruptcies would likely break out.

Consequently it is planned to let the belga slide inch by inch down the greased slope. Already the internal value of the belga, measured in gold, has dropped 10 per cent, although the depreciation is not uniform. Actual devaluation, when it arrives, will merely legalize de facto depreciation.

Theunis May Head New Cabinet.

BRUSSELS, March 19.—[Special.]—The resignation here today of the cabinet of Premier Georges Theunis without parliamentary interference led political observers to believe that King Leopold will be most likely to entrust the constitution of a new government once more with Theunis. It was thought the new cabinet might exclude Emile Francqui, minister without portfolio, and that Socialists might play a more important part. Serious speculation arose as to just what will be the future of the Belgium gold standard.

Favored opinion in parliamentary lobbies was that the king might suggest a three party government which would be entrusted with the special task of restoration of confidence in the franc, development of trade, and to meet new difficulties created by Germany's armament moves.

Press for Gold Maintenance.

Right wing members of parliament met this evening and voted to press for maintenance of the Belgium franc on gold. In some quarters the possibility of dissolving parliament was discussed, allowing the ensuing campaign for new elections to decide whether to keep the franc tied to gold

An official decree, issued to prevent hoarding or speculation of gold read:

"The import or export of gold in ingots or currency is reserved to the national bank. Negotiations inside the territory of the Belgo-Luxemburg economic union of gold ingots or currency are subject to the national bank's authorization."

Predict New Difficulties.

LONDON, March 19.—(AP)—Diplomatic circles here today declared that Belgium will have difficulties in getting a new cabinet to support the gold standard and that if the nation departs officially from gold she may take other members of the gold bloc with her.

Offices of three leading American banks considered Belgium is still on the gold standard but other bankers were divided in their opinions. One expressed the opinion Belgium's position was half way—not off gold but controling the movements of gold.

The Daily Herald said, "Belgium has now joined Italy and Germany in an attempt to cling to the shadow of the gold standard by adandoning the substance."

STERLING RISES SHARPLY.

New York, March 19.—[Special.]—Big money sought safety in sterling again today as the resignation of the Belgian cabinet brought dismay to those who have pinned their faith in gold currencies and a flight of capital from the continent to England set in.

The pound, which was off 2¼ points at its New York opening, rose abruptly 3 cents within a few minutes of the announcement of the Belgian news, and closed at $4.78½, up 2⅝ cents from its close yesterday.

The belga tobogganed to 23.23, off 30 points and 17 points below the gold import point. Later, however, a slight rally ensued, with the close at 23.30 cents, down 23 points. In Belgium also the belga fell below the gold export point to Paris.

The franc opened at 6.62½ cents, but fell to 6.60¼ cents within a half hour o fthe Belgian news. It later receded to close at 6.59½ cents, off 2⅛ points.

At this level the dollar was worth $1.0058 against francs, compared with $1.0026 yesterday. The gold value of the dollar, based on the old parity of the franc, was 59.41 cents, compared with 59.21 yesterday.

Swiss francs and Dutch guilders joined in the fall of the belga and franc, with Swiss francs off 15 points at 32.37 cents and guilders down 36 points at 67.60 cents.

The price of bar gold in London advanced 3½ pence to 147 shillings 2½ pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.98.

The Federal Reserve bank of New York reported a loss through the net earmarking of gold for foreign account of $1,119,900. There were no imports or exports.

Nations Try to Disguise Devaluation

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Financial experts on both sides of the Atlantic are pretty generally agreed that the remaining "gold bloc" nations—France, Belgium, Holland, and Switzerland—sooner or later will abandon the gold standard and devalue their currencies.

Belgium already is in reality off the gold standard, having placed official restrictions on the free shipment of gold out of the country, although Belgian politicians insist the nation is still on gold. Statements by a nation's political leaders at the time that nation leaves the gold standard are invariably misleading. German and Italian statesmen still protest loudly that their currencies are on a gold basis despite the fact that they have a strict embargo on gold exports. Only a day before Great Britain departed from the gold standard in the fall of 1931 leading British authorities were explaining that their nation would never leave gold.

The question in the remaining "gold bloc" nations is not whether they will abandon gold and devalue their currencies but when they will do so. Were it not for the politicians' fear of bringing down upon themselves the wrath of the voters they would probably take the step immediately. Their dilemma is that they must try to satisfy electorates who, largely unfamiliar with financial and economic intricacies, demand the protection of a sound currency, but are unwilling to make the sacrifices implied by adherence to sound money.

The people of France, Belgium, Holland, and Switzerland still remember very vividly the great suffering caused by the post-war inflation that swept most European nations. They recall how savings of a lifetime were wiped out and how living costs soared to prodigious heights. They want no more of that kind of money arithmetic.

On the other hand, these same peoples are dissatisfied with the deflationary process they have been going through for several years, a process resulting directly from adherence to dear money in a world where most nations have adopted cheap money. They have seen their business volume dwindle as nations with depreciated currency have taken away their export trade, and they have seen their customary lucrative tourist trade pass them by because of the high cost to foreigners of buying their money.

The ordinary citizen of France, Holland, Belgium, or Switzerland, therefore, wants to have his cake and eat it, too. Some of the financial experts in those nations have come to the conclusion that it can't be done, and that if the whole world is going to debase its currency it is futile for four nations to try to stand out against the tide, but among the voters generally this is not recognized. The politician's job, therefore, seems to be to give the voter one thing and call it another.

A precedent for this sort of equivocation has already been set by Germany, Italy and other nations which pretend to be remaining on the gold standard but in reality are not. Belgium already appears to be on her way toward joining that group. Belgian authorities stoutly deny that their action in restricting gold exports means even partial departure from the gold standard, but these authorities have trifled with facts before.

A few months ago when THE TRIBUNE published an exclusive story about a $25,000,000 open commitment extended by the American federal reserve banks to Belgium to tide her over an emergency, due to a flight of capital, Belgian authorities firmly denied the story for two days until the federal reserve board in Washington admitted that the commitment had been made.

The financial community in the United States is watching closely to ascertain the financial and economic policies of the next Belgian cabinet.

The outgoing Theunis cabinet insisted on adherence to the gold standard and maintenance of the value of Belgian currency. If the new cabinet is dominated by industrial interests, who have been clamoring for a cheaper belga in order to boost their exports, devaluation of Belgian currency may follow shortly. If it represents the financial and banking groups the process will doubtless be further delayed.

Bankers here, however, firmly believe that before there can be any effective move toward international stabilization of currencies all of the remaining "gold bloc" nations will have been swept into the world-wide competition between nations for depreciated currencies.

How far that competition will go nobody presumes to guess at this time. Most of the important nations have built up tremendous debts which will probably be liquidated only by paying them off with cheaper money. It's a receivership and bankruptcy process on a national and international scale.

Meanwhile, the politicians and their economist satellites seek to glorify the process and make it seem that the painful but inevitable period of temporary adjustment is the happy dawn of a new and more prosperous era in which two times two makes six and plowing under every third pig means adding to the sum total of the nation's wealth.

New Zephyrs to Make First Run April 15

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Carrying 150 Chicago business and industrial leaders, the new twin Zephyrs of the Burlington railroad will make their first run between Chicago and the Twin Cities April 15, officials of the road announced yesterday.

Plans to make the first run an historic event were developed at a meeting in St. Paul yesterday which was attended by Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington; Albert Cotsworth Jr., passenger trafic manager; James P. Haynes, executive vice president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and officials of the St. Paul Association of Commerce and the Minneapolis Civic and Commercial association.

Make Run in Six Hours.

One of the two de luxe streamlined trains will leave Chicago at 7:30 a. m. It will be followed by the other which will leave 15 minutes later. Both trains are scheduled to streak the 431 miles between Chicago and St. Paul in six hours, which will bring the arrival of the first train at 1:30 p. m.

While the date for establishment of regular passenger service has not yet been announced, it is expected the twin Zephyrs will be placed in the Chicago-Twin City service on Easter Sunday, April 21. The schedule has not yet been determined but there are indications that times of departure and arrival will be arranged so as not to conflict with the schedules of fast trains on the North Western and the Milwaukee road beween Chicago and the Twin Cities.

Exhibit Ancient Equipment.

Mr. Budd and George W. Young, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, will be hosts to the party which will take the first ride. As a part of the ceremonies in the Twin Cities there will be an exhibition at the Minneapolis station of Northern Pacific Engine No. 1, the William Crooks, the first passenger train of the Great Northern which is resplendent in brass, old Red River carts and other items of historic interest.

Just before the departure of the trains from Chicago there will be a christening by twin sisters.

The new trains will be on exhibition in the Chicago Union station April 16, will make runs between the city and Aurora carrying visitors the next day, will be on exhibition in Minneapolis April 18 and in St. Paul April 19.

The regular run between Chicago and St. Paul is expected to be made in 6 hours 30 minutes and 7 hours to Minneapolis.

PLAN REPORT ON RECEIVERSHIPS IN REALTY HERE

Washington, D. C., March 19.—(AP)—Representative Duffey [Dem., O.], ranking member on the judiciary subcommittee which last year investigated real estate receiverships in Chicago federal courts, said today he planned to present his report to the whole committee next Tuesday.

That body, he said, might recommend at that time that no further impeachment proceedings be instituted. The three judges whose courts were investigated were Walter Lindley, James Wilkerson, and Charles O. Woodward.

Delay in making the report, Duffey said, was caused by "several delicate situations" which, he continued, he would discuss before Tuesday with Chairman Summers. None of these, he said, had to do with the Illinois Bell Telephone fee case. This, he added, had been "settled to everyone's satisfaction."

It was indicated the committee would dismiss the matter by recommending a mild resolution of censure.

N. Y. COURT SETS ASIDE STOCK DAMAGE SUIT WON BY CHICAGO FIRM

New York, March 19.—(AP)—A Supreme court jury tonight awarded Meyer, Connor & Co., a Chicago investment brokerage house, $119,500 in its $1,106,336 damage suit against the United Founders corporation and ten other defendants, but Justice Samuel Hofstadter set the verdict aside as against the weight of evidence.

The plaintif charged that fraudulent statements were made on market prices of stocks allegedly manipulated by the defendants in a conspiracy to perpetuate control over affiliated companies and to induce the public to place large sums of money in the hands of the defendants. The plaintif asserted it had suffered losses of $515,432 on stock transactions and that its business reputation had been damaged to the extend of $500,000.

Justice Hofstadter held the award was "obviously a compromise verdict. As a matter of law, the evidence does not establish a conspiracy." Co-defendants were the American Founders corporations, the Founders General corporation, Allied General corporation, Louis N. Segrave, D. Foster Coombs, Frank B. Erwin, E. Stanley Glines, Dean J. Alny, Thomas H. Benton and Chase Donaldson.

EDISON REPORTS GAIN IN INCOME OVER LAST YEAR

Both gross revenues and net income of the Commonwealth Edison company continued to show gains during February as compared with a year ago. Gross for the month was $6,725,309, compared with $6,391,894 in February, 1934. Net after all charges was $982,891, compared with $803,170.

For the first two months of the year gross revenues were $13,814,357, against $13,271,114 during the same period of 1934, while the net was $2,146,855, compared with $1,839,552.

An unusually low percentage of sunshine was a favorable influence on this February's figures, the company report last night said. All 1934 figures given are after various adjustments, including the 2 per cent retailers' occupational tax from which utility companies had not been exempted at that time. The 1935 figures are based on best available information but are subject to a final audit.

PLANT WORKERS ASK CITY TO OUST UNION ORGANIZER

Kankakee, Ill., March 19.—(AP)—A delegation of workers from the Bear Brand Hosiery company went before the city council last night to ask an ordinance which would oust a union organizer from the city. The council delayed a showdown on the request by asking the delegation to determine if the proposed ordinance would be constitutional.

The suggested ordinance would restrict persons from soliciting the workers of an industry to join an organization to which two-thirds of the workers have pledged themselves as being opposed.

The hosiery firm employs 1,700 persons and has a monthly pay roll of $128,000.

The organizer against whom the proposal presumably was directed was Carl Linker of Fort Wayne, Ind., representing a hosiery workers' union.

Ford to Spend 3 Million on Glass Plant

Detroit, Mich., March 19.—[Special.]—It was announced today that glass manufacturing facilities costing $3,000,000 will be added to the equipment of the Ford Motor company's River Rouge plant, and will bring the total cost of the Ford organization's current expansion program to $23,000,000.

It is planned to have the glass plant in production by next winter. Although Henry Ford was the originator of the "continuous" process of glass manufacture now general throughout the automobile industry, no glass has been made at the River Rouge plant for three years.

Original "continuous" process machinery is being removed to make way for the new equipment. When the glass plant goes into production, approximately 1,000 workers will be added to the Ford pay roll. These will join 1,400 workers employed in laminating safety glass, using glass supplied by outside manufacturers.

The new glass unit will consist of two 600 foot lines, including melting and annealing furnaces and grinding machines. The output every 24 hours will be 150,000 square feet, which will pour from two 75 ton melting furnaces in molten ribbons 90 inches wide.

Other items of the big expansion program include a hot strip steel rolling mill, a cold sheet steel finishing mill, modernization of the power plant, installation of new foundry equipment, modernization of the blast furnaces and installation of other production items. These will increase the River Rouge plant's capacity output to 5,000 cars in a sixteen hour day.

NORTHERN TRUST VOTES DIVIDEND OF $4.50 A SHARE

The Northern Trust company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of $4.50 a share, payable April 1.

The Newmont Mining company yesterday declared a dividend of 50 cents a share. Directors announced the disbursement was to be made out of earned surplus and is not to be considered as placing the stock on a regular dividend basis. Similar payments were made on April 30 and Oct. 31, 1934.

The American Brake Shoe company declared an extra dividend of 5 cents in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 20 cents a share on the common stock, both payable March 30.

COVERING LIFTS STOCK VALUES; GAINS GENERAL

Best Showing Made by Utility Group.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 19.—Stocks rallied from fractions to a point in a lean market today. Light covering took place in nearly all sections of the list and accounted for the major part of the improvement. Well liquidated groups such as utilities made the best showing.

Such trade news which appeared was of little importance. Traders showed little concern over the latest dispatches from Europe featuring the resignation of the Belgian cabinet, the precarious position of European currencies and Germany's military activities. Commission house gossip said that while war appears inevitable, it is not likely to break in the immediate future. Brokers thought market movements were governed almost entirely by internal influences.

Rail Shares Stronger.

Railroad shares were bolstered to some degree by predictions of favorable pending developments on freight rates and the pension act. Followers of these shares have been looking forward for some time to a favorable decision on the roads' petition for a freight increase and the passing of the weeks without bringing fulfilment of their hopes does not seem to discourage the belief that the ruling, when it does come, will contain at least some measure of relief. Union Pacific gained a point but the improvement elsewhere was mainly fractional.

The continued good market for raw sugar aided refinery shares. Higher prices were paid for American Sugar, Great Western, Guantanamo, Cuban-American and South Porto Rican. Advances ranged up to a point in some of the more active issues of the group.

Public utilities were heartened by a moderate display of strength in American Telephone which advanced nearly 2 points.

Cotton Rise Aids Farm Shares.

Recovery of cotton was given credit for the improvement of the farm implement sector. Case common rose $1 a share and the preferred stock almost twice as much. International Harvester and Deere also gained a point or so each. Mail order stocks followed suit as usual. Sears Roebuck advanced nearly a point for the day.

Gold and silver shares perked a little. Homestake rose $6 a share on one of its infrequent sales. U. S. Smelting advanced a couple of points and Cerro de Pasco, American Smelting, Howe Sound, and McIntyre rose about half as much.

The oils were steady with Texas corporation bucking up mildly after early weakness. Steel shares, which have been droopy for the past week, trailed along with the procession.

$3,670,672 LOSS SHOWN BY JONES LAUGHLIN STEEL

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 19.—(AP)—The $183,000,000 Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation, fourth largest of its industry in the United States, today reported a net loss of $3,670,672 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1934, after deducting all expenses, interest and reserves for depreciation and depletion.

The 85 year old concern, regarded as the oldest of the large steel companies in this country, reported a net loss in the preceding year of $5,366,997. Fourth quarter operations showed a loss of $806,000, compared with a $1,826,000 deficit for the third period, and a net loss of $626,000 in the final three months of 1933.

Higher Living Cost Foreseen by Crop Expert

The cost of living is rising and the first murmuring of resentment now heard from the consuming public marks only the beginning of the complaints that will be heard in the future. This warning was given last night by Nat C. Murray, one of the country's leading crop statisticians, who spoke before the Chicago chapter of the American Statistical association at the Auditorium hotel.

NAT C. MURRAY.
[Blank-Stoller Photo]

Responsibility for the rising prices, in part, can be laid at the door of the department of agriculture, which has adopted a philosophy of scarcity as a means of helping the farmer, according to Murray. Full effects of the sharp curtailment in production of feed crops in 1934 has not yet been reflected in meat prices and will continue to be an influence on the market for a long time to come, he said.

Tells of Lag in Consumption.

"There is a longer lag between production and ultimate consumption of feeds than of food crops," he said. "Fruits and vegetables which you eat today were produced largely during the current season; but the meat you eat today results from feeds produced two, three or more years ago. To adjust the live stock supply to the reduced feed supply, farmers have had to sell off their surplus live stock products, thus increasing the food supply for the time being. Live stock inventories have been reduced on account of feed shortage, which means a shortage of marketed live stock products for some time in the future."

Corn production in 1934, Murray said, was the smallest on record on a per capita basis. This reduction, he added, was due mostly to drouth but partly to the government crop reduction program.

After asserting that the AAA program was based on the principle of scarcity, Murray said he believed that Secretary Wallace actually looked upon such a principle with repugnance.

Belief Contrary to Policy.

He quoted Wallace as saying that farmers usually get more money for a small crop than a large one, but successive small crops bring business depression which react to the farmers' disadvantage.

"The problem of business men and farmers is to devise some means of giving farmers a class A financial interest in producing big crops," Murray quoted Wallace as stating. This philosophy is directly contrary to the AAA program, Murray added.

The farm price parity at which the AAA aims, the average for the five pre-war years, is higher than any decade prior to that period in the country's history, Murray said.

Because of the existing scarcity there is little question that complaints from consumers will continue to multiply, Murray told his listeners.

DES PLAINES BANK TO REPAY 5 PCT. ON DEPOSITS

Payment of another 5 per cent to depositors of the Des Plaines State bank, bringing the total return to 35 per cent since the institution closed, was authorized yesterday by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett.

Checks will be given out today amounting to $49,500. Funds were obtained through ordinary liquidation. Receiver William L. O'Connell said that preferred claims of $102,760 and bills payable of $40,000 have been wiped out.

WARD FISCAL YEAR PROFITS RISE 300 PCT.

Sales Near Record High of 1929.

Profits of Montgomery Ward & Co. in the 12 months ended Jan. 31 were four times as great as in the preceding fiscal year, President Sewell L. Avery disclosed in his annual report to stockholders last night.

Net earnings amounted to $9,161,054, compared with $2,227,957 the preceding year. After provision for current dividends on class A stock, earnings on common were equal to $1.72 a share, against 18 cents a share for the 1933-'34 period. Sales of $249,805,731 were next to the 1929 mark of $267,325,503—highest in the company's history.

"The current trend of business, as reflected during February, shows a continued sales increase, but also a highly competitive price condition," Avery warned.

Lower Profit Indicated.

"This, with the increasing tax burden, indicates a lower net profit for the first half of the coming year."

Taxes showed a staggering increase of 2,000 per cent last year, compared with a 33 per cent sales rise and a quadrupling of net. The 1933-'34 provision for taxes was only $100,000, compared with $2,000,000 last year, although part of the enormous jump is accounted for by larger sales and the difference between profits for income tax purposes and for the books. In the 1933-'34 period, the company was emerging from an unprofitable era and was able to take some of its old losses, a condition not present last year.

The cost of goods sold last year increased from $182,005,303 to $235,741,378. Depreciation and amortization charges were approximately the same in the two years.

Operating Profit Soars.

Operating profit after deducting these items from sales was $10,807,636, compared with $2,660,799 the previous year. Other income added $1,405,230, against $610,910, while security and real estate losses and inventory reserve took $1,051,812, compared with $1,043,752. This left a profit of $11,161,054 before taxes and net of $9,161,054. Provision for taxes was included in cost of goods sold and other expenses the preceding year, when net was $2,227,957.

Surplus increased from $9,640,642 to $16,374,449 during the year. The increase was less than net profit by $2,427,247—accounted for by payment of $2,116,317, or $10.50 a share, on class A stock to reduce arrears to $3.50, and by $310,930 which was the difference between the amount at which treasury stock was carried on the books and price [$11 a share] at which Avery took up his option to buy 50,000 shares.

Current Position Improves.

Current assets of $99,597,400 included $23,999,614 cash. Current liabilities were only $13,881,251. This is a ratio of 7.17 to 1, showing working capital of $85,716,889, or $7,240,510 more than twelve months previously. A year earlier current assets were $88,644,391, against current liabilities of $10,169,212.

First mortgage notes and investments have been reduced $1,753,000 largely through taking Home Owners Loan corporation bonds which have been converted into cash in most cases. Expenditures for plant additions, principally in the retail division, were $3,877,500. The program of rehabilitating operating properties, begun in 1932, is approximately half completed, Avery said.

A larger volume of credit business was caused in part by extension of the company's time payment sales plan to its full line of merchandise, Avery said.

SEC HEAD GIBES AT N. Y. BANKERS' GLOOM AND FEAR

Kennedy Warns Business Is Being Held Back.

New York, March 19.—[Special.]—Joseph P. Kennedy today chaffed an assemblage of Wall street's leading bankers, brokers and other financial master minds as representatives of a New York filled with gloom and fear, who have been holding business back largely because of misapprehension and lack of aggressive leadership. He assailed this state of mind as unreasonable, adding that his first hand knowledge of conditions led him to suspect that the despairing are substituting "guesswork for fact and emotion for reason."

Recent security registrations by Swift & Co. and by the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. of two issues totaling $85,000,000 "are harbingers of a real upward trend," he declared. "We expect some sizable financing will follow."

Assures Proper Profits.

The audience of the chairman of the SEC included men whose organizations will be needed to underwrite and distribute the offerings.

Turning to the rôle of the commission, Kennedy said "there is not the slightest thought of elimination or restricting proper profits, and I for one have no patience with the view that every man who has a dollar or wants to make one is a public enemy."

Kennedy renewed pledges that the SEC would not brook dishonest promotions or fraudulent transactions. He called attention to scheme proposed to exploit potash by a promoter who reminded him of "the man on the flying trapeze." He attacked methods of reorganization used in the past. The reorganization system, he said, "has grown up unregulated and uncontroled for the most part" and has been subjected to vicious forms of racketeering.

Exchange to Change Management.

Later in the day Mr. Kennedy said the SEC and the New York Stock exchange have agreed upon a program for reorganization of the management of the exchange along lines suggested by the former. This, he said, will be formally announced with details in a few days. Among provisions of the program is that the nominating committee shall not be able to name its successor.

Mr. Kennedy said the commission will probably complete its task of registering all listed securities by July 1. Replies are still coming in, he said, to the request for suggestions on rules for floor trading, and the final draft of these regulations cannot be completed for several weeks. The chairman said he did not believe that there will be any radical changes in the rules as recently suggested to exchanges and brokers, and that complete segregation of specialists' activities will not be asked at this time.

With respect to over the counter markets, Mr. Kennedy said that, as in the case of the first steps taken in regulation of the exchanges, assumption of control "shall be gradual so that needless friction and annoyance may be avoided.

ORDER HEARING ON ASSOCIATED TELEPHONE PLAN

A hearing on confirmation of the proposed plan for reorganization of Associated Telephone Utilities company will be held May 9 in United States District court in New York, R. G. Page, chairman of the reorganization committee, announced yesterday.

The plan, providing for a new company to be known as the General Telephone corporation, has been accepted by more than two-thirds of each class of creditors and a majority of each stockholder group, Mr. Page said. The new company will acquire all assets of the present concern except certain preferred stocks securing present 6 per cent notes, and a block of new common. Both are to be acquired by a new subsidiary, the General Telephone Allied corporation. Holders of the secured notes will receive $6 preferred in the allied company, which is convertible into 2.13 shares of common in the parent.

General Telephone would begin with no funded debts and restrictions on its creation in the future. Debenture holders and other general creditors take common stock in the new company, under the plan, and both preferred and common stockholders receive warrants to purchase new common up to Nov. 1, 1948 under terms of the proposed plan. A limited amount of preferred may be issued in addition to 60 day purchase rights for present preferred stockholders.

R. R. Cooley Joins Bond Division of Shields & Co.

Richard R. Cooley has resigned from Field, Glore & Co. and has become associated with Shields & Co. in the bond trading department, it was announced yesterday.

LARD UP 15 TO 17½ CENTS AS COMMISSION HOUSES BUY

Rumors were current yesterday that there had been liquidation of holdings of lard futures by foreigners, presumably on the monetary developments on the continent. While the reports lack confirmation, the market opened slightly easier despite the strength in cottonseed oil. Later commission house buying developed, regarded as short covering, and prices moved up readily, with lard finishing at net gains of 15 to 17½ cents, while bellies were 15 to 20 cents higher.

There was no improvement indicated in the cash demand, with cash, loose, and leaf lard quoted at $12.87 and bellies at $16.50 per 100 pounds. Prices follow:

BUTTER UP ⅛ TO ¼ CENT; EGGS STEADY TO HIGHER

A firmer undertone developed in butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday due to the better character of the news from abroad and less uneasiness on the part of the trade in general. Butter closed with net gains of ⅛ to ¼ cents per pound while eggs were unchanged to ⅜ cents per dozen higher, the latter on the October delivery.

There was little change in the character of news with the into storage movement of eggs exceeding that of the corresponding period a year ago by 5,000 cases.

Sales of butter were 61 cars, and eggs 77 cars, with 1 car of butter and 3 cars of eggs delivered on March contracts. Prices follow:

NEW YORK, March 19.—(AP)—Print cloths prices were back to the low point of the year today. Agents were doing a moderate amount of business on domestics. Figures issued by the Rayon Weavers' association showed that weavers used 127,658,240 pounds of rayon and acetate fibers in 1934 of which 22.3 per cent were used by the silk industry and 77.7 per cent by the mills under the cotton code. Rayon yarn sales continued light for April-May delivery. Wool goods were firm with trading moderate on fall suitings.

ECCLES ASSAILS TAX BOOST AS RECOVERY CURB

Terms Present Inflation Imaginary.

Washington, D. C., March 19.—[Special.]—Any substantial increase in taxes now would bring into the treasury money that could be better employed in private spending, Marriner S. Eccles, governor of the federal reserve board, told the house banking and currency committee today in testimony on the proposed banking act of 1935. It was his tenth day on the witness stand.

Representative Goldsborough [Dem., Mo.] sought to bring from Eccles a declaration in favor of some system of currency issued directly by the government without being supported by interest bearing government securities. Goldsborough said the "fear of so-called inflation makes it difficult to improve our monetary system."

"That depends on the distribution of that money and the willingness of people to put it into circulation," Eccles replied. "All this inflation talk we have heard for three years is imaginary.

Terms Use of Credit Vital.

"It is true that, based on excess reserves, there is the possibility of building a tremendous credit inflation. That doesn't mean you are going to get that inflation. You must get people willing to use the banks' credit.

"Unless the people in this country without money and without jobs are put into possession of money through jobs, unless the people and corporations with money will spend the money they have, inflation cannot be gotten by merely changing the gold content or by silver exchange."

The reserve board governor said that the only way out of the depression was through a process of budgetary deficit until private credit expanded. The time to increase income taxes, he held, was when incomes were such that they would yield a substantial revenue.

Views Startle Committee.

For nearly two weeks Eccles has appeared almost daily before the house group to expound views that have startled some of the orthodox economists on the committee. A survey today showed that while all have been impressed by his testimony, many members seemed uncertain about the measure he advocates, which would give the treasury further control over the banking and monetary system.

Many committee members agree on one thing, that the bill is in for a good many changes and some rather rough legislative sledding before it can pass.

Opposition was expressed for the first time today to the deposit insurance section. Representative Dirksen [Rep., Ill.], said he favored a plan whereby state banks could continue in the insurance system without having to join the federal reserve.

WASTE DEALERS MEETING HINTS SCRAPPING CODE

Possibility that members of the National Association of Waste Material Dealers may withdraw from the code under the NRA was expressed yesterday at the second session of the organization's annual meeting at the Hotel Sherman.

George Birkenstein of Chicago, retiring president, said so many in the industry are not complying with the code it is impossible for the rest to support it and at the same time carry on business on a profitable basis.

"Those who have been abiding by the code have been forced to take losses," Birkenstein said. "We are forced to let our consumers regulate our prices, while at the same time we conform to rules providing minimum wages and maximum hours."

Birkenstein said the waste dealers object to the high expense of the code authority, which has 81 members and requires an assessment of $250,000 annually. This, however, has not been collected.

The Secondary Metal institute, which is meeting coincidently with the main association, passed a resolution yesterday opposing a bill now before the senate which is designed to halt exports of scrap metal alloys containing tin.

NEW YORK PORT OFFERING BONDS TO REFUND DEBT

Competitive bids on $34,300,000 of general and refunding bonds will be received by the Port of New York authority next Monday, the commissioners announced yesterday. The total issue will involve 52½ million dollars of new financing. It was stated the port authority reserves the right to sell not to exceed 22 milion dollars in bonds for cash rather than the $34,300,000 amount.

The commissioners explained this financing is the first actual step in carrying out the port authority's policy of consolidating its outstanding funded debt of 152 million dollars into a single type of bond. The plan will simplify the port authority's financial structure and result in substantial interest saving, it was said.

The initial issue of 52½ million dollars will be described as "The Port of New York Authority General and Refunding Bonds, First Series, 4 Per Cent, due 1975." They will be dated March 1, 1935, and will mature March 1, 1975.

C. L. Suhr Quits Pennzoil Presidency; Made Chairman

OIL MONOPOLY LAW OF MANCHUKUO TO BE EFFECTIVE APRIL 1

HSINKING, Manchukuo, March 19.—(AP)—The Manchukuoan government announced today that its oil monopoly law will go into force April 1. The law limits commerce in petroleum and petroleum products in Manchukuo to a company controled by Japanese capital, thereby shutting out American, British, and Dutch operators.

The announcement found American and British protests to Japan still unanswered today, although they were delivered nearly four months ago. It is said the Japanese government considers the Manchukuoan monopoly an experiment and its results will be watched with a view to extension of the system to the Japanese empire.

MOVE STIRS OIL MEN.

New York, March 19.—(AP)—The tiny Manchukuoan petroleum trade, which that government announced today it intends to monopolize April 1, has resumed the importance of an international incident in the eyes of New York oil interests. Total volume of trade is about 455,000 barrels annually, it is estimated here. No single nation has a large monetary stake, but the oil men see the situation as another step in what they believe may be the ultimate exclusion of all foreign trade interests from Manchukuo. The oil monopoly law was characterized a "test case of foreign rights in the orient" by one authority.

U. S. ATTORNEYS SPLIT OVER END OF IMPORT SUIT

The first group of forty suits, brought by the government against the United States Fidelity and Guarantee company to collect bonds in the total of $171,000, covering tarif on a protested importation of bakelite, were dismissed yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson on recommendation of Attorney General Cummings. It developed during the hearing that the government had settled the suits for $25,000 over the objections of the local district attorney's office.

It is expected that when the other cases are called in the next few days before other district judges they will be disposed of in the same manner, ending litigation that has hung fire in the courts since 1925.

The motion to dismiss was made by Assistant United States Attorney Lawrence Marino, acting on authority of the attorney general. That the motion was made over the objection of the local office was indicated by Marino. Local officials opposed the compromise, believing that the full amount could be collected.

"I am presenting this motion to dismiss irrespective of the personal feelings of myself and of the district attorney," he said. "The attorney general is my overlord and master, and I am doing his bidding."

"Well," Judge Wilkerson commented, "if the attorney general wants to dismiss these suits and accept this settlement it is his responsibility."

SEEK 500 MILLION FEDERAL FUND TO AID REAL ESTATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 19.—[Special.]—A bill creating a 500 million dollar federal credit corporation to make loans for the refinancing of mortgaged real estate properties was introduced in the house of representatives today by Representative Everett M. Dirksen [Rep., Ill.].

The legislation, according to Dirksen, is designed to correct some of the evils uncovered in the congressional investigation of bondholders' protective associations by the committee of which Representative A. J. Sabath, [Dem., Ill.], is chairman. The minimum loan to a corporation would be $50,000, but a provision was also included that the loan can not be more than 60 per cent of the value of the property.

"This will prohibit expensive receiverships with exorbitant fees," said Dirksen, "and prevent the complete destruction of real estate as well as security values which resulted from dumping so many fine properties on the market, either through legitimate or dummy sales."

The new corporation, under the terms of the bill, would be an independent body of five directors appointed by the President.

STEEL MERGER HEARING HINGES ON COMPETITION

Cleveland, O., March 19.—(AP)—Government attorneys, attempting to show the proposed 330 million dollar merger of the Republic Steel corporation and the Corrigan, McKinney Steel corporation would eliminate competition, questioned steel buyers today.

The government summoned the buyers as witnesses to support its contention the proposed merger should be enjoined because it would create a monopoly in violation of the Clayton anti-trust act. Under cross-examination, several of the government's witnesses testified general competition in the steel industry is keen. The defense is contending the merger would be an advantage, rather than a detriment to the public, by making cheaper production and lower prices possible.

L. F. Delarge, purchasing agent for the Eaton Manufacturing company, cross-examined by attorneys for the defense, said service plays a large factor in the placing of orders. He testified he had been solicited by representatives of various companies, but found no advantage in price differentials because of the NRA code.

REFUTE MERGER OF CUNEO PRESS, HALL PRINTING

Reports in the financial district yesterday that consolidation of the Cuneo Press, Inc., and the W. F. Hall Printing company, two of the nation's largest printing concerns, is under consideration were denied by officials of both concerns. According to the report, John F. Cuneo, president of the company bearing his name, has purchased a substantial stock interest in the Hall company.

Mr. Cuneo commenting on the report said: "There is nothing to it. There are no plans for the consolidation of the two companies. I have troubles enough in running this company."

U. S. SELLS MORE TO CONTINENTS EXCEPT EUROPE

Both Exports and Imports Above January, 1934.

Washington, D. C., March 19.—[Special.]—Exports to all foreign grand divisions, except Europe, increased sharply in January over a year ago, a commerce department survey disclosed today. Exports to Europe declined $11,496,000 in value.

Imports showed gains in every grand division. The total value of January exports was $176,222,913, as compared with $172,220,036 in 1934, while imports totaled $167,005,770, against $135,705,758 the previous January.

Trade with Chief Countries.

By principal countries, Canada, Cuba, Japan, and the United Kingdom showed the largest increase as markets for our exports, while France and Germany dropped sharply as buyers.

Our imports from the Philippine Islands more than doubled and those from the United Kingdom increased sharply. In other principal countries the increase was slower and more gradual.

CHARGE UTILITY BILL WILL CAUSE HEAVY LOSSES

Washington, D. C., March 19.—(AP)—John E. Zimmerman, president of the United Gas Improvement company of Philadelphia, testified today the Wheeler-Rayburn utilities bill "would destroy the permanency in industry of U. G. I." and result in the loss of savings to more than 121,000 stockholders throughout the country.

Appearing before the house interstate commerce commission in opposition to the measure looking toward the elimination of public utilities holding companies, Zimmerman denied U. G. I. was guilty of any of the alleged abuses listed in the bill except the charge of wide distribution of securities. Zimmerman listed among stockholders he said would be affected adversely by the bill 48,000 women, 61 charitable organizations, 42 hospitals, 69 educational institutions, 17 fraternal groups, 37 churches, 57 church societies, and 36 other neighborhood groups.

William Chamberlain, chairman of the United Light and Power company of Chicago, insisted to the committee that "the holding company remains an essential—a basic—economic factor in the continued development of the light and power industry," and "that passage of this bill will retard further development of that industry and bring ruin to millions of investors cannot be doubted."

CHICAGO BATTERY COMPANY OFFERS LABOR DEFENSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 19.—[Special.]—The National Battery company, Chicago, today defended itself before the national labor relations board against the charge of the American Federation of Labor that the company had violated section 7A of the NIRA.

The labor board, however, refused the company's plea that it had not had sufficient warning of the December 17 meeting of the Chicago regional labor board and had not been able to present a full defense. The board, therefore, confined today's hearing to the record of the December 17 proceedings in Chicago, refusing the company an opportunity to enlarge its case.

The Electrical Storage and Wet Battery Workers' union, local No. 18633, has charged that the company refused to bargain collectively with it, has attempted to form a company union, and discriminated against union members. The Chicago board upheld the union, which is a branch of the American Federation of Labor.

The company was represented at today's hearing by Clarence Runals, counsel; C. R. Backman, assistant secretary, and H. J. McKay, assistant to the vice president. Charlton Ogburn, general counsel of the A. F. of L. represented the union. The labor board took the case under advisement.

PARK, SANITARY DISTRICTS TO PAY ON SECURITIES

A 10 per cent principal payment on defaulted Sanitary district bonds which matured from July 1, 1932, to June 1, 1933, will be made Monday at the First National bank, it was announced yesterday by Ross A. Woodhull, president of the board of trustees of the district. The payment, amounting to $725,500, wil be from 1931 tax collections.

The Chicago Park district issued a call yesterday for $3,141.25 in former park district tax warants, with accrued interest, to be redeemed Monday at the First National bank. The call includes Irving Park, numbers 1 to 44 and 65 and 66; Jefferson park, 1 to 6; Old Portage park, C1 to C355; Ridge avenue Park, C1 to C146, and Ridge park, 2 to 16. Payments of 765.71 each were authorized on Northwest park tax anticipation bond and interest warants numbered 4, 5, 17, 18, 19, 21, 17 and 22.

The commissioners authorized the accounting department to borrow $356,000 from the Lake Front extension fund to pay principal and interest on South Park Commissioners' bonds coming due in April.

Union Pacific Revenues Rise But Costs Advance Faster

While gross earnings of the Union Pacific railroad increased during February above a year ago, net operating income declined to the lowest levels in two years through increased expenses arising from higher wages and advanced material costs, the company announced yesterday.

Net operating income for the month was $456,113, against $863,390 a year ago. This was the lowest for any month since January and February, 1933, when the company reported net operating income of $176,701 for the former month and net operating loss of $79,498 for the latter month.

Gross Revenues Increase.

Gross revenues for February were $8,281,111, an increase of $216,097 over the corresponding month of last year. For the first two months of 1935 net operating income amounted to $1,095,414, or $703,060 below a year ago.

Freight trafic last week showed a moderate gain over the preceding week but a decline from the corresponding week of 1934, according to reports received so far. The total for the week is estimated at approximately 600,000 cars by Dow, Jones & Co., compared with 587,270 in the preceding week and 625,773 in the corresponding period of last year.

Mr. Gordon has disposed of almost 1,000 claims since the hearings opened last Nov. 20.

INTRODUCE MEASURE ALLOWING TVA SALES OF ELECTRIC POWER

Washington, D. C., March 19.—(AP)—Fortification of the Tennessee Valley authority power program against future interference by court injunctions and broad general expansion of the authority's latitude in acquiring electrical facilities were proposed today in a bill introduced by Chairman McSwain [Dem., S. C.]. The measure sought by amendment of the TVA act to give the authority specific power to sell electricity.

Federal Judge Grubb ruled at Birmingham, Ala., that TVA was without such authority, thereby beclouding one of the major elements of President Roosevelt's national power program until a high court decision clears up the question.

The McSwain bill, offered after a conference of the TVA board here, would make clear and definite the ability of the authority to engage in the business of selling electricity. The authority would be authorized, with approval of the secretary of the treasury, to issue bonds up to $100,000,000 to finance acquisition of such property. The bonds would be guaranteed in principal and interest by the treasury.

It still holds true, Uncle Sam

"SINCE the pioneer public utility acts of New York and Wisconsin were enacted two decades ago, a new figure, the holding and management company, has come upon the field, demonstrated its prowess, and in a relatively few years changed the entire economic nature of the public utility industry. Isolated plants have given way to great systems whose lines span several States and serve hundreds of communities, all operated under unified managerial and financial supervision.

"The spread of rural electrification, the amazing advances in telephony, the rise of superpower systems—these and many other technological developments so intimately related to the public welfare are directly attributable to the efforts of the holding company.

"Perhaps most important of all, to the holding company must go the credit for the unprecedented flow of capital into the public utility industry, making possible extensions and improvements of service."

Quoted from "The Regulation of Public Utility Holding Companies"—Columbia Law Review, April 1929—by David E. Lilienthal, formerly Commission of the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin, now Director and General Counsel of Tennessee Valley Authority, and member of the President's National Power Policy Committee.

New York, March 19.—[Special.]—Coincident with the weakness in Belgian exchange, bonds of that nation broke sharply today. It was the second consecutive day of heavy pressure on this section of the market.

Declines in the Belgian issues ran as high as 6⅞ points, the largest loss being that of the 7s of 1955, which closed at 107⅛. The 7s of 1956 were off 5⅝ points to 99⅜.

In striking contrast with the weakness of Belgian issues was the rather smart recovery in many German issues, headed by the government's own obligations. The German 7s were up 2¼ points and the 5½s rose 1½ points.

Transfers aggregated $10,649,000, par value, compared with $9,571,000 the day before.

U. S. Governments Weaken.

The increase in treasury bond trading was largely at the expense of prices and losses of 2-32 to 9-32 were in the majority at the close. The called Fourth Liberty 4¼s were at a new low of less than ½ point premium, which should approximate the value of the new 2⅞s if they had an official market.

Subscription books on the current exchange offer will remain open for eight days more, and if the trend continues as it has since the books were first opened, the incentive for converting may disappear, leaving bondholders an obvious preference for cash.

Corporation Issues Irregular.

Dealings in domestic corporation bonds were light and price changes for the most part were limited to fractions. With talk of refunding deals the main topic in bond circles, the restraint on callable issues of high grade was apparent.

The railroad group was mixed. New Haven collateral 6s dipped ¾ point and Reading 4½s were about that much higher. Industrial issues showing slight improvement included Chile Copper 5s, U. S. Rubber 5s, and Penn Dixie Cement 6s. Bethlehem Steel 5s were a point lower.

Canada Dry Ginger Ale.

Investors' Guide: Would appreciate any information you might send me on Canada Dry.—P. E. C.

Answer: Although Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc., has in recent years expanded its line of products, ginger ale still remains its most important item.

The company obtained exclusive sales rights for several well known foreign whiskies and wines; it distributes under its own name gin manufactured by Fleischmann Distilling corporation, and has a contract to sell certain burbon and rye blends manufactured by Penn-Maryland, Inc. It is also represented in the beer field.

During 1934 the import business was operated profitably, but the sale of domestic whisky was unprofitable.

Operations of the beer division are reported to be satisfactory.

For the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1934, net income was $36,000, or 7 cents a share, against net of $48,000, or 31 cents a share, for the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1933.

During 1934 volume of ginger ale sold increased, but lower prices, the result of competition, cut into dollar sales. The company reported net income of $440,000, or 86 cents a share, for the year ended Sept. 30, 1934, against net income of $457,000, or 89 cents a share, for the preceding year. Net income for the year ended Sept. 30, 1932, was $424,000, against $1,686,000 for Sept. 30, 1931, year.

Current assets on Sept. 30, 1934, totaled $3,976,000, and current liabilities were $815,000. Notes payable to banks of $200,000 were for credit to finance purchases of whisky.

Capitalization consists solely of 512,531 shares of $5 par stock on which dividends of 25 cents a quarter are currently being paid.

Pillsbury Flour Mills.

Investors' Guide: Would appreciate information on Pillsbury F. M. 6s, of '43.—G. R. E.

Answer: The $5,729,000 Pillsbury Flour Mills company first mortgage 6s, due Oct. 1, 1943, are secured by a first mortgage on all fixed assets, and by pledge of capital stock of constituent companies of the issuer.

The issuer does not publish financial statements, but Pillsbury Flour Mills, Inc., whose major asset is stock of Pillsbury Flour Mills company, does.

Fixed charges of Pillsbury Flour Mills, Inc., have been covered by wide margins for a long period. In the year ended May 31, 1934, they were earned 3.94 times, against 3.55 times for the preceding eleven months. Current position on May 31, 1934, was strong.

The bonds are callable at 104½, the call price decreasing one-half point each year from next October. They are sound.

COURT'S RULING MAY SPUR REALTY REORGANIZATION

Deny Appeal on Dilatory or Legal Grounds.

BY AL CHASE.

Reorganization of real estate properties under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy act may be speeded up as a result of an opinion issued yesterday by Presiding Judge Evan A. Evans of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. Judge Evans ruled that no appeals will be entertained by the Appellate court from decisions involving the reorganization of real estate properties on purely legal or dilatory grounds.

In the specific case involved Judge Evans denied the right of appeal from a ruling of Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley for the turning over of the 1030 North Dearborn apartment building to a trustee in bankruptcy pending reorganization.

Argues for Trustee Operation.

Attorney Michael Gesas, counsel for the trustee, argued that the property, erected at a cost of approximately $1,000,000, should be administered by the trustee pending reorganization upon petition of three bondholders. There is a first mortgage bond issue of $750,000 against the property.

Counsel for the Stein Hotel company contended the original corporation, the 1030 North Dearborn Building corporation, had deeded the building to the Stein Hotel company and that the federal court had no jurisdiction to take possession.

Later it developed that M. Stein was president of both the hotel company and the building corporation.

Court Questions Transfer.

Judge Evans' opinion, upholding Judge Lindley in denying an application for appeal, commented on certain transactions in the state court in which the 1030 North Dearborn Building corporation was permitted to continue in operation of the property on the theory that it could do a better job than a receiver.

"It seems to me that I must look further into the proceedings whereby the state court was misled into turning the possession of the property over to the debtor from which it was wrested by another corporation," his opinion reads. "Whether fraud, perjury, or subornation of perjury occurred needs investigation."

GRAINS RECOVER MODERATELY AS SELLING HALTS

Fractional Gains Shown in All Cereals.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The pressure of insistent selling which has been forcing down grain prices for nearly a week lifted long enough yesterday to effect a moderate rally in values on the Chicago Board of Trade. The gains chalked up amounted to less than a cent a bushel, but the advance was uniform in all grains.

The buying that came into the market was credited to professional traders. The consistent weakness of the market over the last several days was believed to have influenced traders to cover short sales made earlier. The volume of trading was not heavy. As far as the broad outlook for the market is concerned, there appears to be no important change in the picture.

Rally in Cotton Aids Grains.

The upturn in cotton prices, the action of the securities market, and the additional reports of damage to the wheat crop in the southwest were regarded as influences in the market. The action of foreign grain prices contributed support to the market here. In Winnipeg wheat was bid up about a quarter cent a bushel and the Liverpool market closed unchanged to ⅜ cent a bushel above Monday's final quotations.

The influence of international monetary confusion and the war potentialities of the European political situation are not readily traceable in the market here, but these factors contribute to the general uncertainty of the speculative mind.

Closing prices on wheat futures represented advances of ⅛ to ⅝ cent a bushel over Monday's quotations. The advance in corn deliveries also extended to ⅝ cent a bushel in the principal contracts with the September future showing no change in price.

Closing Prices on May Futures.

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Wk. Ago.
Wheat	$ .91¾	$ .91⅛	$ .93¼
Corn	.77⅞	.76¾	.79¼
Oats	.42⅞	.42⅝	.47
Rye	.54⅛	.53⅞	.60¼

The apparent independence of the market to the current trade news is puzzling to many traders. Prior to yesterday dust storms had been raging for five days in some sections of the winter wheat belt and crop prospects registered marked depreciation. In the face of this, however, the market was indifferent when normally some "bulling" of wheat might have been anticipated.

Thus yesterday's modest recovery could hardly be attributed entirely to further information on crop damage previously reported. Instead the market's action appeared a "technical" movement and the confusion of traders over the probable market trend is as great as ever.

HOGS DECLINE AS PORK BREAKS, RECEIPTS GAIN

A mild increase in receipts, coupled with another sharp decline in fresh pork precipitated a severe break in hogs yesterday. Top sales fell 25 cents and the average dropped 30 cents. Current quotations are 75 to 85 cents under two weeks ago.

The undertone to the market has not been healthy since live costs of hogs soared to $12 two weeks ago, processing tax included, and drove retail pork prices beyond the level the consumer was able to pay.

Most packers obtained their droves of good to choice 250 to 300 pound butchers at $11.00 to $11.10, tax included, in late trading. Only selected 190 to 225 pound averages reached $11.15 to $11.25 after the first rounds. The average was $11.65.

Cattle declined 15 to 25 cents further. Some stock carried over from last week carried bids $1 lower. Quality was rather plain and the top was $13.59. Only a very small share of the receipts sold above $12, while the bulk of the day's crop changed hands at $7.50 to $12.

Top grades of calves held steady, but light calves tumbled 50 cents to $1 late in the day.

Choice lambs were scarce, but declined 5 to 10 cents. Others fell 15 to 25 cents. City butchers paid up to $8.60, and shippers bought at $8.50. Packers paid $8 to $8.40 for the bulk.

COTTON STAGES SHARP REBOUND AS EUROPE BUYS

Congress' Action on Doxey Bills Also Factor.

Cotton experienced a marked recovery in prices in the principal markets yesterday. On the Chicago Board of Trade and on other exchanges the advance in future contracts amounted to nearly a third of a cent a pound, or around $1.50 a bale.

Passage of the Doxey bill by the house of representatives shortly before the close of trading gave added impetus to the advancing market. The initial impulse for advancing prices came from Liverpool, where a sharp upturn preceded the opening of trading in the markets here.

Liverpool Prices Advance.

In Liverpool cotton opened 31 to 37 points higher and trading was heavy throughout the day as reports were received that European traders who had sold out their holdings were reinstating their lines.

The American markets followed the example of the English exchange and prices turned upward. In Chicago the closing range of prices on futures was 29 to 32 points, in New York gains of 29 to 35 points were chalked up, and New Orleans quotations were bid up 32 to 27 points.

Earlier in the day Senator Smith [Dem., S. C.], one of the leaders of the cotton group, said legislation would be pushed which would provide a 1935 cotton quota of 10,000,000 bales and abolition of the cotton processing tax, and the substitution of benefit payments out of relief funds.

Smith made his announcement after a conference with other senators from the cotton states. Under the program of this group the 12 cent a pound government loans on cotton would be continued and made applicable to the 1935 crop. No loans would be made to farmers in excess of their allotted production quota and the 50 per cent tax on the excess cotton grown would be maintained.

The range of prices in the principal domestic markets yesterday follows [cents per pound]:

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 19.—[Special.]—Cotton production in Illinois was "protected" in an amendment that was included in cotton control legislation adopted by the house of representatives today. The bill exempted producers of three bales of cotton or less from the AAA ginning tax.

Representative Kent E. Keller [Dem., Ill.], who represents "little Egypt" at the southern tip of the state, succeeded in the adoption of an amendment that any state that in the last 10 years has grown 5,000 bales should not be allotted less than 4,000 bales by the Agricultural Adjustment administration.

Last year Illinois produced 4,500 bales of cotton but in previous years the state has topped 5,000.

A bill to amend the Agricultural Adjustment act in connection with the processing tax on hogs was introduced by Representative Everett M. Dirksen [Rep., Ill.]. The amendment provided that no tax should be required on the processing of hogs by the producer if the amount in any one year is not in excess of 2,000 pounds, live weight. Dirksen said that 2,000 pounds in hogs was of about the same value as the three bales of cotton. At present the AAA has the authority to exempt hog production from processing taxes only up to 300 pounds.

LEARN BEAUTY CULTURE

The Profession protected by State Law and the Code that guarantees salaries and commissions.

If you question your ability to learn let your handwriting analysis by Lorne A. Milne, the Nationally known Graphologist, prove your worth.

As an attraction, we will give a handsome $5.00 Wahl Fountain Pen to the one whose handwriting shows the most aptitude for this work.

Write the following sentence on a separate sheet, giving plainly your name and address.

HERE IS THE SENTENCE: "I WOULD LIKE TO LEARN THIS CLEAN INSIDE WORK."

Now if you question "where to learn" just be guided by that magic word in Beauty Culture—MOLER. Open Day and Evening.

MOLER SYSTEM

59 E. Monroe. Cent. 6393

NEAR NORTH SIDE

It's very nice when you close your desk at the end of the day to know that after a short, brisk walk, just 5 blocks north of the river, you will come to a studio in a quaint little lamp-lighted court that makes you feel far away from Chicago, or a bungalow tucked away in a little Pomander Walk that no one knows about or a little top floor flat with a huge 35 ft. living room, or a roof garden, or a place where a whole family can live. Some with lofty ceilings and sun kissed rooms, all with fireplaces, all interesting; a little charm about them that makes you glad you live there. You are home long before most of your friends, with a full evening before you. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 7 rooms. Also shop space. COOK ESTATE.
